Efforts Under Way To Help Dairy Farmers With Bottom-Line Skills

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A group of dairy industry leaders that included a few producers convened in an ad hoc committee meeting at the PDA building Tuesday. The meeting was an outgrowth of the Dairy Futures Forum held in State College in early June where those concerned for the future of the dairy industry in Pennsylvania began an intensive effort to develop a unified voice for the state's leading industry.

The meeting this week, under the chairmanship of Robert Reich, was called to explore ways to enhance Pennsylvania's milk pro-

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Farmers in the Susquehanna River Basin can be assured that they are being listened to by the members of the Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC), according to its secretary and general counsel.

The members of the SRBC met July 14 at Easton, Maryland, and agreed to direct its staff to consider alternatives to its proposal to charge consumptive fees to agricultural users of water within the basin.

More specifically, according to Richard Cairo, secretary and general counsel, the staff was directed to look at non-fee ways of including agriculture into the management of flows within the basin.

"This represents quite a response by the commission to the outpouring from agriculture," Cairo said, referring to the large and significant response from a variety of agricultural concerns

The Schwartzbecks Find Peace And Plenty

LOIS SZYMANSKI
Maryland Correspondent

UNION BRIDGE, Md. -- Cows brought them together and cows still fill their everyday lives. When Nona and Joe Schwartzbeck first met it was at a county fair and each of them showing their cows. Soon, Joe bought his first Holstein from Nona. She would stop in every day to see if the heifer was fresh yet. Soon she got to know the young Schwartzbeck...and the rest is history.

Now, Nona and Joe and their sons Richard, (Gus) and Shane operate their 500-acre farm, "Peace and Plenty" in Union Bridge, Maryland. At the recent Red and White International Show held in Timonium, Maryland on April 11, Gus won Grand Champion with Ladies Continental

JULY 20, 1994

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest was generally light and unaggressive. Offerings were at least adequate on everything with bone-in breasts, legs, and leg quarters usually in the longest position. Some interest was developing as prices became increasingly competitive, however, dealers were having a difficult time in securing product at desired price levels. Most traders continued to work with minimal floor stocks.

WHEN IT'S HOT...

your layers will still be comfortable if you have the Big Dutchman Slot-Aire Layer Cage System.

Extremely hot temperatures during the week of June 13 caused many layer flocks to have high mortality and less eggs.

The superior design of the Big Dutchman Slot-Aire System kept this flock well ahead of the "Breeder Standard" - even during hot weather.
ONLY Big Dutchman has Slot-Aire.

At 42 weeks, this Dekalb Delta flock of 45,581 birds produced more eggs with less feed than average flocks. This adds up to more profits over the life of the flock.

ANOTHER MEMORABLE WEDDING

In recent years, many engaged couples have customized their weddings often going to great lengths to insure a uniquely personalized event Certainly the late 1960s heralded a trend toward unusual wedding ceremonies But the precedent was actually set long before the show-stopping Sixties The first airplane wedding took place on July 26, 1919 over Sheepshead Bay Speedway in New York City The bride Miss Emily Schaeffer of Sea Gate N Y and her groom Lt George Burgess of the U S Army Aviation Corps were in one plane while the minister Rev Alexander Wouters, and his pilot were in another Guests were in the grandstand below, listening to the ceremony over amplifiers

Marriage is the only adventure open to the cowardly. — Voltaire

TIP OF THE WEEK

Try a fitted crib sheet as a tablecloth for your picnic table — the elastic keeps it from blowing away.

EARTHWISE

It seems like you're mowing the lawn every time you turn around maybe you're trying to keep the grass too short Healthy lawns should be 2 to 3 inches high not golf course short Longer grass blades encourage healthier roots and provide natural shade for the ground around each grass plant This reduces water loss through evaporation — especially important during hot dry spells So set your mower blades high and enjoy more of your summer

SWEET AND SOUR GREEN BEANS

- 1 pound green beans, cut up
- 3 slices bacon
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- dash pepper

Cook beans in boiling water until tender drain While beans are cooking, fry bacon until crisp Remove bacon Saute onions in drippings until tender Add vinegar sugar, salt, and pepper and bring to a boil Pour over hot beans and stir well Spoon into serving dish and crumble bacon on top

Makes 6 servings.

OPINION

The Coming Boom In American Agriculture

We hear so many negative things about the future of American agriculture that a Hudson Institute briefing paper that reports the speech by Dr. Thomas Duesterberg at their 1994 agriculture conference is refreshing. Duesterburg believes American agriculture is poised to become a powerful export-driven growth industry in the upcoming decades. As developing nations expand their economies--particularly in Asia and Latin America--American farmers, clearly the most productive and efficient in the world, will be able to meet these nations' increased demands for food.

The briefing paper lists a number of advantages that our agriculture has over its competitors.

- We have more prime cropland per capita than any nation except Argentina, even after taking more than 200 million acres out of crop production since 1970 in response to increased productivity and various acreage-reduction programs.
- We have fewer climatic constraints than our competitors.
- We have the best technically trained farm managers.
- We have the most entrepreneurially trained farm managers.
- We have by far the world's best infrastructure, with road, rails, ports, phone lines, and satellite systems already available to serve every farm.
- We have superb agricultural research facilities and a huge lead in biotechnology.
- We have by far the most efficient food processing in the world.

In addition to all the above, our farmers have already begun to place heavier emphasis on protein foods, fruits, and vegetables. We know what consumers want, and we have the competitive advantage to give them what they want.

The opportunities for the future are real, but we must take advantage of it. Substantial work and a concerted effort to counteract the old forces of protectionism, subsidy, and regulation will be needed. But the American farmer and agribusiness producer have just what we need to succeed. That's why there is reason to be optimistic about the future of American agriculture as we approach the twenty-first century.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Prepare For Late Summer Seedings

Are some of your hay stands thinning out? Do you need to establish desirable pastures?

The ideal time for making many grass and legume seedings is August and September. Best results may be expected if you correct soil pH and control perennial weed problems well in advance of planting.

If you suspect low pH, sample the soil now and apply 1 to 2 tons of lime per acre. This will give sometime for the lime to start working before planting. When you receive the soil test results, subtract what you have already spread and apply the balance.

By planting in the fall, we usually have enough moisture to germinate seeds and time to establish a good stand before winter arrives. Come spring, the new seeding should be off to a running start and better able to withstand the stress of summer droughts.

To Tackle Food Safety Head On

E. coli has replaced Salmonella in the news. The safety of eating ground beef is being questioned.

First, we need to emphasize that proper handling and cooking controls E. coli and Salmonella. Secondly, agriculture needs to learn a lesson from the egg industry. All segments of agriculture need to work with government, universities, cooperative extension, and food service in developing a food safety program. Industry needs to take the lead.

Gary Smith, professor of meat science at Colorado State University, states the meat industry cannot afford to leave the job of food safety to the government. He believes that if the meat industry wants the job done and done right, it has little choice but to tackle it.

Smith believes that governments do not have the wherewithal to work on these problems and would prefer to just say do not eat certain foods because they are dangerous to your health.

The industry needs to fund research and educational programs to address food safety and bacterial contamination from farm to the consumer table. The sooner the industry starts, the better you will be able to protect your markets.

The egg industry has proven it can be done. Commodity leaders should look at the egg model and start adapting it to their commodity.

To Keep Cows' Dry Matter Intake Up

According to Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, the hot, dry days of summer may cause the cow's dry matter intake to drop significantly. There are several reasons for this:

- Pastures dry up in hot weather. There is less feed for cows to consume and what is consumed may be less palatable and less nutritious. In this case, it may be beneficial to increase barn feeding rates.
- Cows are too hot to eat. If this is true, feed more grain if you are not already at maximum levels. Increase the nutrient density of the ration. Feed most of the forages during the cooler hours of the evening.
- In hot weather, cows are more interested in lying in the shade or next to a supply of good quality water than consuming feed. Therefore, supply water to pasture lots being grazed and close to feeding areas.

House cattle in a well-ventilated dairy barn during the heat of the day where they have convenient access to feed and water plus a clean, comfortable place to rest.

- Feeds start to deteriorate in the bunk. This is especially true of ensiled feeds. Keep feed fresh by feeding them frequently and keeping the manger clean.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "You become successful the moment you start moving toward a worthwhile goal."

This open letter proposes an idea that Dan Delp, Hagerstown, MD, has for a portable milking parlor. So far, he has not received approval from the state health department, but he is making his case in an attempt to get this approval.

Editor:

In May of 1993 I began producing milk with intensive grazing as the main source of forage. In the past, our cows were fed a total mix ration. Cows were also fed individually with computer feeder, housed in a free stall barn and milked in a conventional parlor. With this system young cows became old quickly (one third of the total herd was replaced yearly). Feed costs were high and profit, if any was realized, was very low. There was a high concentration of

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

BREAKING LOOSE

BREAKING LOOSE
July 24, 1994

Background Scripture:
Exodus 32; 34:1-10
Devotional Reading:
Numbers 12:1-16

There are a lot of characterizations of God in Exodus 32 and 34 that are obviously quite contrary to the God we meet in Jesus Christ. I could "write around them," but I won't.

The God of these passages is a mercurial God: ". . . now therefore let me alone, that my wrath may burn hot against them and I may consume them. . ." (32:10a). He is also a God susceptible to argumentation. Moses argues, "Why should the Egyptians say, 'With evil intent did he bring them forth, to slay them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth' . . . repent of this evil against thy people . . ." (32:11,12). The writer tells us that God is persuaded by Moses' argument: "And the Lord repented of the evil which he thought to do his people" (32:14).

Nor does Moses present us witih a Christlike model. When he returns from the mountain, we are told that "all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together to him. . ." (32:26). And Moses gave them a chilling assignment: "And the sons of Levi did according to the word of Moses; and there fell for the people that day about three thousand men (32:28). Then, when Moses asks God to forgive the people, God refuese: "Whoever has sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." ". . . And the Lord sent a plague upon the people, because they made the calf. . ." (32:33,35). And then there is one more passage that sticks in my throat like a bone: "a God . . . who will by no means clear the guilty, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children and the children's children, to the third and fourth generation" (34:8).

I have cited these passages simply to show that the ancient Israelite understanding of God is radically different than the God revealed in Jesus Christ. To try to paste the God of Exodus together with the God of the Four Gospels is a hopeless, fruitless task. So what do we do with the Book of Exodus? I look upon it as the testimony of a view of God that is instructive, but incomplete and immature. There is much we can learn from it, but our understanding of God cannot end with the Book of Exodus.

The scripture passages upon which the Uniform Bible Lesson series and "The Bible Speaks" is based are selected by an interdenominational committee. These particular passages from Exodus 32 and 34 were selected as representing Biblical teaching about forgiveness. I must respectfully disagree: what these passaages tell us about forgiveness is quite contrary to what Jesus teaches us. (I was interested to discover that in my various Bible commentaries, the scholars chose to ignore the violent atrocities by Moses and the Levites. I understand that: they are embarrassing.

To me, then, these passages speak, not so much of forgiveness as they do sin and what it does to one's relationship with God. This is illustrated in 32:25 when the writer tells us, "And when Moses saw that the people had broken loose (for Aaron had let them break loose), then Moses stood in the gate of the camp and said, "Who is on the Lord's side?"

This is an interesting term "broken loose." I cannot recall coming across it anywhere else in the Bible. Yet it is very descriptive of what happens when we become impatient for God to act, when we demand satisfaction now, when we are unwilling to trust and obey him. The conection between God and ourselves is broken by our willful disobedience. The worst thing about sin is not that God will punish us, but that we have cut ourselves off from him. Breaking loose from God is the worst thing we can do to ourselves. Fortunately, there is a way to be connected with Him again — and it doesn't take three or four generations.

TRI COUNTY

SALES SERVICE QUALITY INSTALLATION

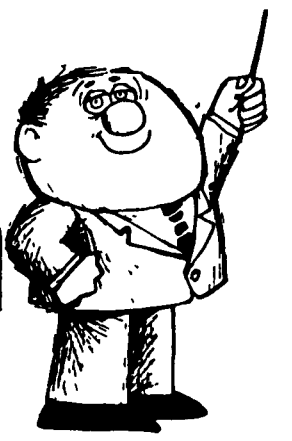
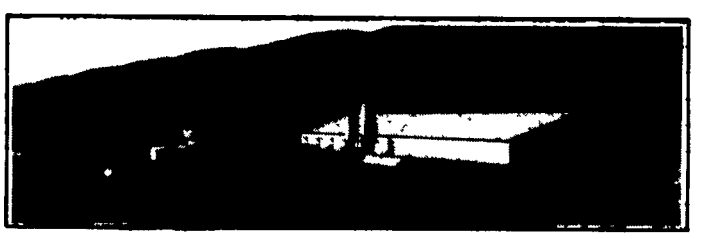
SWINE CONFINEMENT EQUIPMENT and FACILITIES LEADER

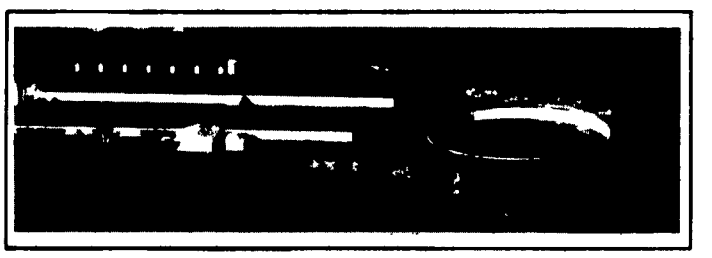


PIG SAVER "DUTCH CRATE"
Developed through testing in our research farms the goal was to develop a crate that nearly eliminates crushing, due to lay ons, unmatched durability and be easy to work around. All this has been achieved by a unique gravity fliprail that forces sows to lie down slowly and using stainless steel for rear doors and legs, proven horizontal and solid steel rod construction. All this at a reasonable cost. Crate also can be installed on an angle.

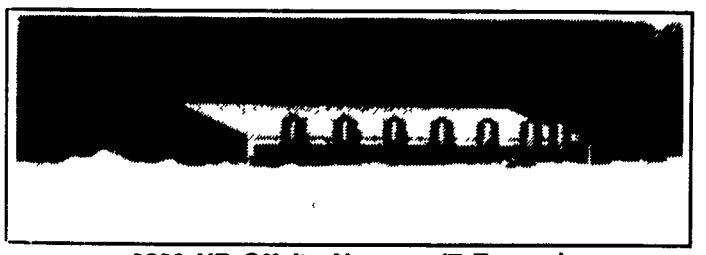


300 Sow Farrow - Feeder Pig Unit

CONFINEMENT STALLS
Developed in our R&D farm. Our goals were convenience, safety and durability. The low back and flat top rails are easy to reach over with no sharp edges. Stainless steel rear legs and front feet along with solid steel horizontal rods through punched uprights provide the strongest, most durable stall ever produced by Tri-County (21"-24" O.C. x86")



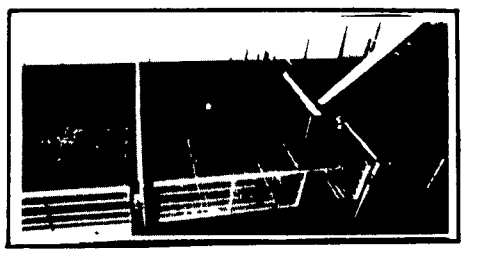
1200 Sow Farrow-Feeder Pig Unit



2800 HP Offsite Nursery (7 Rooms)
(Pull Plug, Preferated Ceiling Ventilated)

2000 Head Finisher (2 Rooms)
(Deep Pit, Tunnel Ventilated)

NURSERY PENNING
Nursery penning has been improved by the use of an optional solid stainless steel panel on the front gates which keeps walkways clean. Stainless steel feet on penning eliminate corrosion where penning attaches to the floor. Stainless steel drinker pipes & mounting brackets also increase durability.



FINISHING PENNING
Standard stainless steel feet and fasteners offer improved durability over other similar types of penning. Loop and flapper latch arrangement eliminates the use of drop pins. Stainless steel fence line feeders provide excellent durability and a minimum of waste.

Lancaster Farming Staff

RONKS (Lancaster Co.) — The creak of wheels turning, the swish of water rolling over the water wheel, and the faint aroma of stone ground wheat transport visitors back in time.

"I suspect we do things just about the way they did them 142 years ago," Christian L. Landis said.

A slight dusting of flour rests on the wooden wheels, pulleys, ropes, heavy belts, and wooden gears all in working order at Rohrer's Mill, located near the Strasburg Railroad.

Landis believes his mill is the last one in the county to remain non-mechanized.

People come from all over the United States, from Africa, Japan, and Europe to visit the mill that was built in 1852.

It is believed to be the site of a mill that was built during the early settlement in the county, but written history can only trace it back to 1834 when Henry Rohrer purchased the frame mill from the Denlinger family. Rohrer replaced the frame structure with a large brick grist and saw mill that has been in the Rohrer family for seven generations. Henry Rohrer was the great-great-great-great grandfather of Landis' wife Esther. It is through Esther's side of the family that the farm has been passed down through the generations.

The mill was built on the family's 133-acre farm, one mile south of Route 741, along Calamus Run in Paradise Township.

Esther said the creek was named Calamus Run because so much calamus reed grew on the riverbanks.

A dam is built at the stream that feeds into a race and a pond. The water is then piped into a water tank, which feeds the waterwheel.

The couple married in 1940 and farmed on another family farm for about three years before moving to the mill location. Landis farmed the land until 1968, when his father-in-law retired and Landis took over the mill duties.

The pulleys and wheels are all water powered except for the diesel engine used for the hammer mill. The only mechanized machinery in the mill is the mechanical sewer used to tie flour bags.

Landis said that, to his knowledge, modernizing the mill was never considered as a possibility. It certainly is not a consideration now.

"It's so old now that it is of historical interest," Landis said as he talked of the articles written and pictures taken of the mill.

Things have slowed down a bit from 1930s when business was at its peak with about 13,000 bushels of wheat ground into cracked wheat and whole wheat pastry flour. Then, the waterwheel also operated a saw mill in the front part of the feed mill.

Although the hum of the saw mill has long ceased, Landis said, "Everything is there that could put it back into use."

Even wooden signs informing customers of log milling rules and prices are still posted. One reads: Sawing off nails — $1.00 per nail.

"You know what nails do to saws," Landis said. "If they hit a nail, it ruined the blade and they had to stop to sharpen it."

Now the mill primarily grinds the corn and wheat grown on the property. The flour is bagged and sold to local stores and co-ops.

The two large millstones that stone-grind the corn and wheat are encassed in a round wooden structure. Stone-ground meal is sought after by food connoisseurs and those interested in the nutritional value of whole grain products.

For customers interested in a fin-

Christian and Esther Landis walk in front of the mill that has been passed down through Esther's side of the family, the Rohrers, since 1834.

The gentle slap of the waterwheel can be heard throughout the mill as its power grinds cornmeal and flour.

The frame part of the mill was purchased by the Rohrer family in 1834. Later, Rohrer replaced it with a brick grist and sawmill and enlarged it with an addition, in which a 15 horse-power engine was installed. The mill operates today just as it had in the 1800s, with power from a waterwheel.

Pulleys, ropes, wheels, and belts throughout the mill are rigged to provide power and hoist 100-pound feed bags from the bottom level to the top.

Christian Landis ties flour bags with the only mechanized item in the mill.

enscent Of Bygone Era

er grain product, a hammer mill powered by a diesel engine is used to grind fine whole wheat flour, cornmeal, and rye flours.

Landis bags flour into five- to 100-pound bags for those interested in purchasing flour. White flour and other varieties such as rye, rolled oats, and brown sugar are purchased from other mills for resale.

A few local farmers bring corn in to be ground for their personal use. Landis delivers his product locally.

"This is better for me at my age," Landis said of the slower-paced activity at the mill. He opens at 7 a.m. Monday through Saturday. He has no set day for grinding.

"I grind whenever it gets low," he said.

Old wooden gears and heavy belts sometimes break. Landis can patch most of it himself. As far as getting replacement parts, he said, "There are still machine shops around."

Ocassionally the water wheel becomes frozen in winter. Then the hammermill's diesel engine can be connected to run the waterwheel.

Memorabilia such as jute feedbags, old tools, wire sieves, and old saws of bygone days hang on the walls.

The saws are from the era when the mill also sawed ice and stored it in the nearby ice house, where sawdust was used to insulate the ice.

"It was cut and stored in the winter and kept for use until July or August," Esther said.

At one time, the waterwheel was hooked up to thresh wheat and shred corn fodder in the barns. It was even used to hoist hay into the barn.

The lowel level of the mill is stone and the upper levels are built of brick.

Wooden barrels, wooden wheels, pulleys, and boards of all sizes add interest to the inside brick walls of the mill.

Landis is 79 years old. When asked how long he plans to continue working in the mill, he answered, "The Lord says one shouldn't boast about tomorrow."

His wife said, "He'll stay until he's able."

The farm has two large homes and two tenant homes on the property. Son James, who farms the land, lives in the white stone house that is believed to have been built in the late 1700s. Esther and her husband had lived in that house until they transferred the farm to their son James. The elder couple then moved into the brick house on the property.

Another son Clair and his family live on a dairy farm in Strasburg, which is also a century farm passed down through the generations. A daughter, Nancy, works at the Amish Farm, which belongs to Landis's family.

For more information on the mill and the flours sold, contact the Rohrers at 273 Rohrer Mill Road, Ronks, PA 17572 or call (717) 687-6400.

Here is a recipe that they hand out with bags of the stone ground cornmeal mixed with whole wheat flour.

CORN BREAD OR MUFFINS

1 cup yellow roasted cornmeal
1 cup stone ground whole wheat flour

Add:

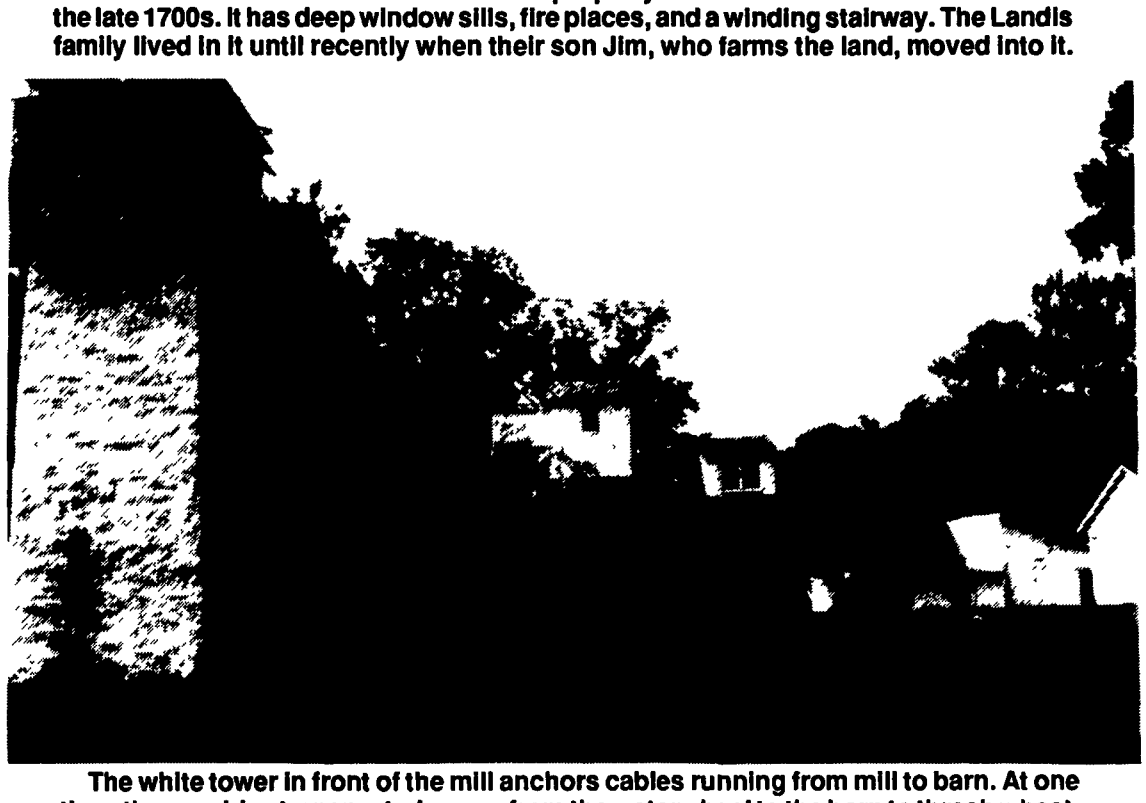
¼ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder

Stir and add:

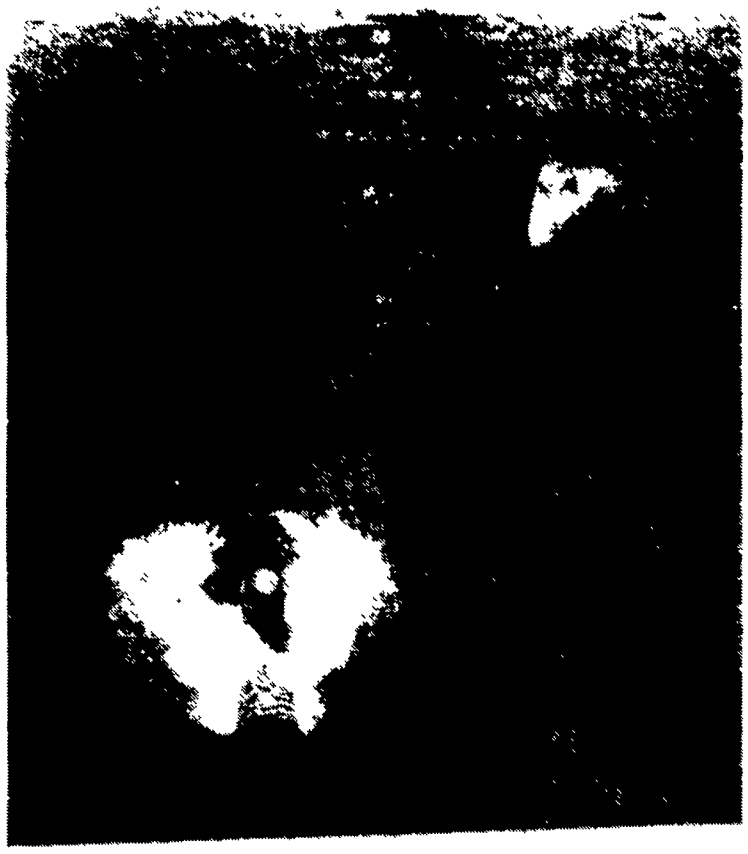
2 beaten eggs
¼ cup oil
1 cup milk

Mix together ingredients. Pour batter into a 8-inch pan or a 12-cup muffin tin. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes.

This is the oldest of four homes on the property. It is believed to have been built in the late 1700s. It has deep window sills, fire places, and a winding stairway. The Landis family lived in it until recently when their son Jim, who farms the land, moved into it.



The white tower in front of the mill anchors cables running from mill to barn. At one time, these cables transported power from the waterwheel to the barn to thresh wheat, shred fodder, and hoist hay.



Ponds and the race on the property have ducks and swans swimming in them. Lush green grass grows and a tangle of evergreens and shrubbery grows along the riverbanks.

The mill offers stoneground whole wheat and cornmeal in addition to a variety of bread and pastry flours. Esther stands at the display of rye, wheat germ, rolled oats, corn muffin mix, brown sugar, oat bran and wheat bran, which are also sold to customers who stop by.

Agronomic Field Clinic July 26

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State's 1994 Agronomic Field Diagnostic Clinic and Farmer Appreciation Day will take place Tuesday, July 26, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Agronomy Research Farm at Penn State's Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center in Rockspring. The Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center is located nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45.

"The field day is designed to help farmers improve their agronomic management skills," said Dr. William Curran, assistant professor of weed science in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "Penn State specialists will provide hands-on diagnostic training in crop production, soil fertility, and pest management. There will be plenty of opportunities for questions and discussions."

Topics will include corn growth and development; identification of off-types of corn; soybean varieties, populations, and row spacings; forage yields; and calculation of forage moisture content.

Also covered will be the effectiveness of row cleaners in high-residue fields and diagnosis of soil fertility problems. Pest-management topics will include managing corn rootworm, diagnosing corn leaf diseases, understanding and choosing herbicides, and identifying weeds.

To register, call the Conferences and Short Courses Office, (814) 865-8301, or obtain a registration form from your local cooperative extension office. Mail completed forms to Field Diagnostic Clinic, Conferences and Short Courses, The Pennsylvania State University, 306 Agricultural Administration, University Park, PA 16802.

Baytan® 30 for wheat

Gives you effective early season protection against powdery mildew. And MORE.

Baytan 30 fungicide seed treatment is worth the money for powdery mildew protection alone. And it's worth the money if you haven't seen powdery mildew in 10 years. That's because Baytan 30 enhances the overall health of your wheat and delivers more benefits than do other seed treatment products:

MORE extensive, fibrous roots
MORE tillering
MORE disease protection
MORE yields

If you are trying to maximize your yields, then Baytan 30 is the perfect fit. For more information on having your seed treated with Baytan 30, contact the certified Baytan 30 conditioner near you, or Gustafson at 800-248-3963.

Bill Would Establish Pa. Turnpike Farmers' Markets

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

WEST LAWN (Berks Co.) — Produce farmers may have something to smile about if a proposed bill to set up farmers markets along the Pennsylvania Turnpike passes.

Rep. Sheila Miller (R-129th) has introduced legislation, H.B. 2880, into the General Assembly, to allow for the establishment of markets on select sites of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The bill, called the Turnpike Farmers' Market Access Act, referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Rural Affairs on June 8, would allow Pennsylvania produce farmers to tap into an "extraordinary amount of interstate traffic on Pennsylvania's turnpike," according to a release from Miller's office.

In a telephone interview with Lancaster Farming, Miller said she received a lot of support for the bill from the state's turnpike commission.

The bill would provide an agreement between the commission and the Pa. Dept. of Agriculture to provide for the operation of markets at turnpike service areas, tollbooth areas, and other areas along the turnpike "deemed safe and feasible by the commission, by persons who have received a permit from the department, with the approval of the commission, to operate a turnpike farmers' market on a dairy or seasonal basis for the term of the permit." The agreements shall be for terms "of not more than five years and may be renewed for terms of not more than five years."

The commission would have to establish a fee for the permit.

Plans would be made for farmers to select sites through a pass system, as service agencies receive, for access to the turnpike.

Prices of items would be established by the sellers.

Bill Troxell, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, said growers might be interested in becoming involved with the produce markets, but more information needs to be available.

Troxell said that he had seen a farmer's market stand at one time near an exit of a major highway in New Jersey which was successful.

Miller said the program was modeled after the New York state system, in which several interstates allow farmers' markets.

"We just came up with the idea and molded it for Pennsylvania," she said.

If the bill passes, Miller's plan is to have at least two markets up and running in 1995. One of them would be on the exit beyond the western tunnels and the other, near Philadelphia, possibly somewhere along the northeast extension.

Miller has met with the state farm bureau and the Grange to obtain input from farmers on the proposed bill.

Farmers could benefit in a big way from the turnpike markets, according to Jonda Crosby, core team member of the Regional Infrastructure For Sustaining Agriculture (RISA).

"Will it fulfill a purpose?" said Crosby. "It has a potential. The question is, will people stop and purchase produce on the turnpike?

"Even if it is just 20 people (that the markets reach), that's 20 people who haven't had an outlet for produce," she said.

Crosby indicated that RISA, a parnership involving Rodale, Penn State, and other agencies and institutions, would be interested in promoting the legislation.

The bill has until Nov. 30 this year to be considered. Miller said she would reintroduce legislation in January if necessary.

SRBC Tells Staff

during a series of public hearings held prior to the July 14 SRBC meeting. The hearings were held to gather input about the impact of regulations as proposed in the June 8, 1994 issue of the Federal Register (Vol. 59 No. 109, page 29563).

While there were a number of comments already presented during the early hearings, the gist of comments by representatives from agriculture were similar to the position of the state Department of Agriculture.

PDA's response to the proposal was that, while applauding the effort to manage the life-sustaining resource that the water in the basin is, agriculture should be exempt from having to pay for the use of water, and also from having to pay for the monitoring and application for the use.

The PDA also asked for an extension on the amount of time that the public can provide comment on the proposed regulations. That extension was granted by the commission. The comment period has been extended from August 1 to Sept. 1, 1994.

Cairo said the response from the commission means that the staff is "taking a new direction" in the way it is to approach agricultural consumptive uses of water within the basin.

"I thinks it demonstrates the responsiveness of the commission to agriculture," Cairo said.

Actually, the commission's decision came prior to the full run of eight scheduled public hearings on a set of proposed regulations that the commission staff had designed in order to control the use of water within the basin.

At primary issue is the withdrawal of waters in the basin for consumptive uses. Consumptive uses are those that do not return the water to the flows of the basin, but rather eliminate it through a variety of means, such as evapotranspiration.

Based on a historic low flow, estimates are that 40 percent of the water in the Susquehanna River currently would never reach the Chesapeake Bay based on known consumptive uses. At the present rate of consumptive use, it is projected that after the year 2000, that would increase to more than 60 percent of the river's flow.

The commission is an autonomous inter-governmental pact formed in 1971 to manage the flow of water in the basin. The commission is seated by the respective heads of the environmental agencies for Pennsylvania, Maryland and New York.

Included in a several-piece draft of the commission's proposed changes to regulations is a limit on the amount of free water that could be used by agriculturalists to feed livestock or water plants.

While most traditional farming techniques used in the basin do not exceed the threshhold for free consumptive use, there are an increasing number of non-traditional operations which do consume quantities of water in excess of the proposed threshhold.

However, since the majority of farms, because of the acres of open lands used for animal and plant production, also serve as significant contributors to groundwater recharge, as opposed to residential water consumers, it has been argued that agriculture should be exempt from the regulations which require compensation.

According to Richard Cairo, the staff will be making some significant changes to the proposed regulations which will require another series of public hearings. Therefore, the extension for comment on the current proposal was not made as lengthy, in order to move on with getting the new proposals, yet to be developed, out before the public.

Cairo said Thursday, during a telephone interview that "... after getting the basic concepts together, we will get people from the ag committee (to the SRBC) to look it over, and then call a meeting of the full ag committee.

"We will have to repropose and will have to hold hearings again. (The commission) made a change in direction, (the staff got) clear instructions to go back and (redraft)."

Included with the regular meeting report issued this week was a special announcement that outlined the background of the situation and reported on possible direction that the staff may take in redrafting.

"As a result of (public hearing input), the commission unanimously supported a motion by Commissioner Caren Glotfelty (who is the alternate commission member for state DER Secretary Arthur Davis) which directed staff to develop a new approach to regulating consumptive water use by agriculture.

"The commissioners directed staff to convene a group of representatives of the agricultural community to discuss potential options for revision of the proposed consumptive use regulation as it affects agricultural consumptive uses,

CIBA Introduces New, Enhanced Products

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — On Tuesday, CIBA-Geigy Corporation introduced about 100 area agronomists to three new products the company is marketing nationwide in 1995 for use with corn and soybeans.

The event was held at the Milton Hershey School Farm, in Hershey, where demonstration plots comprised a number of acres near the farm.

The theme of the meeting was, "Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow," and reviewed the chronological highlights of the 236-year-old company, especially in offering pesticides.

The review of the introduction of farm pesticides and herbicides wasn't entirely a direct promotion of the company's products, but an overview of the changes that have occured since, such as significant reductions in recommended or allowable amounts to be used, plant resistance and the weed pests which grew to prominence.

The representatives said that while foxtail was a major concern, it had been successfully battled, but then fall panacum became a major weed. After chemicals were introduced to eliminate fall panacum, herbicide-resistant pigweed became the next major weed of wide concern, followed by lambsquarter.

But with declining rates of applications, due to environmental considerations, ragweek, velvetweed and Canadian thistle became common pests.

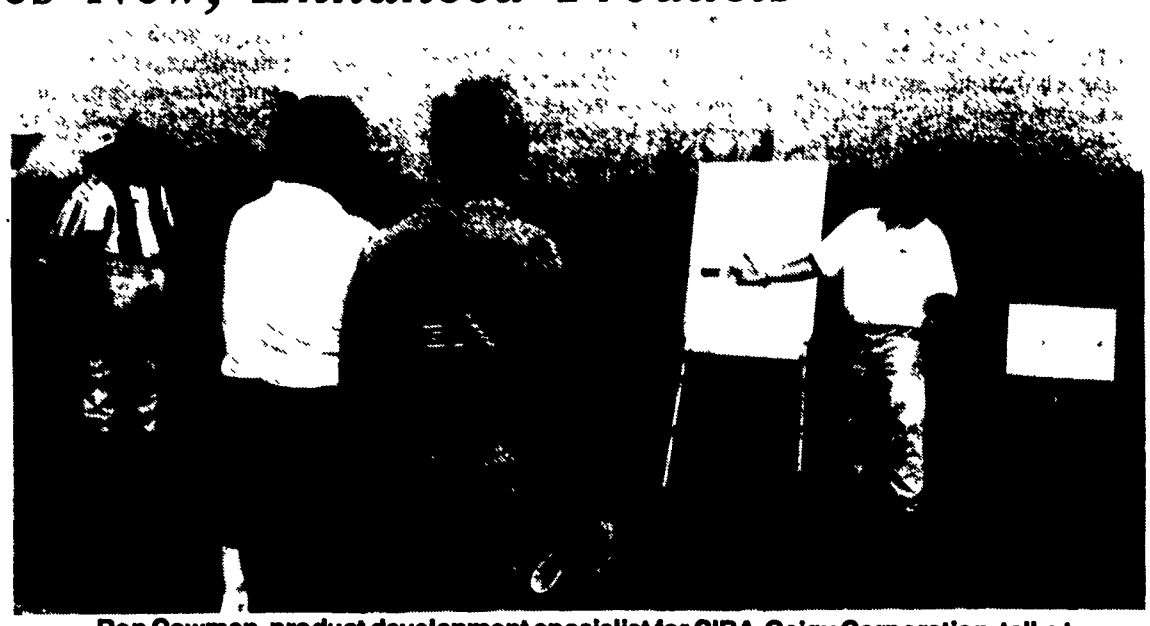
The future pests, according to the CIBA representatives, are most likely to be perennials and that they expect to see more use of post-emergent herbicides.

The all day presentation also carried with it a golfing theme, and began with a general introduction and weed identification game.

In golfing, many warm up by practicing short shots on puting greens that courses build for that purpose.

For the CIBA presentation, the weed identification game was designed similar to a practice-puting green. The participants were given a "scorecard" sheet and 18 different sites where they were to determine weeds, by actual immature plant.

A weed identification key — a deductive analytical tool used to get a working identification based on either the presence or lack of certain visible traits — was given to each participant.



Ron Cowman, product development specialist for CIBA-Geigy Corporation, talks to a crowd of agronomists at a field research site at Milton Hershey School Farm.

But, there were also a few weeds in the contest for which identification clues were not included in the key.

The point of the weed identification was to reinforce the concept of identifying weeds correctly before applying any herbicide.

The company spokespeople then explained that the new products include one for use as a broadcast post-emergent broadleaf herbicide for field, pop and sweet corns. The herbicide reportedly can be applied when the corn plant is from 3 inches tall up to 48 inches tall, and, has properties which reduce drift.

However, representatives stressed that spray-boom height should be maintained at a 19- to 20-inch height above plants to prevent damage to corn.

The other new products to be introduced are really modifications of existing herbicides with the addition of an ingredient which enhances the corn plant's ability to break down metolachor, the active ingredient in the herbicides.

Specifically, the representatives said that while corn is a grass, the grass-killer chemicals are broken down naturally by a chemical within the corn plant. To enhance the protection of the corn, the new herbicides multiply the effectiveness of corn's natural herbicide fighting abilities.

They said that weed grasses do not contain any of the protective chemical that corn plant's possess, thus do not receive any enhanced abilities to resist the herbicides.

Poultry Open House Draws 450

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — The high-rise cage layer open house at the farm of Rick and Kathy Noll and children Taylor, 4, and Chase, 2, featured "the best of everything we know to put in here." Larry Horst, sales representative for King Construction and Northeast Agri Systems, Inc., said each of the two 108,000 new houses has the new style 53.3 sq. ft. cage with dropping boards to give the six layers per cage more room. The second house is still under construction.

Computers control the operation. For example, the water usage per row is monitored. And air flow is controlled so that environmental air within each building is completely changed every 45 seconds. Temperatures from the top of the four tier rows to the bottom do not vary more than one or two degrees. There are six rows of cages per house.

In addition, the feeding system and the egg collection system are computer-controlled to serve the birds and bring eggs to the packer in proper quantities to keep things moving.

"This speaks well for the future of the egg business," Horst said. "You just can't raise the technology level in high rise layer houses above the level in these houses."

The eggs are under contract with Sauder Eggs in Lititz. An estimated 450 people visited the new poultry complex that was open for the entire day.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Dairy Princesses Represent Pennsylvania Counties

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co) — County dairy princesses from across the state gathered recently to learn how to do an effective job promoting the dairy industry. The three-day training seminar held at Lycoming College was a cram course in learning about the industry and implementing ideas to increase dairy product consumption.

The Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Program began in 1956 when the Miss Milk Maid Contest was initiated by the Pennsylvania Association of Milk Dealers. Since then, responsibility for the program changed to the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, and, later, to the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Services, which maintains an office in Harrisburg and is coordinated by program director Jan Harding.

Support for the program comes from dairy farmers through the advertising and promotion agencies of American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association, Federal Order #36-Mideast UDIA, Allied Milk Producers and contributions form PDA and other dairy-related organizations and individuals.

Prospective princesses must come for a dairy farm or a dairy-related background, own dairy animals or have parents employed in the dairy industry. They must be single and between the ages of 16 and 24. They must possess the knowledge, poise, and speaking ability necessary to carry ount their many duties as spokespersons for the dairy industry.

These dairy princesses will also compete for the state dairy princess title on September 24 at Sheraton Inn-East, Harrisburg.

County Alternates also attended the seminar. Alternates are often as active in dairy promotion as the county dairy princesses.

including, but not limited to an 'approval by rule' approach and alternatives to the fee schedule proposed.

"In essence, an approval rule would involve the promulagation of special standards for agricultural consumptive users, which, if complied with, will provide automatic commission approval to such users," stated the announcement.

"Staff was further directed to present such alternatives to the commission at its September meeting.

"In taking this action, the commissioners recognized the importance of agricultural participation in water management programs and the benefits to agriculture of activities such as registration of water use."

Poultry Association Announces Scholarship Awards

S.E. FFA Dairy Show Prepares For Districts

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Despite a reduced turnout, due to concerns about the threat of bovine virus diarrhea, the 39th annual Southeastern Regional FFA Dairy Show was held Tuesday at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds.

From the left, Jesse Bomgardner holds the halter of the reserve senior and grand champion Holstein for brother Kevin, who hold the halter of his senior and grand champion.

Three breeds of dairy cattle were represented, out of the five expected, but according to show officials, some good animals shown by the FFA youth from the nine-county southeast region of the state qualified to compete at the district level.

Thomas Smith, of Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, was judge for the show. While the show typically uses two judges — one for colored breeds and the other for the Holsteins — the low turnout prompted organizers to call and cancel the second scheduled judge.

All animals were checked for having proper BVD vaccinations prior to being admitted to the show.

All together, there were 10 Holsteins qualified to compete at the next level, four Ayrshires, and four Brown Swiss.

Those scheduled to show Guernseys and Jerseys did not attend the event.

The show judging is based on the Danish system with blue, red and white ribbons presented by the judge along with a numerical class placing. Blue ribbons designate that the animal qualifies for further competition.

The same is true of the fitting and showmanship competitions.

In the senior level showmanship competition, Kevin Bombgardner, of Ono, from Northern Lebanon FFA, was first, followed by Mike Batz, also of Northern Lebanon, and Scott Wagner, of Solanco. In that class, Jennifer Bashore, of Northern Lebanon FFA, also qualified for further competition in showmanship.

In the senior class fitting competition, Kevin Bomgardner was also first, followed by Thomas Zartman, of Ephrata. Third place was Jarrod Johns, although he didn't qualify for further competition.

In the junior class showmanship, Jessie Bomgardner was first, followed by brother Jay Bomgardner, and Kurt Hostetter, all from Nothern Lebanon FFA. The three placed the same in the junior fitting competition, and are all eligible to compete at districts.

In the Holstein show, the Bomgardner family swept the competition.

Jesse Bomgardner's intermediate yearling, Loving-Meadows Krystan, a Roybrook Vintage daugther, was named junior champion. His senior calf, Loving-Meadows Kameo, a Hanoverhill Skybuck daughter, was reserve junior champion.

Both animals were bred and owned.

Kevin Bomgardner showed the senior and reserve senior champions which were also the grand and reserver grand champion Holsteins.

Kevin's senior 3-year-old, Loving-Meadows Penguin, a Willowholme Algonquin-Et daughter was champion and was the best bred and owned animal of the show.

The dam of his grand champion, 5-year-old Loving Meadows Persimmon, also bred and owned by Kevin, was the reserve grand champion Holstein. Persimmon is a Browndale Caster daugther.

In the Ayrshire show, brothers Brian and Craig Nolan, of Cochranville, showed a total of four animals, all qualified to compete at higher competition. The brothers are members of the Octoraara FFA.

The Nolan's junior-aged animals were both bred and owned by the brothers. Their senior champions were bred by the brother's parents, Robert and Sharon Nolan.

The reserve junior champion was Brian's intermediate yearling, Dreamnol Sensational Kelsy, a daughter of Dreamnol Rebel's Sensation.

The senior and grand champion Ayrshire was Brian's Dreamnol Johnny's Kassy, dam of the junior champion. Shown as a 4-year-old dry cow, Kassy is a daughter of St. Cesaire Johnny.

The reserve senior and reserve grand champion was Craig Nolan's 4-year-old Dreamnol Rebel's Minerva, a daughter of Des Peupliers Rebel.

In the Brown Swiss division, Thomas Zartman, of Ephrata, a member of Cloister FFA, showed both the junior and reserve junior champions, both qualified for further competition.

Zartman's junior champion was a bred-and-owned junior yearling, Indian Run Ashley, out of K-Top Acres Dotson. His reserve junior champion was a senior yearling, Indian Run Michelle, out of Lone Oak Dollsader.

Ashley was also named best bred-and-owned animal of the colored breeds.

Zartman's 4-year-old Meadow Hill Convin Blythe, a daughter of Arwis MGP Convincer and bred by Gary Lee Mase, of Lebanon, was named reserve senior and reserve grand champion.

manure in and around the barn, much of which was washing away with surface water. With this type of total confinement system a multitude of herd health problems occurred (ex. diseases of feet and legs and reproductive problems) creating high veterinary costs. A high price was paid in repair and maintenance of equipment for crop farming to feed under this type of dairy production. Worst of all is the price we all pay because fertilizers, insecticides and herbicides contaminate our surface water.

In a grazing system cows are outside in small paddocks for a short time and moved to a different area every 12 hours. Manure is dispersed by the cows themselves over a large area and herd health is greatly improved. Since May 1993 I have had one cow that needed her feet trimmed, all others have had no real feet or leg problems. There have been three cows with retained placentas. No cows have been treated for vaginal infections. Two cows were repeat breeders (more than two services), one of which was sold. There have been four cases of mastitis, three of these cows were sold. Overall cows are very healthy. My veterinary expenses for 1993 were $450.00, much of which was for two herd pregnancy checks and 4-H cattle health check. Repair and maintenance of equipment for the most part is on milk equipment. Feed costs have been very low from April through November which of course is dependent on the weather and my management of the paddocks. November through March feed costs are high for lactating cows and low for dry cows. The greatest challenge in the grazing system is supplying a consistent lush forage through the changing seasons.

In the spring forage growth is lush. Cattle are moved as quickly as possible over larger areas. As forage growth slows so does the speed at which you move cattle, making your pasture sizes smaller and creating a longer period for regrowth. This works well until July and August when dry weather causes a period of no growth. To solve this problem one could plant barley, wheat or rye with a mixture of clover. When the small grains come off it would leave you a lush pasture to graze on until fall, when your spring pasture would have a lush regrowth. November into winter pasture consists of fifth cutting alfalfa and regrowth of grass hay fields (grass hay mowed mid May and let regrow until late fall — heavy sod). With a little luck and a little prayer this system will supply most of a spring freshening herd's forage.

The problem created by this system is the distance in moving cattle to and from a stationary milking facility. My spring pasture is a mile from my summer. My winter pasture is three miles from my fall pasture. Thus came the plan for a mobile milking unit.

This system would be powered by a farm tractor and carried on a drop implement trailer, Nine-foot wide by 22-foot long. (See illustration provided). Cows would be moved across the trailer deck into an in-line 8-front exiting stall. The floor or deck of the trailer is a large grate where droppings could fall or be washed through. The ceiling would be painted metal or glass fiberboard which could be easily cleaned. The entire trailer would be under roof. Cows would be milked from the rear and maintained in the stalls by a rear tail board. The front of the stall would open completely for exit. The tail board in the rear would raise up and out taking the milker and the take-off unit completely out of the way for entering cows. Front and rear gates could be air operated. The milk line would be three-inch stainless steel, one piece with no breaks. Milk would be carried with this single line to a vacuum-sealed milk tank. An additional line would be parallel for use in washing. The milk line pitch would be properly set but could be maintained by raising or lowering the front or the back of the trailer (Harford County hills). The milk tank would be small, refrigerated and used only for the temporary storage of milk while milking. A high pressure as well as a low pressure water line could be installed along the milk line with drop hoses for convenient washup of hands, utensils and the trailer itself. A water tank with air pressure would supply the low and high pressure washers. Units on the trailer would consist of the milk tank, compressor, air compressor (power to the stalls, pressure to water tank, milk pump and air reserve) and milk tank. All would be powered by a portable generator on the trailer.

The trailer would be placed between pasture lots and cows would go from one lot through the trailer to be milked and out into the new lot after milking. Milking would not be done in the same area more than once. Grass and seed would be placed under the trailer before milking. Manure and water would ensure a rapid growth of grass at the spot where the trailer had been parked. At the end of milking the trailer would be returned to the dairy where milk would be pumped out of the small tank into the permanent milk tank. The milk line on the trailer would be washed by hookup to the permanent wash system at the dairy. The small milk tank would be washed with a tank washer and drained into the dairy drain field. All paper, tainted milk or trash would be brought back to the dairy for disposal.

The positive aspects of a portable milking unit used in intensive grazing in conjunction with seasonal milking are many. The most important of these being that little if any environmental hazards are created. No herbicide, insecticide or fertilizer are used. Soil erosion is greatly reduced and manure is not concentrated in a small area but dispersed over a large area.

Herd health is far better. Health experts in this country recommend people eat fresh, green leafy vegetables. Cows would do just that and the farmer would realize improved herd health through this method of feeding. Somatic cell and mastitis decreases and therefore the quality of milk improves as well.

The economic and emotional strain on the small family farm today is overwhelming. Two income families predominate this population just like other occupations. When your children want to go to the movies or the pizza shop and you don't have the money because you spent it on the vet bills or other bills that result from farming in the traditional methods, it is very trying. I know of no business that provides so much raw that simulates the U.S. economy more than the family farm. We spend every penny we make just to stay in business and yet in the past 40 years our market prices have only doubled while other industries have at least quadrupled their market prices.

Last year with intensive grazing milking cheaply bought Jersey heifers, I had money in the bank. I paid cash for ground rent, corn seed, baler twine and all my sup-

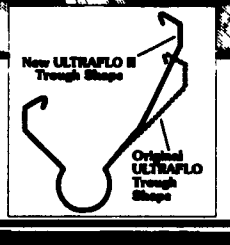
New Shape
The difference is the shape of the feeder's trough (at right). ULTRAFLO II's higher trough lip reduces feed waste by keeping it in the trough and not on the floor or in the pit.



The Right Choice in cage feeders

Chore-Time's popular ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeding System is now even more outstanding! We've developed and tested the second generation of ULTRAFLO feeders and named it the ULTRAFLO® II.

ULTRAFLO II offers you even greater reliability, durability, and outstanding feed-saving performance—up to 1 gram of feed per bird per day—over the original ULTRAFLO. And even the original ULTRAFLO was beating our competitors in feed savings!

So, join the cage feeding leader. Contact us today. Find out how Chore-Time and ULTRAFLO II can help you be a leader, too!

Schwartzbecks Find Peace

Cher-Red, a four and a half-year-old cow he had purchased just weeks before! The next day, a Peace and Plenty bred, born and home-raised cow, Peace and Plenty March Lexine, beat out 244 cows to win the title of Grand Champion at the 24th annual Maryland State Holstein Show. The Schwartzbecks also won three of the cow classes with home-bred animals as well as the three best females class. "Lexine" went on to win the Best Maryland Bred and Owned animal helping Peace and Plenty farm take the award for Premier Breeder and Exhibitor for the second year in a row. Nona and Joe Schwartzbeck sure have come a long way since that county fair!

Mrs. Schwartzbeck remembers when it wasn't so good. When they purchased their Union Bridge Farm 25 years ago they had grade Holsteins. "We just coundn't afford anything else back then. I remember a show where we took six cows and ended with five in last place," Mrs. Schwartzbeck recalls with a chuckle. "It wasn't handed to us. We have worked at this for a long time."

Now Peace and Plenty farm has about 260 head of cattle, 160 adult bovines and about 100 head of young stock. Now, all of their Holsteins are registered. Currently Joe and Gus are milking about 120 cows twice daily in their double four herringbone parlor. Shane stays busy with his own business, Shane Fence.

"The day starts at about 3:30 a.m.," says Mrs. Schwartzbeck. "with milking and then feeding." It takes about two and a half hours to milk, and "no two days are alike!"

On the hottest days of summer, while waiting to be milked and during feeding the cows are cooled by a sprinkler system. They are fed twice a day. Their total mixed ration, (TMR) consists of alphalpa hayledge, corn silage, soy bean meal, whole roasted soy beans and shelled corn.

The Schwartzbecks take time from operating their full-scale dairy farm to attend about three shows per year — the Maryland Holstein Show, the District Field Day in Howard County and the Maryland State Fair. "If we have a good year we take a few cows up to Harrisburg," Mrs. Schwartzbeck said. "We took a cow to Madison once, too. Now that is a show!" Mrs. Schwartzbeck adds that she hopes "Lexine" gets them to Madison.

"The best thing about this is that we do it together," she says, noting that three generations of Schwartzbecks attended the Maryland State Holstein Show this year. She worries about farming in the future. "There are just too many government regulations. You feel like you are just treading water." Mrs. Schwartzbeck looks fondly upon her three grandchildren, David, Aubrey, and Austin, amd expresses her wish for the future. "I just hope the farming families can survive."

"You want a drink of milk?" Austin asked.

Two of Nona and Joe Schwartzbeck's grandchildren, Aubrey and Austin, help at calf feeding time.

Gus Schwartzbeck: Milk, it does a body good!

Umm, mm, good!

Nona Schwartzbeck feeds the heifers.

Jackpot Show In York

YORK (York Co.) — There is still time to enter your steers, barrows, and lambs in the Keystone National Rib Cookoff and Music Fest Jackpot Show scheduled for Saturday, July 30 at the York Fairgrounds.

Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Livestock Association, the Jackpot Show for youth ages 8-19 is part of a four-day Rib and Music Fundraiser to support the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

Jackpot prizes to be awarded include $500 for the champion steer, $350 for the champion barrow, and $250 for the champion lamb. A supreme champion banner will be bestowed upon the best animal among these champions.

Exhibitors and their families can also enjoy the many activities of the rib cookoff, including a craft show, delicious barbequed ribs, strolling clowns, and a petting barnyard. Music entertainment for Saturday headlines Jefferson Starship, Sharks, Flying Colors, and Once Fish.

For entry information, contact Cathy Stewart, (717) 274-6911. Entries can be made up to the time of weigh-in on show day.

Lebanon Area Fair Expects Strong Showing

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon Area Fair, one of southcentral Pennsylvania's largest agriculturally focused county fairs, is expecting a strong turnout again this year with a lineup of shows and events, food and fun, designed for family education and entertainment.

The event is scheduled to run from July 30 through August 5, but there have been several, last-minute scheduling changes that unfortunately were made after the fair committee published its 24-page flier and mailed out the bulk of those.

Presumably because of fears of a new strain of bovine virus diarrhea (BVD), the number of dairy cattle entries is down by half this year, but there will still be plenty of properly vaccinated animals to see in the show ring.

The decrease in dairy entries has, however, been the cause for some of the last minute scheduling changes.

According to Tony Ebling, assistant fair coordinator, a letter stating a number of changes to the dairy shows was sent out Thursday morning to all who have entered the dairy cattle competitions.

Changes To Dairy Shows

Among the changes, dairy cattle show times and location have been moved to make the best use of facilities and provide for exhibitor and public viewing ease.

There is also a departure from the previously announced schedule for dairy showmanship and fitting competitions.

According to Ebling, the showmanship and fitting competitions have been moved back a day from previously announced Monday, August 1, to Tuesday, August 2. The fitting is to start at 9 a.m., and the showmanship is to start at 10 a.m.

Also, there will be no separately held Holstein dairy shows for the adults and youth, as was the practice in previous years.

This year, all dairy shows are to be held on Friday, August 5. And the shows will not be held in the new large show barn, called the North Hall, as was the practice since the building was constructed.

Instead, the North Hall is to be used to present live entertainment that previously had been staged under the large food pavilion.

All the dairy shows, starting with colored breeds in alphabetical order, are to be held Friday starting at 9 a.m., under a pole barn at the southeast end of the fairgrounds complex. The Holstein show will be held last.

There are a total of 20 animals entered in the colored breeds and 140 Holsteins. The total number of dairy animals entered is exactly half that entered last year, according to Ebling.

Tuesday Is Farmers' Night

The Holstein youth show had been scheduled for Tuesday, as well as had been the colored breed shows.

The selection of a supreme champion dairy animal out of all the youth entries is normally held Tuesday following the youth Holstein and colored breed shows.

Since the selection for supreme champion has been changed to Friday, immediately following the Holstein open show, there was an empty time slot left for Tuesday.

Since it has the opportunity, the fair committee is filling in the Tuesday night time slot by bringing back Farmers' Night.

Lebanon Area Fair

Farmers' Night had been held in previous years and is usually designed as a competition between adult farm couples to do such things as stack hay or straw bales, pig calling, and wheelbarrel racing, among with activities for farm children.

Those interested in participating in Farmers' Night activities have up until a half-hour before starting time to sign up at the fair office.

Bring Animals Monday Or Wednesday

Also because of the change in the dairy shows, there is a slight change in when show officials want dairy cattle exhibitors to bring animals to the fairgrounds.

According to Ebling, those bringing 4-H and FFA animals can do so all-day Monday. But Ebling said that those who don't bring their animals on Monday, can bring them to the fairgrounds

(Turn to Page A36)

Behind the scenes at the Lebanon Area Fair are community volunteers who help make it a success. In addition to the months of preparations and work, volunteers also keep records of shows and tally official results.

Although the dairy shows at the Lebanon Area Fair have seen a reduced number of entries, the quality of the shows isn't expected to be reduced at all. This year, all shows are to be held Friday, August 5, starting at 9 a.m. Here is last year's grand champion Holstein and those who helped celebrate and support the show. On the left, is the Dale Maulfair family, sponsor of the supreme champion award — Pattie holds son David, while Daryl and Jennifer present the trophy. Stephanie Wagner holds the halter of her sumpreme champion, while fair royalty help. The royalty is, from the left, Amy Burkhart, Jamie Irwin, Jennifer Bashore, and Stacy Krall.

Youth market animal sales are a highlight of the Lebanon Area Fair. Here Bob Blecker, vice president for Carlos R. Leffler Inc., an annual youth market animal sale supporter, holds a plaque and stands with Kyle Fleener and his champion market lamb and 1993 Lebanon Area Fair Queen Jamie Irwin.

The Lebanon Area Fair is a place for families to spend time together enjoying the crafts and shows and displays, and each other. Hugs and smiles are frequently seen.

Wednesday morning, between 9 a.m. and noon.

All other aspects of the scheduling have remained the same and the number of other livestock entries have stayed the same, with even a slight increase in the entries for showing market lambs, Ebling noted.

For more information, call (717) 273-3795, and asked for Tony Ebling, or Shelby Heagy, fair coordinator.

plies for this year. I feel the portable milking unit used in conjunction with intensive grazing is another example of a dairy farmer getting more efficient, using environmentally sound practices and producing a higher quality product. I'm not asking you to agree or disagree. I'm not asking you to believe in my theory or practice. I am asking you to give me a chance to prove that a portable milking unit will work and work better than a conventional milking facility. Give me a temporary permit for one year and I will demonstrate my theory. This herd will create little environmental damage if any, will be healthy requiring little veterinary treatment and have the lowest somatic cell count in the state.

The issue of farmers becoming more efficient will prove out in the profitability of using this system when compared to traditional methods of dairying. If the theory presented does not prove to be true you (the health department) have the power to end this practice at any time.

Efforts Under Way

ducers' management skills and profitability. The subject was one of the areas of need expressed in preliminary hearings from the industry in preparation for the earlier forum.

The vehicle to accomplish this educational process has been the Dairy-MAP pilot program developed by Penn State and run for several years on a limited basis to match the workshop method of instruction to the needs of the dairy farmers who have attended. To date, 400 dairy farmers have taken the course, and from their experience, the course material has been revised and expanded to fill the needs of almost any dairy farmer in the state.

Rather than lecture, the presenters or facilitators of Dairy MAP courses use examples of dairy farm operations for the attendees to match with their own operations. The farmers write their business and personal objectives and formulate goals that are specific, measurable, attainable, relevant and timely. Topics cover planning, controls, staffing, directing, and organizing. A lot of the educational process comes from the interchange among the dairy farmers in the workshop.

Many farmers going into the classes thought they were good managers but found that there were many things they could do better after they became aware of different possibilities. Decision-making, based on objective rather than subjective assumptions, was one of the great benefits cited by farmers who had taken the course.

The ad hoc committee decided to support the Dairy-MAP program as the method to help dairy farmers with management skills. An advisory committee of half-industry people and half-producers was formed to work with Penn State personnel to further adapt the course to farmer's needs, hire persons to run the program, and promote the program to farmers with the support of the dairy industry stakeholders. A finance committee was also formed to raise funds to run the program.

All this effort comes from a real concern that the business climate for dairy farming in Pennsylvania has become and may continue to be of such a nature that the industry might not survive the economic pressures. If dairy farmers can't make a living, Pennsylvania's total agriculture industry is in trouble. And the supporting jobs that make up 20 percent of Pennsylvania's economy are also in jeopardy.

FFA/4-H Swine And Sheep Show, Sale Set

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Adams County 4-H and FFA members are busy getting ready for the 11th Annual Swine and Sheep Show and Sale. This annual event will take place on Tuesday, July 26 at the South Mountain Fairgrounds, near Arendtsville.

More than 60 hogs and 50 lambs will be shown in market classes with a champion and reserve champion selected for each species. In addition, the 4-H and FFA members will compete in senior, intermediate, and junior combined fitting/showing classes for each species. A top individual will be named in each fitting/showing class. The swine show starts at 8 a.m. and the sheep show at 11 a.m.

All hogs and lambs at the show will be sold Tuesday evening, July 26, at a competitive bid auction. This is an ideal opportunity for anyone to purchase quality pork or lamb for the freezer. Interested buyers bid the price per pound they desire for an animal they select, and the animal will be auctioned to the highest bidder. Leaders and members will try to arrange transportation to a local butcher. After the animal is sold, the buyer may give specific instructions to the butcher for specific processing and preparation. The sheep sale begins at 7 p.m. and swine sale begins at 7:45 p.m.

The youth livestock program is designed to help youth develop an understanding of feeding, fitting, and showing swine and sheep. The support of the community is essential to help bring the process to a successful end. If a buyer is not interested in the meat product, they may still buy an animal. After purchasing the animal, provisions will be available to reconsign the animal at market price to normal meat product buyers on the grounds. As a buyer, you simply absorb the cost difference between what you paid and the market resell price.

All buyers, from private individuals to corporate sponsors, will receive recognition through newspaper ads and articles. Anyone who wishes to help the Adams County 4-H and FFA youth livestock program is urged to come to the show and sale July 26. Patrons unable to attend the sale may send a bid to a High School Vo-Ag Instructor or Jared Tyson at the Adams County Extension Office at (717) 334-6271 or (717) 624-4525.

Beef Evaluation Workshop Set

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — All folks interested in cattle feeding are invited to participate in a workshop designed to improve your knowledge and understanding of important aspects pertaining to the cattle industry.

Scheduled for July 27 and 29, this two-day workshop will include live cattle grading by all participants, quality assurance tips, and advice on feeding for profit. Demonstrations at the packing plant will focus on beef that fits the box, hot fat trimming, injection site blemishes, and new grading proposals.

The live animal session will be held at New Holland Sales Stables, New Holland, at 7 p.m. on July 27, where participants can compare their grading estimates with a panel of experts. The carcass aspect of the workshop will be held at 7 p.m. on July 29 at Stoltzfus Meats, Intercourse. During this program, actual carcass data can be compared with estimates, and participants will visualize the disadvantages of cattle that are too big, overly fat, or poorly managed.

Schedule of Events:

July 27, 7 p.m. — New Holland Sales Stables, New Holland, Pa.

* Live Cattle Evaluation - Dr. John Comerford, Penn State University.
* Feeding for Efficiency - Dr. Harold Harpster, Penn State University.

July 29, 7 p.m. — Stoltzfus Meats, Intercourse, Pa.

* Carcass Demonstrations - Glenn Myers, Penn State University
  - Hot Fat Trimming
  - Fitting Beef in the Box
* Beef Quality Assurance - Dr. Van B. Ricketts, Pfizer, Inc.

Conservation Districts To Hold Quarterly Meeting

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, Inc. (PACD) will hold its quarterly meeting Wednesday, July 27 - Friday, July 29 here at Toftrees.

The PACD Executive Council will meet, Clean Water Farm Awards will be presented, and the State Conservation Commission will meet. State Senator J. Doyle Corman from Centre County will be the featured speaker at a banquet Thursday evening.

The PACD Executive Council, at its Friday meeting, is expected to take action on the PACD Endowment Fund and PACD membership. The council will discuss the Conservation District Allocation Fund Program, the USDA reorganization, and the upcoming National Association of Conservation Districts, Northeast regional meeting as well as update the Delaware Estuary Program.

Farmers from Blair, Northumberland, and Dauphin counties will receive the Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm awards. The awards, sponsored jointly by Pennsylvania's Departments of Environmental Resources and Agriculture, recognize farm operations that excel in water quality protection. Secretary of Environmental Resources Arthur Davis and Walter Peechatka, Deputy Secretary of Agricutlure, will present the awards during a luncheon Thursday.

The State Conservation Commission will meet Thursday, July 28 at 10 a.m. On the agenda is reappointments to the Nutrient Management Advisory Board and a discussion of the draft certification regulations for nutrient management specialists. The commission also is expected to appoint two new members and reappoint a third. Ross Orner of Clearfield County and Jack DeHoff of York County will be appointed to the commission, while Ed Kuckuck of Indiana County will be reappointed for another three-year term.

Three Eras Of Agriculture At Somerset Historical Center

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — Today's computer age set can observe life of the "good old days" as three former eras of farming are developed at the Somerset Historical Center. The working farmsteads will portray 1770s, 1850s and 1920s farm life on 55 acres at the Center, 4 miles north of here.

In conjunction, a permanent exhibit will focus on the industrial revolution's impact on agriculture and farming methods in southwestern Pennsylvania.

Site administrator, David Dunn, a farmer's son with roots in eastern Pennsylvania, said the project has taken six years of planning.

While you can take the son off the farm, realistically, some of the farm stays with the son, or at least some farm knowledge stays with him. Add to that Dunn's expertise in historical preservation and you've probably found a well-equipped captain to sail this project's ship.

Dunn, who workd with the state's historical museum network, once said thios project is unique.

"There won't be anything like it in Pennsylvania," he said. "When we're done with the farmsteads it will be like a living history with people and animals on the three farmsteads. They will do laundry, food preparation, and smoking meat."

The land will be tilled and crops raised in accordance with each era's history, in routine daily form.

Dunn added, "This will be the only one where you will see the transition and transformation of Pennsylvania agriculture."

And of course, the new permanent exhibit will acquaint visitors with the effects of the industrial revolution upon the mechanization of agriculture and the consequent changes in rural lifestyles.

Dunn said the Somerset County pioneer period was over by 1780. Explaining what is meant by "pioneer period," he said, "A pioneer period is coming on the virgin land, clearing it and finally producing a surplus crop." According to Dunn, once that happens, you are no longer pioneering.

That's where the 1770s settler's cabin fits. The second farm, dated 1850 to 1860, during and after the Civil War, would be the era when the McCormick reaper became common. The steel industry was also burgeoning.

The development of the 1850s farmstead will see a relocation of the 1798 Adam Miller house.

Dunn says prior to the influx in dairying all animals were housed in the same barn. As sanitary regulations came into being other outbuildings were constructed to house the different farm animals. Then, as now, complying with government regulations ended business for some farms.

From 1910 to 1920 was the era of American horse farming, according to Dunn, followed eventually by steam, internal combustion, diesel and so forth.

Oral histories, quoting older farmers will enhance the permanent exhibit. "The exhibit will discuss variables farmers face like soil, weather and labor."

The 3,000 square foot exhibit will outline the history of agriculture from some nine area counties, including feed millsm woolen mills and the steel industry. Agriculture statistics will be quoted from the 1840 census information.

Science played a prominent role for the early farmer who girdled the trees and planted crops between them. By removing the bark around the trunk of the tree (girdling), it ultimately dies. In process, this allowed light and sun to reach the crops and supplied his source of needed wood. Many hand tools are also in the exhibit.

Dunn says that very often the wives of early farmers, because they could market butter, eggs and other produce, brought a greater cash contribution to the family than did their husbands.

The promise of higher income and regular paychecks often lured many farm sons to the steel mills for jobs.

But Dunn says the only time that area agriculture was eclipsed was when coal was big from 1900 to 1910, after which, following the end of World War I, coal production plummeted. Agriculture, today, continues as the number one industry in Somerset County.

Developing the fasrmsteads is part of a three-phase, expansion project about to get underway at the Somerset Historical Center.

Phase 1 will enlarge the current visitor center, install the permanent exhibit and see construction of the 1770s settler's cabin by staff and volunteer persona.

Phase 2 focuses on developing the 1920 farmstead, outbuildings, fields and animals.

Phase 3 concerns the rwlocation of the Adam Miller house for the development of the 1850 farmstead.

Matching funds from the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission and the America's Industrial Heritage Project will cover the $1.4 million cost of Phase 1.

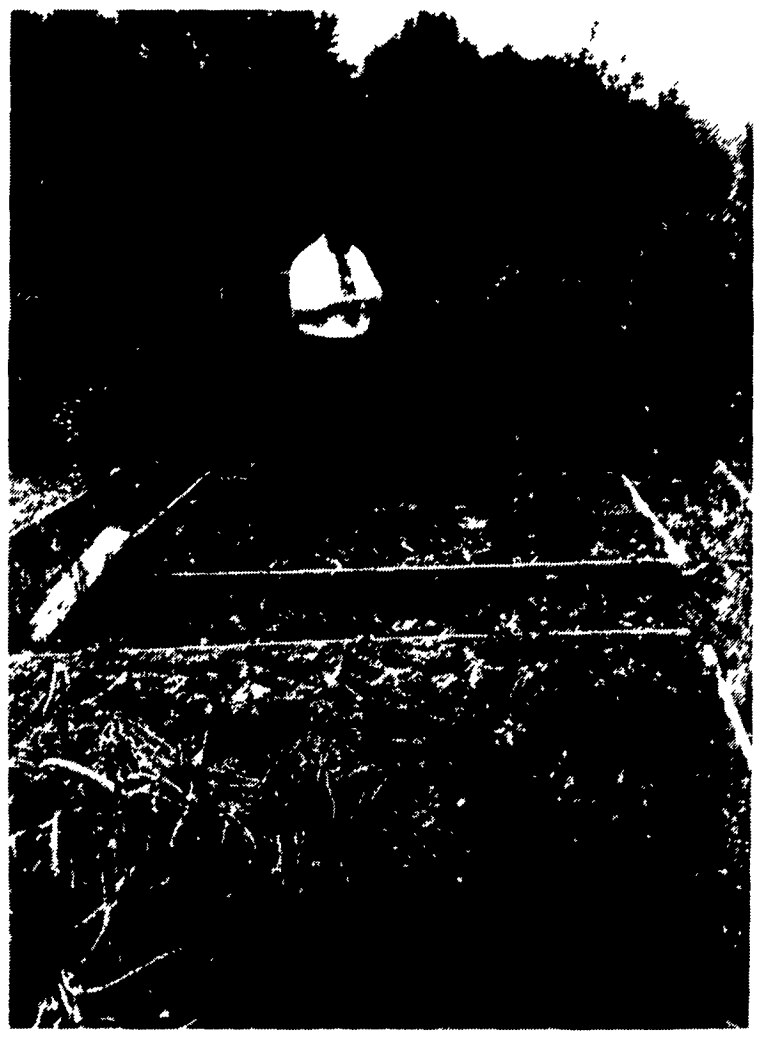
Historical and Genealogical Society of Somerset County has a goal of $750,000 for its recently initiated endowment fund according to official information. This will ensure that future operating costs are covered.

Projected completion of the project is 1998.

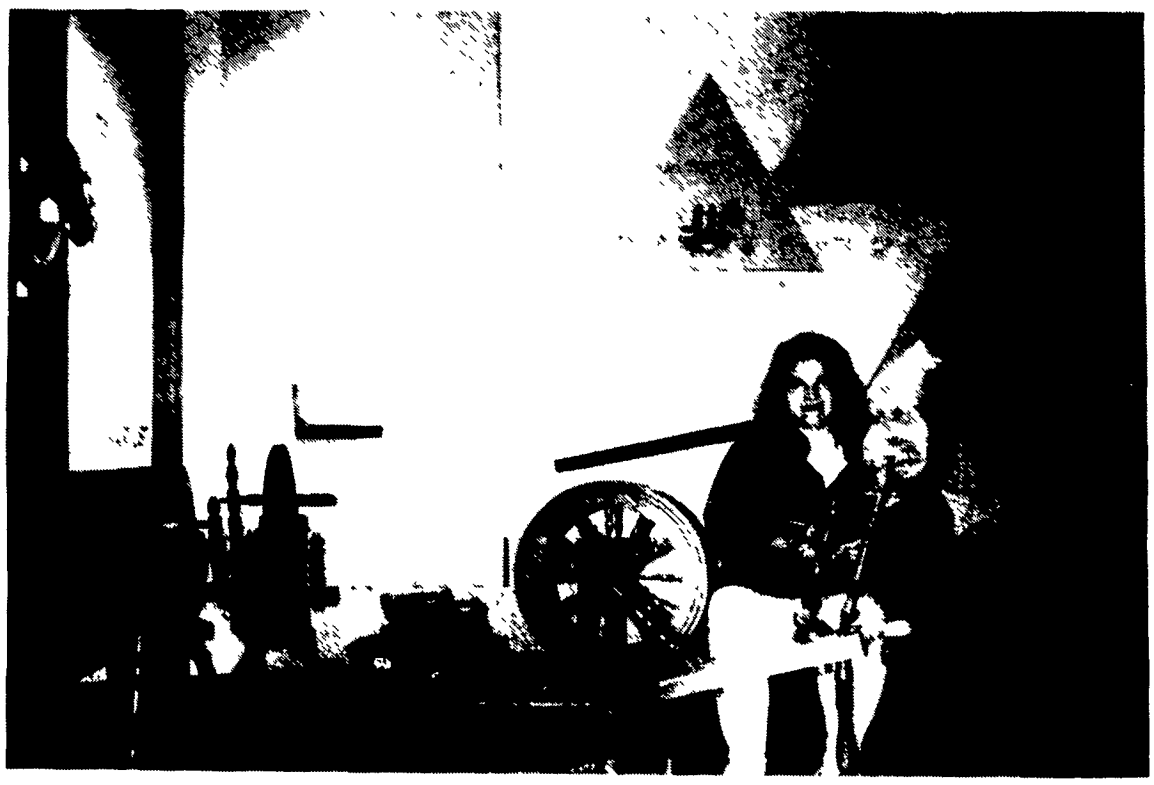
Meanwhile at the Historical Center, annual activities will continue, like Mountain Craft Days the second weekend in September; Fiber Day and Herb and Plant Day; school programs, junior historians and ongoing research.

Persons desiring other information may call the Center at (814) 445-6077.

This covered bridge on the grounds of the Somerset Historical Center is not only historically preserved, but adds beauty and shade for the pleasure of visitors. David Dunn, site administrator is pictured.



David Dunn, site administrator at the Somerset Historical Center north of Somerset, can't resist picking some currants from the crop growing in the raised bed garden at the Center. There are also ground cherries, tomatoes and Egyptian onions among the various plants in the fence protected garden, forbidden to four-legged intruders.



Beth Holler, a summer intern working at the Somerset Historical Center is pictured spinning flax. The Center is ready to begin a major expansion which includes an addition to the visitor's center and the development of farmsteads from different farming areas. A permanent exhibit will trace the progress of local agriculture during thye Industrial Revolution.

Homestead Notes

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Weathermen call them the "three Hs." Hazy. Hot. Humid.

Corn thrives on the "three Hs" gorwing what seems like inches every day, so long as adequate moisture is available in the ground. When it isn't, whole field populations of corn plants curl their leaves tightly, making less surface exposed to the blasting heat and concerving what moisture is in the plant. It's what makes corn in areas under drought-stress look like Hawaiian pineapple fields.

People can't curl themselves up tightly to resist the heat. Instead whole populations stampede en-mass to snatch up air conditioners. Room-size air conditioning units at local retailers are reportedly as available this mid-July as snow shovels and sale were in February.

While we scrounged along with the rest of the population last winter for salt to keep the milk truck from sliding downhill backwards into the dairy barn, we managed to avoid the air conditioner rush.

Our old brick farm home, surrounded by high, shading maple trees, is a blessing that helps make that possible. So is the lone window fan we set up in an upstairs window for an hour or two before bedtime on the hottest nights, to pull in slightly cooler evening air.

Every time The Farmer sleeps in air conditioning, he pays for it the next few days with a sore throat. Besides, we're just not air-conditioning people. During the "screen season," with the house windows and doors opoen to the outdoors, we can keep better track of what's happening around the farm.

Like the sound of the milking system humming away at the dairy barn. Running at normal times and at normal noise level, the compressor units that can be heard at the house are reassuring that all is functioning as it should. Regular rounds of field equipment also confirm that the tractor and mower or baler are at least not "broke down" for the moment.

Screens bring to our ears the distress calls of a calving heifer or the exuberant baaing-sound a calf makes when it escapes a pen and goes running about the farm, kicking up its heels. Hearing it is always easier than catching it.

Most of all, though, we like an open house for the sounds of nature around us. Even before daybreak the birdsongs begin, as the mockingbirds taunt the rest of Mother Nature's critters for still living abed.

Eating breakfast early one recent morning, I heard the chattering of baby-chicks. Our little brown hen's nine offspring have their adult-color plumage, yet still make hatchling noises. Though I'd never seen this clan in the yard, the sound of clucking mother hen and answering babies was definitely coming from the area of the basement porch.

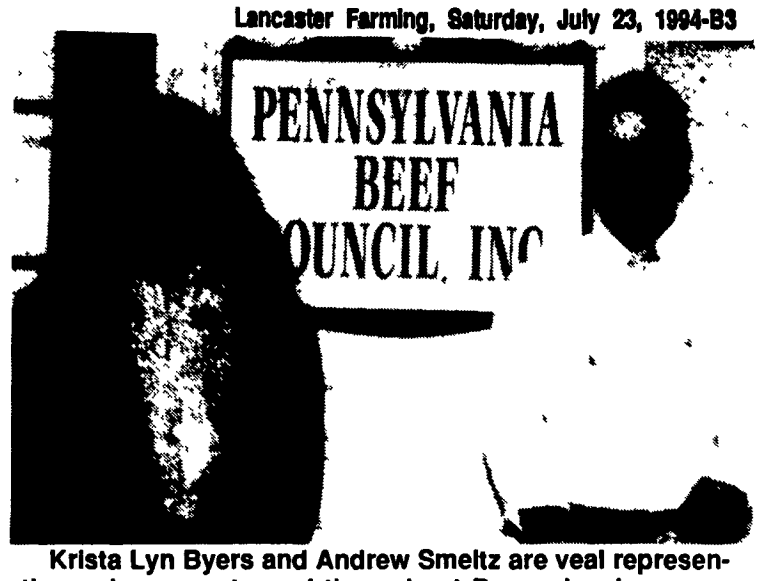
Which is where they were. With a whole farmstead of fields and pasture to roam, they hang out on the porch. Go figure.

Repeated, short, irate chirps - cardinal complaints - announce that the birdfeeder is empty. And the lyric, beautiful song of the tiny house wren, who solos outside the kitchen window — is suddenly silent. Is she quietly nesting?

Loud hoonking over the pond, followed by splashdown sounds, signals the return of our now-grown Canada geese family. After paddling to the pondbank, they parade, single-file, to the corn field, to graze on tender shoots.

At dusk, fat bullfrogs in the cattails announce the day's end with throaty croakings. One lingering robin answers back a good-night. And the sound of evening tranquility slips in through the windows on a gentle breeze.

Maybe we're just old fashioned. But we enjoy the screen season.



Krista Lyn Byers and Andrew Smeltz are veal representives who promote veal throughout Pennsylvania.

Veal Ambassadors Promote Industry

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Again this summer, the PBC is working with college-age students to conduct numerous in-store cooking demonstrations and to staff exhibits which promote veal at various community events.

Krista Byers, of Perry County, an Andy Smeltz, of Dauphin County, are representatives for the veal industry at several consumer promotions throughout the state. Most recently, they staffed farm-city tours in Bradford and Tioga Counties as well as the Lancaster County farmers' market. Both individuals are students at Penn State University and possess an interest in animal agriculture.

Byers and Smeltz began their internships with a comprehensive training program which exposed them to each major step in veal production. From a personal tour of a veal farm to on-site inspection of the processes practiced at the packing plant, the two were then instructed on the nutritional advantages of veal so that they may effectively understand and promote the product to the vast consumer market. An overview of the entire process also allows them to use first-hand experience to dispel many of the common misconceptions that consumers may have about veal.

"I'm excited about the opportunity to represent the industry and I'm eager to answer consumer's questions," said Byers. Smeltz shares equal enthusiasm in the program and adds that the face-to-face interaction with consumers will provide valuable feedback for a sharpened focus on production and marketing issues.

Glass Jars Reveal Canning History

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Co.
Correspondent

WEST OVERTON (Westmoreland Co.) — $10,000 for a fruit jar?

None of that caliber are in this exhibit, but with that kind of value placed on one jar, you might expect that a lot of people will be treating their containers with more respect!

Laurie Galloway, from the nearby Bear Rocks community, has been collecting jars for about 10 years. Her exhibit of fruit jars is part of what you will see this summer at the West Overton Museum, near Scottdale. She started her collection from her own interest in colors as she browsed at auctions, flea markets, and antique shops. "Hannah's Town is our favorite place," she says because there many shops are close to each other.

The exhibit shows only about 35 to 40 percent of her collection. Yet, you can see many crucial stages in popularizing the canning process from samples in the exhibit. Though the word "canning" comes from the time when food was put into metal containers for preservaiton, the term has been applied to glass containers (fruit jars) for more than 150 years.

The biggest influence on canning came from John L. Mason, an American glass blower. Mason is the inventor who first introduced and patented the glass jar witih a metal, screw-on top. Though Mason patented this combination on November 30, 1858, the history of canning goes back to about 1795. Then a French chef, Nicolas Appert, first processed food in sealed containers. Appert also won the prize offered by the French government in 1809 for a simple way to preserve food for the army.

The West Overton exhibit is arranged to show some of the American history of canning, according to Museums programs coordinator Robert Sandow. Onn one shelf you can see seven "Mason" samples from competing companies, all operating under the 1858 patent. What made the Mason pattent so popular, according to Sandow, is that it provided a simple and functional way to keep air away from the food.

The exhibit also contains samples of the technological competition for the metal lid on the screw top jar. The specimens exhibited include jars with:

- wire bails — with their zinc ring, porcelain or glass inert and rubber seal.
- zinc band with glass insert and rubber seal.
- clamp and yoke with glass

Laurie Galloway, collector of fruit jars, shows one of her favorites from the exhibit at West Overton Museums, near Scottdale. "Corn flower blue" is her favorite of all the various colors of jars. One reproduction of a cobalt (blue) jar was purchased for $18, is now valued at $75 to $100. Though she doesn't can food herself, she knows that it is very hard work. Photo by Davie Hiebert.

This amber jar manufactured by Globe in about 1886 is from an exhibit at the West Overton Museums, near Scottdale. Values at $45 to $55, other jars produced from the same design might have more — or less — value. Aqua jars are valued at $15 to $20, black at an impressive $2,500. Photo by David Hiebert.

Glass Jars Reveal

disk on threaded jar.

One section of the exhibit also includes a display of some containers which preceded glass. When used, these crocks were filled with the food which was to be preserved and sealed with wax.

Manufacturing glass jars, she says, began with hand-blown processes. These jars can be identified by their ground topos — in contrast to the smooth-lipped machine-made jars.

According to collector Galloway, the market for canning supplies became very popular, with hundreds of patents and competing companies-all of which makes a great history and adds interest for a collector. Included in that variety are small versions of the jars probably given away promotional pieces such as banks and salt and pepper shakers.

Some of the company names from the earlier era are still familiar, like Ball. Other names relate to the area of geographic origin, like Keystone, a Philadelphia based company. Atlas, Hero Fruit Jar Company, Consolidated Fruit Jar Company and the Mason Fruit Jar Company are a few of the other names you might see on jars in the exhibit.

The experimenting by manufacturers also led to what attracted Laurie to collecting in the first place: the colors in the glass.

"Early jars were darker colors such as amber and cobalt blue," she said, "whicdh was better for food preservation, but made it difficult to see the contents of the jar. Subsequent colors range through yellow, green, and blue." Some jars are even pink, she continues. This coloration came from adding too much manganese as the manufacturers sought a clearer, colorless glass.

Laurie is also interested in pieces related to the manufacturing of the jars. The exhibit includes an early shipping box for 12 pint jars, boxes of lids, and related supplies.

In our age where machine made uniformity can be mind-numbing, collectors look for the unusual: Bubbles, swirls ro whittle marks. These probably would have been considered flaws by the glass workers, but can now add to a specimen's beautry and are prized by collectors.

In her collecting, Laurie has also discovered and named a process which destroys a jar's value: pickling. When there is a chemical reaction between food and the jar which discolors the glass, it becomes nearly impossible to clean the jar. She thinks this is caused by long exposure to specific foods. And as a collector, it makes the risk high when considering a jar which is dirty or has food in it. However, a jar with a closure has about twice the value as the same jar without the lid.

Will Laurie ever discover that $10,000 har hidden in the shadows of the antique shop or in a box at a flea market? She really doesn't know, but carries her Collectors Guide Red Book No. 7 with her to consult whenever she is considering a purchase.

You can see the more ordinary specimens at West Overton until the season ends this fall on October 16.

Munchsters Lead New Pork Effort

CHICAGO, Ill. — The pork industry is continuing its push to educate children about nutrition by employing a lovable, furry bunch of creatures called the Munchsters.

Geared toward preschool children, the nutrition program is funded by the pork checkoff in partnership with the beef industry. Inclusion of Munchsters into the pork education program is a direct result of the Youth Initiative, which was adopted by the pork industry in 1993. This plan established age and message priorities as well as program reach and meat attitude goals.

"Younger children are our top-priority age group because of their ability to absorb new information. We want to instill a strong basis now to assure a consumer marketplace that will realize the many positive nutritional attributes of pork," said Lowell Gemar, a pork producer from North Dakota and chairman of the Pork Information Committee of the National Live Stock and Meat Board. "This is an opportunity to help them build strong nutrition skills and at the same time influence lifetime healthy eating habits that include meat."

Munchsters kits are being distributed to child-care centers with a learning program and to preschools. They feature colorful drawings of the Munchsters involved in activities that help children learn about food and the importance of eating a well-balanced diet for good health and growth.

Included are five full-color posters with a lesson plan and language and cooking activities on the reverse side, a teacher's guide, poster for the parent bulletin board and parent handouts. The role of meat in a healthy diet is shown on the cover of each poster and included in the recipes inside.

Preserving Fruits And Vegetables

An old-fashioned tradition that is experiencing a new surge in popularity is putting up homemade preserves.

Take advantage of the season's harvest of fresh fruits and preserve it. Not only will you enjoy this bounty in the winter months, but you will also be proud of your accomplishments.

Happy canning!

COLORADO TOMATO SOUP

½ bushel tomatoes, washed and quartered, not peeled
4 teaspoons celery salt
4 teaspoons onion salt
2 tablespoons pickling salt
1½ cups sugar
2 cups flour
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 pound butter, melted

In a 15- to 18-quart pot, place tomatoes, celery salt, onion salt, and pickling salt. Cook until tomatoes are soft. Put through blender or sieve and pour through strainer. Return to pot; add sugar and flour mixing thoroughly. Melt butter and add to tomato mixture. Bring to a boil. Pour into clean, hot quart jars. Seal and process in boiling water bath for 30 minutes. Yields: 10 quarts.

To serve as soup, add enough hot milk to taste. May also be used in recipes for tomato sauce.

CANNED HUNGARIAN WAX PEPPERS

8 cups hot peppers (try to mix green, yellow, orange, red varieties for color)
8 cloves garlic
2 cups cider vinegar
1¼ cups sugar
¾ cup water
1 teaspoon mustard seeds
½ teaspoon salt

Sterilize four 1-pint jars and lids. In large saucepan, place sliced peppers in enough water to cover. Heat to boiling and drain. Pack into jars. Place 2 cloves garlic in each jar. Heat vinegar, sugar, water, mustard, and salt to boiling. Pour over peppers in jars. Leave ¼ -inch at top. Seal with lids and process 5 minutes in boiling water bath.

This is a good recipe for any type of hot peppers. Great on steak, subs, hamburgers, etc.

ZUCCHINI RELISH

Grind:
6 cups sliced zucchini, unpeeled
2 cups sliced onions
1 red pepper
1 green pepper

Mix well with 2½ tablespoons salt and let stand overnight. Rinse with cold water and drain.

Combine:
1¼ cups vinegar
3 cups sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon turmeric
¾ teaspoon celery seed
1½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon black pepper

Cook until slightly thickened. Add vegetables and cook slowly for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally to keep from scorching. Fill 3 pint jars and tighten bands.

Yields 3 pints.

My long-time friend Beulah shared this recipe with me. As teen-agers we grumbled about milking our dads' cows — especially on weekends. Now that we have families of our own, what are we doing but milking cows? Both of us married dairy farmers and continue to help milk — even on weekends.

FROZEN CABBAGE

1 medium cabbage
1 carrot
1 green pepper
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups sugar
1 cup vinegar
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon whole mustard seed
1 teaspoon celery seed

Shred cabbage and add salt. Let stand for one hour. Add shredded carrot and chopped pepper. Let stand. Combine remaining ingredients and bring to a boil for one minute. Let this mixture cool until it is lukewarm. Then pour over cabbage mixture. Stir and freeze.

SLICED ZUCCHINI PICKLES

1 quart vinegar
2 cups sugar
½ cup salt
2 teaspoons celery seeds
2 teaspoons ground turmeric*
1 teaspoon dry mustard
2 quarts sliced, unpeeled, seeded, zucchini
1 quart onion, sliced

Bring vinegar, sugar, salt, and spices to a boil; pour over zucchini and onions and let stand one hour.

Bring to a boil again for 3 minutes.

Pack into hot jars; adjust lids.

Process in boiling water bath at 212 degrees for 5 minutes. *For dill zucchini pickles, substitute 2 teaspoons dill seeds for turmeric.

GARDEN WALK PICKLES

6 large cucumbers, sliced
1 quart tomatoes, chopped
6 medium onions, sliced
4 green peppers, cut in strips
1 cup salt
1 gallon water
1 pint cut-up small green beans
1 pint lima beans
1 pound carrots, cut in slices
1 pint cut-up celery
1 medium cauliflower, cut in flowerets
8 cups white vinegar
7 cups sugar
¼ cup mixed pickling spices
4 tablespoons mustard seeds
2 tablespoons celery seed

Soak cucumbers, tomatoes, onions, and green peppers overnight in a brine made of 1 cup salt to 1 gallon water.

Next day, drain and cover with boiling water. Drain and set aside. Cook green beans, lima beans, carrots, celery, and cauliflower in salted water for 20 minutes. Drain and set aside. Boil together vinegar, sugar, pickling spices, mustard, and celery seeds. Add all vegetables.

Simmer for 15 minutes. Ladle into hot, sterilized jars, filling to within ½ -inch from top.

Adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath for 5 minutes. Remove jar from canner. Makes 6 quarts.

PEAR HONEY

8 pounds pears
8 pounds sugar
2 cups crushed pineapple

Remove peelings and core from pears. Grind them. Add sugar and pineapples. Mix gradually and bring to a boil. Stir frequently and cook 30 minutes to one hour until it thickens.

I do not use fresh pineapples and I always use Bartlett pears.

It's time to preserve blueberries for winter enjoyment. Fruit fillings are excellent and may be used as toppings on dessert of pastries. Each quart fills one 8-inch to 9-inch pie shell.

Here is a recipe from Penn State Cooperative Extension. If you would like additional recipes and detailed instructions for canning fruits and vegetables, contact your county extension office for information.

CANNED BLUEBERRY PIE FILLING
Makes 7 quarts

6 quarts blueberries
6 cups granulated sugar
2¼ cups Clear Jel
7 cups cold water
½ cup lemon juice
20 drops blue food coloring (optional)
7 drops red food coloring

Wash and drain blueberries. For fresh fruit, place 6 cups at a time in one gallon boiling water. Boil each batch one minute after the water returns to a boil. Drain but keep heated fruit in a covered bowl or pot. Combine sugar and Clear Jel in a large kettle. Stir. Add wter and, if desired, food coloring. Cook on medium-high heat until mixture thickens and begins to bubble. Add lemon juice and boil one minute, stirring constantly. Fold in berries, fill jars immediately with mixture, leaving 1-inch headspace, and process in boiling water bath for 30 minutes.

After processing is completed, remove jars from canner with a jar lifter and place them on a towel or rack. Do not retighten screw bands. Air-cool jars 12 to 24 hours. Remove screw bands and check lid seals. A jar is sealed if the center of its lid is indented or concave.

Family Living Focus

By Dauphin Co. Extension Agent

Mary Laeger-Hagemeister

"Why do we always have turkey on Thanksgiving?"

"Well . . . because it's tradition."

"What's a tradition?"

"Something we've been doing so long we can't even remember why!"

So goes the cartoon script of Hi and Lois as their family sits down to their Thanksgiving feast.

In some respects, traditions may indeed be something the family has been doing so long no one even remembers why. However, traditions are an essential ingredient for any strong family. Traditions give all family members, especially children, a sense of belonging, fitting into their family. Research has shown when families don't share traditions, the children aren't as likely to have a sense of "roots."

Of course, there are some traditions that change over time, so it's important for a family to be flexible. Think of Christmas and the tradition of Santa Claus. If the children have belileved in the mythical character as youngsters, once they figure out that indeed it is myth, they may want to help pass along that magic to a younger sibling. Long after my brothers and I didn't believe in Santa, my mother, just for fun, would still fill our stockings with goodies from the jolly fat man in a red suit simply because it was tradition.

Sometimes traditions have to be compromised. A friend of mine shared that in her family birthdays were always a cause for a big celebration. The honoree got to choose their favorite meal with presents and tons of attention! However, in her husband's family, birthdays were no big deal. If cards were exchanged that was the extent of the festivities! To say the least, the first couple of years of their marriage both parties were frustrated with birthdays. After some "lively discussion" they compromised so that both of them could be happy. Hence, they started new traditions for their family.

Traditions have become a very important aspect in our family. My husband and I are both from the upper midwest so we are far from extended family. For us it has been imperative to start some of our own traditions with our children since we are not typically able to be part of the extended family traditions.

To help them feel connected to their grandparents and cousins, we have filled many photo albums in sharing pictures across the miles. The albums are also easily accessible fo the children to browse through and recall memories shared or to hear stories about their family.

Stories are another excellent means to pass along traditions. We often share tales of our days of growing up and the things we did with our parents and brothers. (of course, since we're telling the tale, the account may be a bit one-sided and there's no one around to correct it!) Stories can be shared orally as well as being written in a memory book or put on tape, either audio or video.

Family reunions also provide a perfect opportunity to share family traditions and stories. I remember several years ago we were making the trek back to North Dakota for a family reunion and a 50th anniversary in my family. Along the way we had been talking about the proverbial "family tree." Somewhere crossing Iowa, my son then six looked at me and said "Mom, where is our family tree planted?"

After a bit of a chuckle we explained to him what a family tree is. I'm sure in his mind there was a great oak planted somewhwere with the family name engraved on it!

As I said earlier, we have started many traditions that are special and maybe even unique to our family. For instance, every Saturday night we have a "pizza picnic." We put a plastic tablecloth on the floor andn eat pizza picnic fashion. The children know on Saturdays that they "set the floor!" for dinner. The tradition can be traced to 1985 when we were living in a small, student housing apartment in St. Paul, Minnesota. It was the dead of winter and we were trying to relieve cabin fever and think warm! (Remember this was a Minnesota winter).

We decided to have a picnic but to give it a twist from which the pizza picnic was born. We've been doing it ever since, no matter how hot or cold it is outside, after all it's tradition! We have even invited friends to join us. However, quite honestly I don't think they appreciate the significance of the event quite as much as we do.

Another very special tradition is that on birthdays, Mother's Day, and Father's Day, the V.I.P. of the day gets breakfast in bed. Of course, a couple of days ahead of time the menu is planned by the individual with the rest of the family obliged to deliver. It didn't take long for our eldest to figure out that the children only got breakfast in bed once a year and mom and dad got it twice. So at the age of 3½ he decided we needed Brother's Day and Sister's Day. So a new tradition was born. The July calendar in our home has two extra holidays!

There are many other traditions that we celebrate throughout the entire year as well as special traditions for the holidays. As Charlie Brown once said to Linus, "All famililes have traditions, some families always go to the opera, some famililes always go to the mountains, our family always says 'home again Finnegan'."

Indeed all families do have traditions. No matter how significant or insignificant you may think your family traditions are they are all important to who your family is . Maybe on one of those hot steamy summer nights when it's too hot to do much else, or when you're confined to the car and trying to break the boredom you could talk about what traditions are special to each of you and who knows, maybe you'll start some new ones!

Preserving Fruits

CROCK DILL PICKLES

35 to 40 pickles
2 tablespoons mixed spices
¾ pound dill

Brine:

2 cups coarse (kosher) salt
2 gallons water
2 cups apple cider vinegar

Wash pickles. Boil salt, water, and vinegar for 2 minutes. Cool to room temperature. Put grape leaves in bottom of crock then a layer of pickles, a little mixed spices and dill. Then a layer of grape leaves again and keep doing in layers all the way to the top of crock. Cover with grape leaves and pour brine over pickles and be sure they are all covered up. Put a plate on top with a heavy stone on it. Cover with a towel and tie it on with a string. They will be ready in 4 to 6 weeks Keep checking for a scum on top of the brine and take it off when it forms or the pickles will spoil. Keep crock in a place where it will be at room temperature.

After four to six weeks, you may take pickles out and use as needed.

I keep my crock in the kitchen. These are very good.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Nancy Kring, Johnstown, would like a recipe for Oriental muffins, a spicy muffin with a brown sugar bottom.

QUESTION — Ann Lincoln, Genesee, lost her Insterella Mozzarella Cheese recipe that she made from her sweet Jersey milk. Does anyone have the recipe?

QUESTION — A York County reader would like a recipe for poultry stuffing made from crackers instead of bread.

QUESTION — Phyllis Stauffer, Seven Valleys, is looking for a recipe for onion loaf, which can be sliced but is not a bread.

QUESTION — John Oleyar, Bradenville, wants a recipe to make old-time cheese that uses junket tablets. His mom made it. She put the ingredients through a cheesecloth with a weight on it. It was a semi-hard cheese that tasted great.

QUESTION — Nancy Mayer, Dalton, is looking for recipes to make large quantities of homemade cake mix, cookie mix, and quick bread mix that can be made ahead of time and kept on the shelf until ready to use.

QUESTION — A Lancaster County reader would like a recipe for pepper jelly made with Karo or white corn syrup.

QUESTION — Hazel Spamer, Perry Hall, would like a chow chow recipe that has chopped cabbage, onions, and red pepper with a sweet pickle base, possibly with turmeric as it had a yellow color. It is very crunchy. She writes that Panzers, a Baltimore family, had made the relish many years ago, but cannot be located now. The Spamers have tasted chow chow from a Lancaster County shoppe but it did not taste at all like the one made with cabbage. Does anyone have a recipe that sounds like it might be the one Hazel is searching for?

QUESTION — Ruth Minor, Arnold, Md., would like a recipe for German Apple Cake, which has brown sugar in the batter and also in the crumb topping. It is the best apple cake that she ever tasted, Ruth said. She had cut the recipe from this column during the past year but lost it. We do not have a file of printed recipes, perhaps one of our readers clipped it and could send it to us.

QUESTION — E. Weaver, Mohnton, would like a recipe for bread sticks like those served by Pizza Hut or someone's favorite recipe.

QUESTION — Deb Williams, Liverpool, would like a recipe for old-fashioned clear toy candy.

QUESTION — A Lititz reader would like recipes using oat bran.

ANSWER — Edna Mortimer, Conestoga, wanted a no-knead bread recipe. Thanks to Lois Millheim, Nazareth, for sending recipes for both white and rye breads.

Streamlined White Bread

1¼ cups warm water
2 tablespoons soft shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
1 package yeast
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups flour

Dissolve yeast in water. Add soft shortening, salt, sugar, and half the flour to yeast. Beat 2 minutes on medium speed of mixer. Scrape bowl frequently. Add remaining flour, blending with spoon. Scrape batter from sides of bowl. Cover with cloth and let rise until double, about 30 minutes.

Stir down batter by beating 25 strokes. Spread batter evenly in greased loaf pan. Smooth out top by flouring hands and patting loaf. Let rise again until batter reaches ¼ -inch from top of pan, about 40 minutes. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes or until brown. Remove from pan to cool. Makes one loaf.

Rye Bread

1¼ cups warm water
1 package yeast
2 tablespoons soft shortening
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon caraway seed (optional)
2 tablespoon brown sugar
Light molasses or honey
1 cup rye flour
2½ cups white flour
Mix and bake as white bread.

ANSWER — Sandy Bortner, Spring Grove, wanted recipes for rolls with fillings such as nut, poppy seed, apricot, peanut butter, jelly, cinnamon and sugar, which uses frozen bread loaves. Here are several recipes, some using frozen bread dough, some refrigerated crescent dough, and one with the bread already baked.

Chunky Cheese 'N Olive Bread

1 pound loaf frozen bread dough
⅓ cup melted butter
⅔ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1½ cups pitted ripe olives, halved

Thaw frozen bread dough in refrigerator overnight. Pinch off pieces of dough about the size of an olive. Dip first into melted butter, then into grated Parmesan cheese. In an 8-inch pie plate, place alternate layers of dough balls with layers of halved ripe olives. Continue until all ingredients are used. Let rise in warm place until double in bulk. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven for 35-40 minutes.

Cinnamon Rolls

1 pound loaf frozen bread dough
⅓ cup butter, melted
¾ cup sugar
1½ teaspoon cinnamon

Thaw frozen bread dough in refrigerator overnight. Brush dough with half-melted butter. Combine sugar and cinnamon. Sprinkle dough with half the sugar-cinnamon mixture. Divide in half and starting at short end, roll up jelly-roll style. Cut into 12 slices. Place slices, not quite touching, in a well-greased 13x9x2-inch pan. Repeat with remaining dough. Cover. Let rise until almost double. Bake in 400 degree oven for 30 minutes. Turn out onto cookie sheets immediately. Glaze and serve.

Glaze for Rolls:

3 tablespoons butter
2 cups confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons hot coffee
½ teaspoon maple flavoring

Melt butter. Stir in sugar, hot coffee, and flavoring. Stir until blended. Spread on warm rolls so glaze soaks into rolls. Serve warm or cooled.

Peanut Butter Crescent Roll

½ cup peanuts, roasted and chopped
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon orange rind
1 package refrigerated crescent rolls
¼ cup peanut butter, creamy
¼ cup confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons milk
¼ cup peanuts, roasted and chopped

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Combine ½ cup peanuts, flour, butter, and orange peel in a bowl and set aside. Press seams of crescent rolls together and to form a 14x7-inch rectangle. Sprinkle rectangle with reserved peanut mixture. Roll rectangle from long side as if to form a jelly roll. Place roll in a semi-circle on a lightly buttered baking sheet and make cuts 1-inch apart about ⅔ way through. Bake 20-25 minutes. Remove from oven and cool slightly. Frost peanut crescent roll with honey peanut frosting and sprinkle with ¼ cup chopped peanuts. To make frosting, blend peanut butter, confectioners' sugar, honey, and milk until smooth. Serves 8.

Poppy Seed Bread

Take a homemade loaf of bread and cut in thick slices down to, but not through, the bottom crust. Stand on a large sheet of foil.

Mix softened butter with poppy seeds, or sugar and cinnamon, if preferred. Spread on cut slices.

Bring the foil up over the bread and wrap, but leave opening at top for steam to escape.

Heat for about 20 minutes on the grill over medium heat. Tip over on both sides for part of time for even heating.

Contestants Needed For Ice Cream Churn-Off

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's Dairy Promotion Partners will be sponsoring an "Ice Cream Churn-Off" contest at Penn State's Ag Progress Days.

This year's contest, the sixth annual, will be held on Wednesday, August 17, at 1 p.m., at the dairy promotion booth. The promotion booth will feature sales of ice cream throughout the three-day event and will be located at the corner of Main and West Eighth Streets, on the Ag Progress Days grounds.

Contestants must create and make their own flavors of homemade ice cream for a panel of judges. Prizes are awarded to recipes that use the most original ingredients and have the best flavor and appearance. Recipes that utilize a variety of dairy products and offer simple preparation techniques will receive additional points during judging.

Recipes using only real dairy products will be selected to compete in the contest. Three prizes will be awarded, first $300, second, $150, and third, $100. All contestants will be able to sample each other's recipes, along with the judges. The public will also be able to sample the homemade recipes, as well.

The contest is sponsored by Pennsylvania's Dairy Promotion Partners - the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Mid East United Dairy Industry Association/.F.O. 36 Advertising Agency, and the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program.

To enter the contest, print your name, address, telephone number, and complete written copy of your recipe on a piece of paper and mail it to: "Ag Progress Days, Ice Cream Churn-Off," Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110. Recipes should include all ingredients, preparation instructions, and the amount of ice cream made by the recipe.

All recipes must be postmarked by August 1, 1994, to be entered in the contest. All recipes must be original and must not have been previously published or won an award. Pennsylvania's Dairy Promotion Partners reserve the right to disqualify any entry based upon ingredient selection or similarity to other homemade ice cream recipes.

The contest is open to all Pennsylvania residents, except those that have a professional food status or are affiliated with Pennsylvania's Dairy Promotion Partners. Offer is limited to one entry per family, 4-H club, FFA chapter, or other organization. Teams will be limited to no more than four members.

Further information about the contest is available by calling the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program at (717) 787-6903.

Keeping Your Marriage Strong

Have the wedding chimes turned into noisy gongs and clanging cymbals? If June is a traditional month for weddings, July may be a month for the "first falling out." During the first year of marriage, much enthusiasm for the relationship exists. I encourage any newlyweds to take advantage of this enthusiasm. This is the time to put into place routines that will keep your marriage strong throughout your lives.

In Secrets of Strong Families, Stinnet and DeFrain describe strong families as pleasant, positive places to live and grow. Strong families learn how to treat each other in healthy ways which promote positive self-esteem. One way to do this is to regularly express appreciation to one another. Appreciation helps each of us feel good, and when we feel good, it's easier to show appreciation to others.

Sometimes though, we aren't quite sure how to express our appreciation in healthy ways. Young couples (and the rest of us) need to work on building some of these skills. Starting out on the right foot makes future months so much easier.

For instance, it is important for each partner to communicate to the other just how important and lovable that person is just foe being. Comments like, "Hi, I'm glad to see you," "I love you," and "How are you?" let a person know that he or she is important.

A person can also reinforce how capable or skilled the partner is. When's the last time you said no to your partner, "I like the way you organized the garage" or "I appreciate how quickly you took care of those banking errands?" When's the last time your partner said those kind of words to you? Building a strong family and setting up healthy communication patterns is a two-way street. Both partners need to participate.

Believe it or not, it is also OK to provide your partner with "negative messages." But those messages must be carefully chosen. The only kind of acceptable negative messages are ones that point out a specific action not to do which is followed with an explanation and an alternative behavior that improves the situation. Saying, "Don't ever talk to me llike that in front of my parents again!" doesn't help. Try saying something like, "If you ever feel angry like you did tonight, I'd prefer is you ask me to go into another room and tell me there rather than in front of my family." This allows both people to work on finding a way that's acceptable for each person's needs.

Other statements like, "That's dumb!" or "Stop that!" are ineffective and demeaning. Negative comments need to be carefully screened. What starts off great can sometimes end up being really bad. Think aobut how you would feel if someone said to you. "You look great even though you're putting on weight." or "That looks good considering you made it." Wouldn't it be better to simply say, "Wow. You look great!" or "The cabinet you made is just perfect for that spot in the den."

I encourage partners to take time early in the relationships to begin positive communication patterns. It will help you to build a strong family together. And for those of us who have been in our relationships for a longer time, it's never too late to improve the ways we talk to the people we care about.

Remember, it isn't enough to know yourself how much someone means to you, it is essential to let them know too.

Poultry Ambassador Needed

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Poultry Association is seeking qualified individuals from the ages of 16-21 to apply for the newly created position of Poultry Ambassador.

The chosen individual must be available to represent the Poultry Industry in parades, at the farm show, for Ag In-the-Classroom events and other functions relating to the industry. This individual would help to enhance the image of the poultry industry in Lancaster County and would help to promote the consumption of a variety of poultry products available in the market place.

The Lancaster County Poultry Association is offering a $1,000 cash award to the chosen individual, in addition to monetary reimbursement for appearances and expenses for each function.

The interviews will take place on September 8. The selection process will include an interview based on knowledge of the Lancaster County poultry industry and a five to ten minute oral poultry promotion presentation.

Interested applicants are encouraged to contact George Georges, of the Lancaster County Poultry Association at Wenger's Feed Mill, 1-800-692-6008. Deadline for applications is August 31.

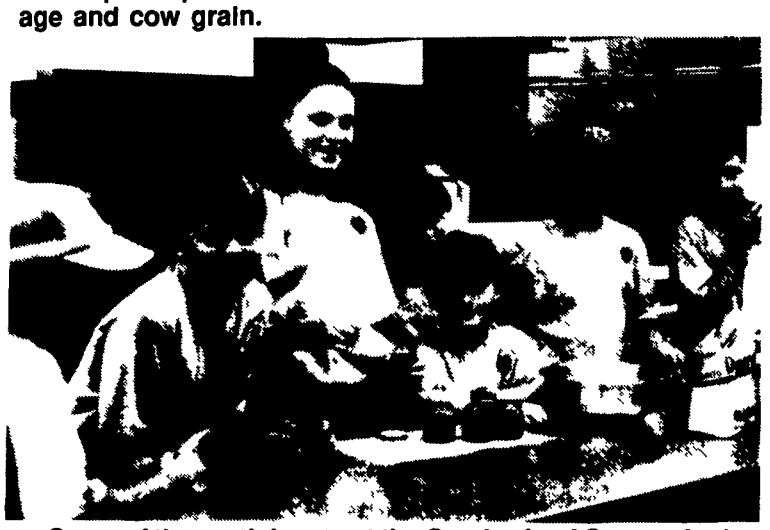
Cumberland County Presents 4-H Ag Science Camp

The group gathers samples of the different feed.

The participants learn the difference between corn silage and cow grain.



Some of the participants at the Cumberland County Agriculture Camp show some of the fruits of the labor — jars of strawberry jam they made themselves.

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co.
Correspondent

MECHANICSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — A group of children had a lot of fun and learned a great deal about farming during the first Cumberland County 4-H Agricultural Science Camp.

The 33 kids who participated in the camp, which was open to both 4-H members and non-members, enjoyed three days of camping and activities at Monroe Elementary School, plus two interesting trips to local farms.

One of the highlights of the camp was a trip to Strock's livestock farm.

At Strock's, where hogs are the main livestock, the children learned about raising and harvesting crops in a plant farming workshop. They learned all about seeds and weeds and planting, fertilizing, and what farmers do to protect the environment.

As part of the workshop, they collected weeds and taped them to a piece of paper. They then had to correctly identify each weed.

As part of the plant harvesting lesson at Strock's, the children got to harvest a "field" of grain that was about 3 feet by 3 feet. They had to cut the straw and thresh the grain, then clean the grain, calculate the yield, and to a moisture test.

While they were at Strock's, they also learned about the different parts of pigs and learned about large machinery that is used to manage the farm.

The other farm they visited was the Walton's dairy farm.

At that farm, they learned about dairy cows, saw how cows are milked, and were allowed to help feed some calves.

The children saw the grain, corn silage, and hay that cows eat and were told why cows need salt blocks to stay healthy.

One of the most fun things they did during their trip to the Walton's was to make their very own little containers of butter.

There was a lot of cooking going on once the children got back to the school.

To start with, they made bread from scratch. They seemed to be having a very good time as they put in the flour, kneaded the dough by hand, and put their creations in the oven. But the best part came when they got the chance to eat their work.

They also got to put their taste buds to work after they got done with their second cooking project, which was to make fresh strawberry jam. The children thought that went pretty good with the bread and the butter.

Another interesting thing the kids go to do was textile weaving. They did that on cardboard looms by hand.

The children learned very much in a very short time at the camp. They will be able to remember the fun they had every time they look at the log books that each of them kept of their experiences and at the puzzles, games, and diagrams of animals and plants and weaving and baking techniques they got to take home from camp.

Ashley Bass and Stephanie McDonald show some of their weaving in progress at the Cumberland County Agricultural Camp.

Kathy Walton explains to the group how the cows are milked.

The participants try to guess the weight of this 50 lb. salt block.

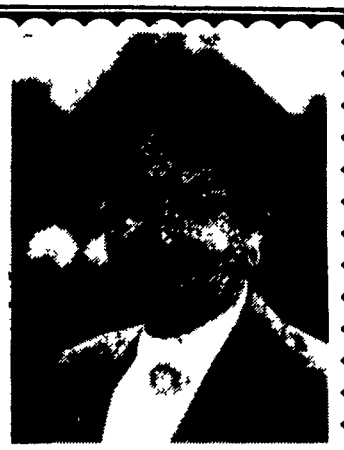
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



When someone mentions hard shell crabs this time of the year, my mouth starts to water. Eating this prized crustacean — the Blue Crab, truly is a unique dining experience.

It is the sort of feasting that you either like or dislike. Liking hard shell crabs indicates a willingness to roll up your sleeves, get your hands messy, and sit for hours and pick succulent crab meat from the highly seasoned hard red shells.

Watermen around the Chesapeake Bay and Eastern shores of Maryland harvest Blue Crabs during the spring and early summer when crabs migrate there.

Live Blue Crabs purchased by bushel are primarily male crabs, known locally as "jimmys." The female crabs, or "sooks," are usually sent to the crab houses and sold as picked meat. Live Blue Crabs are sold as: Jumbos, #1 Jimmys, and Medium crabs. They also may be purchased as medium and large crabs. To be harvested, they must have a legal minimum shell size of five inches from point to point.

Blue Crabs are marketed as both hard shells and soft shells. Soft shell crabs are considered a delicacy. The entire body of the soft shell may be eaten after dressing and cooking. You can catch your own Blue Crabs, as do some of our friends in Maryland, or you can purchase them live or cooked.

In addition they are steamed and sold as fresh, canned or pasteurized crab meat.

Because of the difficulty in picking the meat from the shell and the time it consumes, many people buy crab meat that is cooked, picked and ready to eat.

Picked crab meat is available in several forms. The four most common are lump, backfin, special and claw. Lump or jumbo lump, is the large white lumps of meat that come from the area of the body adjacent to the back fin appendage. Backfin consists of some lumps plus other meat from the body. Special, also called regular or flake, is the white meat without any lumps. Claw meat is often brownish in color and is used in recipes where a white appearance is not important.

Be especially careful in handling crab meat. Keep live crabs alive until ready to cook. Discard any that die. When storing cooked crab meat, place the container in ice and refrigerate it.

Fresh crab meat should be white or off-white color when purchased. It should have a fresh odor, a light "ocean" aroma. Once it starts to deteriorate, if takes on a "sour" smell, then ammonia. Once the ammonia is detected the crab meat should be discarded.

Pasteurized crab meat may be kept unopened in the refrigerator for up to six months, but once it is opened it has a shelf life of only 3-5 days. Canned crab meat needs no refrigeration as long as it is unopened.

Picked crab meat does not freeze well, primarily due to texture changes. It is best to freeze the whole cooked, cleaned body of the crab, along with the claws. Use frozen crabs within three months.

Before using picked crab meat, always examine it for shell fragments. Pick up a small amount at a time and feel it carefully. Handle it gently so that you don't break the pieces apart.

Whether you like to pick and eat hard shells, or make or buy prepared Maryland Crab cakes, or crab soup, you'll enjoy the finest shellfish from the tidal waters.

Quilt Exhibition

WINCHESTER, Va. — The Winchester Rotary Club will sponsor "The Quilts of Virginia" Exhibition at Daniel Morgan Middle School in Winchester, Va. on August 4-7. The exhibition will run in conjunction with Belle Grove Plantation's presentation of "A Century of Quiltmaking" at Shenandoah University on the same dates.

The exhibition will present a sampling of Virginia's rich quilt heritage, with approximately 40 quilts on display. The quilts will be on loan from private collectors throughout Virginia. Visitors will have the opportunity to examine quilting techniques and fashions of the 19th and 20th centuries and to explore the history of quilting in Virginia.

The exhibition will be open to the public and will run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. Admission will be $3.50. All net proceeds will be returned to various community charities via the Rotary Club.

Mercer County Dairy Princess Virginia Mroningstar is flanked by Alternates Kristine Williams and Leanna Wester.

Mercer County Selects Morningstar

CAROL SMITH
Mercer Co. Correspondent

Virginia L. Morningstar was crowned 1994-95 Mercer County Dairy Princess at the annual county pageant at the Mercer County Extension Center. Kristine M. Williams and Leanna E. Wester will serve as alternate Dairy Princesses.

Morningstar, daughter of Eddie and Deanna Morningstar, resides with her parents on their 175-acre dairy operation, Morning - N - Nite Farms in Fredonia. Virginia, 17, is a senior at Lakeview High School. She is active in the choir and serves as the president of Future Farmers of America. She is a member of Mercer County 4-H, Junior Holstein, and Junior Jersey Association. She plans to attend Pennsylvania State University, majoring in agricultural and dairy science.

Kristine Williams, 17, is the daughter of John and Susan Williams, Hadley. Her father is a technician for Atlantic Breeder Cooperative. Kristine, a senior at Commodore Perry High School, participates in volleyball, soccer, and is active on the Prom Committee. She plans to attend Slippery Rock University to further her education.

Leanna Wester, daughter of Albin and Betty Wester, resides on the family's eight-acre dairiy operation in Jamestown. Leanna, a senior at Jamestown High School, is active in Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD), basketball, and Spanish and Art clubs. She also participates in Mercer County 4-H activities. She plans to attend Pennsylvania State University to study animal biological science. She is presently employed by Jamestown Veterinary Clinic.

The evening's entertainment was provided by future dairy princess candidates: Dairy Darlings, ages 5-9, Becky Aiken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Aiken, West Middlesex; Melissa Hanna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hanna, Stoneboro; Nicole Kellogg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rich Kellogg, Jackson Center; Erica Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Montgomery, Grove City; Carrie Moose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Moose, New Wilmington; Sally Oakes, daughter of Mrs. Amy Colpetzer, Greenville; and Mr. Gary Oakes, Jackson Center; Erin Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Parker, Greenville; Crystal Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Robinson, Grove City.

Dairy Delights, ages 10-13, consisted of Tenesha Aden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Aden, Stoneboro; Angela Colpetzer, daughter of Karen Roberts, Titusville, and Tom Colpetzer, Greenville; Cassandra Gadsby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gadsby, Stoneboro; Kathryn Hanna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hanna, Stoneboro; Jennifer Lengel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lengel, Mercer; Tamella Menke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Menke, Greenville; Michelle Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Montgomery, Grove City; Ashley Shannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Shannon, Stoneboro; Jennifer Van Dyke, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Todd Van Dyke, Jackson Center; Kimberly Voohries, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Voohries, Stoneboro.

Marsha Chess, outgoing 1993-94 Mercer County Dairy Princess expressed her appreciation to the dairy industry for the opportunity to experience the many interesting challenges during the past year. Appreciation was also extended to 1993-94 Mercer County alternate Dairy Princesses, Sara Hoover and Anita Werger.

A contest was also held for anyone to submit a drawing to be printed on a T-shirt. The T-shirts will be sold at the Stoneboro Fair. Onalee Smith, Greenville, was chosen as the winner. She will receive the first T-shirt.

The judges panel for the pageant consisted of Barb Chapman, Waterford; Paul Lawrence, New Castle; and Cheryl Pavkov, Edinboro.

Holstein Club Offers Scholarship

FFA HAPPENINGS

Manor FFA

This year the Pennsylvania FFA Association celebrates the 65th anniversary of the FFA.

Approximately 1,250 FFA members and their advisors travelled to Penn State University to attend the Pennsylvania State FFA Activities week, June 14-16.

Twenty-one Manor FFA members and their advisers (Gus Birchler, Carole Fay, and Mike Burton) travelled to Penn State University to compete in several activities and contests.

Teams who placed first in these contests are eligible to compete in the National FFA Contests in Kansas City, Mo., in November.

Teams which placed second in the contests compete at the eastern region FFA contests, which are held in conjunction with the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass. in September.

• Meats judging contest - Tom Karr, 2nd gold; Neil Fellenbaum, 3rd gold; Keith Hoover, 4th gold; and Keith Frey, 5th gold.

The meats team placed 1st and will compete in the National FFA Meats Contest in Kansas City. In the meats judging contest, students identify retail cuts, quality and yield grade meats, and judge cuts of meat and carcasses. A written test is also part of the contest.

• Poultry judging- Joel A. Frey, 1st place gold; Seth Perry, 3rd place gold; Erik Ober 8th bronze award; Jason Troup, 10th bronze award.

The poultry team placed 1st and will compete in the National FFA Meats Contest in Kansas City in November. In the poultry contest, students identify chicken parts, judge live birds, grade eggs, chicken patties, and other poultry products.

• Agricultural mechanics - Barry Graver, 2nd place gold award; Neil Ebersole, 8th place gold award; Dwane Graver, 24th place award; The team placed second and will compete on the national level at Eastern States Exposition in September. Several areas are included in the ag mechanics contest - electrical wiring, welding, small gasoline engines, and concrete and masonry.

• Dairy foods - Joe Best, 2nd place gold award; Jason Reifsnyder, 4th place gold award; Jim Best, 19th place bronze award.

The team placed second and will compete on the national level at Eastern States Exposition in September.

The dairy foods contest consists of identification of cheeses, real and artificial products, determining off-flavors in milk, and taking a written test.

Proficiency Award went to Jay Hess.

Each year, students of the Penn Manor Agriculture Department are involved with a project of their choice. Projects can include the raising of a crop or animal, gardening, or employment in an agriculture-related business. The students keep records on the projects and at the end of the year can compete for a variety of awards. The students complete applications which are referred to as proficiency applications. These applications are judged on the local, county, and regional level.

Jay Hess's application and accurate and complete records on his swine production project advanced to the state level and were evaluated during FFA week competition at Penn State. Jay was interviewed by a committee of teachers, alumni, and state FFA staff. Jay was selected as the swine proficiency winner for the state of Pennsylvania. His application will now advance to the national level, where he will compete against the other state winners in swine proficiency in the northeast region of the FFA. If Jay's application is selected, he will be one of four finalists to compete in Kansas City, at the National FFA Convention. Jay is the son of Mr. & Mrs. Abram Hess, Conestoga, where he is involved in swine production with his parents.

Stephanie Graham was responsible for recording all of the FFA activities in the FFA scrapbook. This year the scrapbook received a silver award.

Manor FFA Chapter competed against all of the other FFA chapters of the state in the superior chapter competition. Each FFA Chapter completes an application, which is evaluated by a committee of teachers and state FFA staff. This year Manor FFA chapter received a gold award based on the activities and accomplishments of our FFA members. The chapter will be competing on the national level and will be recognized at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City.

West Snyder FFA Parliamentary Procedure Team Places Third

The West Snyder FFA parliamentary procedure team recently placed third in state competition at the Pennsylvania State University. Glendon Carper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Carper of McClure, served as president of the West Snyder FFA Parliamentary Procedure Team which placed third in the state with a silver medal.

Other members of the Parliamentary Procedure Team included Eric Leitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ian Leitch of Beaver Springs; John Ewing, son of Mr. Clay Ewing, McClure; Lori Carper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Carper of McClure; Joshua Heeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Heeter, Beavertown; Jennifer Woodling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Woodling of Troxelville; Ben Boonie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Boonie of Beaver Springs; and Jodi Moist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Moist of Beavertown.

Elizabethtown FFA

On Thursday, May 19, the Elizabethtown FFA Chapter held its 35th annual awards program.

Seventeen members were awarded the Greenhand FFA Degree, symbolizing their first year in FFA.

Kristen Hoffman, a freshman, was given the Star Greenhand for an excellent first year. The Chapter FFA Degree, of which eight members were awarded, was given to those continuing agricultural education and meeting specific qualifications.

Gene Barton was given the Star Chapter Award. Barry Shaw, president of Wenger Feeds, received the Blue and Gold Award. This award is given to a member of the community who has served the FFA chapter for a number of years.

Various awards were given to FFA members for special achievements. Special holdiay sales awards were given to the top three salesmen in the chapter's annual fruit sale. This year's winners were Don Heck, Nheel Dreher, and Steve Shull.

Amy Espenshade, president of the FFA chapter, was presented with the DeKalb Achievement Award. This award is given to a senior who has achieved great goals in the FFA.

Dover FFA Members Win State Awards

Fourteen Dover Area High School students joined more than 1,300 other FFA members and their adivsers at the 65th annual Pennsylvania FFA Summer Convention and Activities Week held on the campus of The Penn State University on June 14-16. Four individuals and one team received top awards for their efforts.

Lester Baney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Baney, received second place individual honors in the Small Gasoline Engine Contest. Jed Smyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Smyser, also received individual honors, placing seventh. Both students had a combined score high enough to place the Small Engine Team second in the state.

The Small Gasoline Engine Contest required teams, which had qualified through local, county and area competition, to analyze engine problems, correctly repair those problems, calculate the cost of repair, and present their information to the "customer."

Brian Smyser, son of Mr. and Mr. Rodney Smyser, received third place honors in the Pennsylvania FFA State Judging Contest. With teammates Marc LaFlamme, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry LaFlamme and James Shultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Shultz, the Dover FFA Dairy Judging Team placed 18th.

The Dairy Judging Contest required students to evaluate production records, place classes of dairy animals, conduct linear evaluation and complete a written exam. One hundred students and 25 teams participated in this year's event.

Mike Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Q. Smith, received gold medal recognition for his participation as a chapter delegate. Mike served with 60 other FFA members in preparing recommendations for the state FFA Association as they organized the program of work for the 1994-1995 year. Items included the preparation of a budget, establishment of convention procedures and election of new student officers.

In the State Horse Judging Contest, team members Kristi Ryder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weir Ryder, Sr., Kelli Macdonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garen Macdonald, Missy Meckley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Meckley and Laura Lease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hilbert placed eighth. These team events required contestants to place three classes of pleasure horses and answer technical questions about them, identify equipment used in the horse industry, and complete a written examination on the anatomy and management of horses. Eighty-two FFA members participated in this activity.

The Agriculture Salesmanship Contest required students to conduct a sales presentation on a product selected by the student, complete an objective test on knowledge of professional sales processes, and complete job application and cover letter. Two Dover FFA members were contestants: Lisa Churchill, daughter of Carol Churchill and Gigi Burger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Burger.

Jon Bish, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bish, and Jason Brubaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brubaker, placed 11th and 18th respectively in the State Agronomy Contest. During this contest, Jon and Jason identify weeds, crops, insects, and diseses which affect agronomic crops. Additionally they provided recommendations for control of these weeds and pests by utilizing the Pennsylvania Agronomy Guide.

Larry Redding and Nick Stollar, agriculture education teachers at Dover Area High School, accompanied the group and served on the Nomination Committee and the Ag Sales Contest Committee.

Antique Flea Market

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — The Somerset County Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring its 24th annual Antique Flea Market, Saturday, August 13, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. More than 80 antique dealers will be displaying quality antiques and collectibles. Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

As we have a pleasant view from every side of our house, I have never put up any curtains. So I have a good view in every direction. And, we have no neighbors that live near us.

Thus, the other week I called to Allen, "Come quickly" and so we both saw the big deer in our front lawn. It had four-inch spikes covered with velvet. It stood for a minute and then disappeared around the house, up the hill, through the berry patch and behind the woods.

Another animal that we watched earlier was a red fox. When we had the big round bales in our meadow, the baby fox sat on the top of the bale and seemed to be playing with the parent. There is also an opossum that visits our back porch at nighttime.

One not so welcome family was a group of groundhogs that lives in the middle of the alfalfa field. Each day the little ones wandered farther from their hole and appeared and disappeared in the green growth.

Long ago my mother rescued an injured mourning dove. When it was well, she let it fly around in the kitchen and it even sat on her shoulder. We children were surprised as she was not a person who showed a particular liking for animals.

My one pet when I was a child was a dog named "Rover." He was a black, brown and white long-haired dog. But, one day he got in a fight with a group of dogs and was badly hurt. He died.

Guess I'll be satisfied with my goldfish and the black cat in the garage with two new baby kittens.

Rib Cook-Off And Music Fest

YORK (York Co.) — Where in York will you find sizzling ribs, non-stop music, racing dogs and much more throughout the last weekend in July? At the inaugural Keystone National Rib Cook-Off and Music Fest at the York County Fairgrounds, July 28 through 31.

This new event will feature competition among 15 "ribrateurs" who will sell their specialties to the public and compete in a judged competition, musical entertainment including performances by national acts, a crafts fair, dog races, hot air balloon rides and a variety of other activities including a special children's area, which will feature a petting barnyard.

The field of "ribrateurs" — a term used to describe the restaurants and caterers who will prepare their barbecue specialties — will represents an international flavor coming from Canada, across seven states, and throughout central Pennsylvania.

Four days of non-stop musical entertainment will feature performances by the Charlie Daniels Band, Three Dog Night, Jefferson Starship and Ronnie McDowell and other local and regional acts. The continuous musical entertainment is presented in cooperation with WPMT Fox 43, Country 105 WIOV, WARM 103 FM, 93.5 WTPA and Country 108 WGTY.

A craft fair will feature more than 40 booths, where artisans will sell everything from quilts to handmade jewelry throughout the four-day event.

Event organizers expect more than 60,000 people to attend the festival, which will also include:

- Jack Russell Dog Races with feisty terriers chasing a fox tail.
- A special children's area featuring clowns, magicians and other entertainers.
- Tethered hot air balloon rides will offer a view of the festival from above. (weather-permitting)
- Roving performers entertaining the crowds throughout the fairgrounds.

Hours will be 11:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m., daily. Admission is $4.00 per day for adults and free for children 12 and under. Admission includes all musical entertainment. No coolers, bottles, cans or pets will be permitted. All tickets are general admission. Tickets to the Rib Cook-Off and Music Fest are available at the York County Fairgrounds.

On Tuesday, July 26, rib-lovers will have a chance to preview the culinary experience awaiting them at the Keystone National Rib Cook-Off and Music Fest at the York County Fairgrounds later that week.

At the July 26 "sneak preview," one of the competing ribrateurs, Cowboys BBQ & Rib Co. from Fort Worth, TX, will fire up hot coals at the Cherry Lane Park Box Lunch Revue in downtown York and allow the hungry lunch crowd to sample one rib and a soft drink for just $1.00. The lunch crowd will also enjoy live musical entertainment as well as giveaways by event sponsors. The event, which will take place between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., will be free to the public.

All proceeds from the Rib Cook-Off and Music Fest will benefit the Pennsylvania Livestock Association (PLA). The PLA represents the total livestock association at the state level, provides leadership in education, promotion, research and legislation, as well as encourages and supports youth activities.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Women #20 met at the home of Verna Hess with Doris Worth as co-hostess on Thursday, July 7. Following the refreshments, Doris read the Scripture taken from the 3rd Chapter of Ecclesiastes and the Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison. After the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag Anna Mary had the reading "This World is Mine."

For the Roll Call, each responded by telling what is their favorite past time. The Sunshine Committee reported three cards sent during the month. The proceeds from the June yard sale in Strasburg were $155.55. The president reported the county project selected was the Farm and Home Center. There are 738 farm women members in the county.

Kathleen Bayan, associate of Karpinski & Associates Ins. Agency was the speaker for the program. She gave inportant information and suggestions, one of them being that everyone should have a Living Will.

The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner." Members will meet in August at the Kirkwood Park for the summer picnic. Each one to bring a covered dish.

Berks Executive Board

The executive board meeting of Berks County Farm Women was held recently in the conference room at the Ag Center with 19 women in attendance. Shirley Tallman of Group # 2 was in charge of the devotions. The roll call question was asked, "if you were wife of the President of the U.S., how would you fulfill the role as First Lady?" A variety of answers was given such as allowing the president to run the affairs of the country, plus the one we all were in favor of was: Invite all the farm women to the White House for dinner and use the new china that was just ordered.

Janet Schlegel reported Scenic River days are July 28 to 31. Help is needed to attend at the farm women's stand, which will be the grain guess.

The Berks Heim Fest is September 10 with a circus theme.

Group # 4 is active and back in the fold.

The county convention for October 1, is being planned by the committee. Members should bring all project reports such as safety, youth, and scrapbooks; names of 80- and 90-year members, and a covered dish to the picnic at President Fern's home at 6 p.m. on August 29.

For the State Convention project, have children write an article "How I Spend Rewarding Time With My Family."

This year during county convention, members are looking for people who would be interested in sharing their home with women from the western part of the state. Conotact Fern or Dorothy Strickler.

Watermelon Crafts Festival

SHARTLESVILLE (Berks Co.) — The "Painted Ladies" Merchants Association is sponsoring their fifth annual "Watermelon Crafts Festivals" August 6 and 7 from 10 a.m. through 4 p.m.

Dealers will display a variety of crafts on the lawns, sidewalks, and parking areas of the "Painted Ladies" buildings. Dollmakers, weavers, potters, quilters, and other crafters will sell their varied wares. Lots of "Watermelon" oriented items will be displayed as this festival attracts watermelon collectors from five states.

Shartlesville is home to "The Museum Of The Watermelon," the only museum in the world devoted entirely to the collection and study of "watermelonmania," (watermelon artifacts.)

Other attractions at the festival include watermelon sculptures, all the watermelon you can eat, admission to the Museum Of The Watermelon, seed spitting contest for children and adults, egg and spoon races for children, butter making with antique tools (help with the churning), home baked goods sale, and entertainment. Admission, exhibits, and all contests are free.

"Country Living" magazine will feature an article about the "Watermelon Festival" in their upcoming August issue. For information send a long SASE to "Watermelon Festival", P.O. Box 212, Shartlesville, Pa. 19554 or call (610) 488-7792.

Prizes will be given to the best watermelon sculpture.

Berks Society 6

The July meeting of the Berks County Farm Women Group #6 met at the home of Linda Youse, Oley.

Guest speaker was alternate Dairy Princess Jennifer Davis.

The group will be going on a bus trip July 12, to the Casion's in Atlantic City.

A food committee and game committee were picked for the groups picnic August 21, at 12:30 at the Legion Grove.

The group will have a birthday card shower for honorary member Ruth Herbein who is in a nursing home.

The August meeting will be held at the home of Mary Jane Hetrick, Limekiln.

Longwood Gardens Offers P

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — Nearly 2,000 enthusiastic amateur and professional gardeners are expected to participate in the fall Continuing Education Program at Longwood Gardens.

The program begins on August 9 and continues through December 15, offering the public a wide variety of courses, evening lectures, garden tours, and workshops in the magnificent horticultural environment of the former estate of Pierre S. du Pont near Kennett Square, PA. A detailed brochure is available by calling (610) 388-6741, ext. 516, weekdays 8 A.M.-4 P.M.

Four offerings are scheduled from Longwood's well-known Series I and II courses which ultimately lead to certificates of merit in ornamental plants. All emphasize the aesthetic and practical seasonal attributes of common as well as lesser-known plants that can form the framework for any garden. Instruction includes illustrated lectures and guided, on-grounds study walks that teach identification, culture, and landscape uses of many outstanding plants.

The Series I schedule begins on August 17 with Annuals & Biennials I, which will be taught by Pat Christopher for seven weeks. John Frett will teach Deciduous Trees from October 6 through November 17.

Perennials II, taught by Tina Ault, begins on August 11 and lasts seven weeks. A second Series II Certificate course, Ornamental Grasses, will be taught by Rick Darke from October 5 through November 16.

A variety of courses concerns the science of growing and using plants. Botany for Gardeners II - The Plant's Processes, taught by Jeff Jabco, is popular with both amateur and professional gardeners. A Pruning Workshop, taught by Ed Broadbent, will be held in November and will feature an illustrated lecture/discussion period supplemented with a separate guided study walk. On September 12, in an evening lecture entitled Fungus Among Us - There's Something On My Roots, Roger Gettig from the University of Wisconsin will discuss the little known but essential symbiotic relationship between plants and fungi that ultimately determines the health and survival of many plants.

Registrations are also being accepted for offerings in the plant specialties category. A popular all-day Bonsai Workshop, conducted by Doris Froning and Jack Billet, will be held September 24. Margaret Hensel, author of English Cottage Gardening for American Gardeners, will present an evening lecture on the Cottage Garden Style at 7 p.m. on September 26, followed by a daytime Cottage Garden Workshop on September 27 where students will be working on a cottage-style flower border in a garden setting. An Evening of Waterlilies will be presented on August 14 and again on August 28. This Sunday evening course will take place in Longwood's exotic waterlily display area and will combine the instruction of Pat Nutt and Tim Jennings with a buffet dinner and a fountain performance. Local plantsman Andrew Bunting will present Spinning the Colorwheel - Unusual Plant Combinations for the Garden on October 12. On October 21, Longwood's curator Rick Darke will repeat his popular Native Plants in the Gardened Landscape, a three-hour guided tour of native plants in Longwood's public display.

Offerings in the art and design category include the always-popular Holiday Decorations taught by Joan Frain and Mary Allinson scheduled for December 7 and 8. The Holiday Centerpiece will be taught by Judy McCabe on December 14 and 15. Advanced Floral Design, with instructor Nancy Gingrich Shenk, will be offered as a six-week course beginning August 9. Anna B. Francis will repeat her popular Drawing and Watercolor Painting for eight weeks beginning on September 22. All these courses have limited enrollment, so early registration is suggested. A new offering, beginning on October 25, is Today's Gardens Look to History. This three-session illustrated discussion by garden history expert Dr. Irwin Richman will trace garden design elements from the classic period to today's home gardens.

Five evening events, held either in the Longwood Ballroom or Auditorium, begin at 7:30 p.m. and are followed by a dessert reception.

On September 19, Steve Frowine, vice president of White Flower Farm, will present Perennials - Past, Present & Future, an illustrated talk in which he will share insights gained while touring the world searching for forgotten, old-fashioned, and yet- to- be-discovered perennials.

Martha Wolfe, executive director of the John Bartram Association, will present a fascinating view of The Original Environmental Garden on October 3. Wolfe will explain how John Bartram's environmental vision continues to guide the Association in sustaining the oldest botanical garden in America in its unique location on the Schuylkill River in Philadelphia.

Nancy Gingrich Shenk returns to the Longwood Ballroom on October 24 to present Everyday Flowers for the Home. This symposium-style lecture will reveal how simple techniques can be used to produce elegant every-

You Ask ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? You Answer

In response to readers' questions, this column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for the answers. In the past, many readers sent non-cooking requests to Cook's Question Corner, a cooking column on page B 8.

"You Ask — You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. The concept is the same: When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask — You Answer, Lou Ann Good, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

QUESTION — A. Nolt of New Holland would like to know the words to the complete poem that was recited in the 1920s when her father-in-law went to school. The poem contains these lines: The carpenter's house is falling down. The preacher's kids are the worse in town.... Since this request appeared, Theresa Litecky, Eastampton, N.J., and several others have written to say they remember parts of this poem and can hardly wait to see the complete poem. Since no one has answered this request for several weeks, we assume readers do not know the answer and will drop the request unless we receive the complete poem immediately.

QUESTION — Romaine B. Answell, Sumerdale, would like to know who manufactured the Webalco electric skillet.

QUESTION — Charles E. Wright, Duncannon, purchased a 13-inch parlor stove made of iron with the following marks: On the front spark inside is written Gray Iron Casting Co., Mt Joy, Pa. On the inside top door 75-11; on the poker 7517 The doors, drafts, etc., would look a full-sized stove. Is this company still in business?

QUESTION — A reader would like to know if someone has a grain scale that can be bought to weigh saffron or gunpowder.

QUESTION — Walter Hertzog, King of Prussia, asks how to get rid of bamboo in his yard that is running shoots everywhere. He also asks where to purchase clump bamboo that doesn't run.

QUESTION — Mary Sasscer, Upper Mailboro, Md., would like to know where to purchase a used treadle scroll saw for use in demonstrating at craft shows.

QUESTION — Anna Newswanger, 185 S. Pool Forge Rd., Narvon, PA 17555, would like to purchase the book "Ada and the Wild Duck," by Edith Brecht. Please state price when answering.

day floral designs for dressing up any windowsill, front door, dining table, or home situation.

America's national flower will be the subject of Howard Walters' Roses! Roses! Roses! presentation on November 14. As past president of the American Rose society and a columnist for 22 years in the American Rose Magazine, Walters will share a lifetime of rose experience to illustrate how a realistic rose care program that is correctly in tune with nature can put the fun back in rose growing and beautiful roses back in the garden.

A personal view of Delaware Valley horticulture will be given on December 5. Charles Cresson will present an inside look at his four-generation family garden located in Swarthmore, Pa. Hedgleigh Spring - 100 Years in a Family Garden, featuring a remarkably complete and beautiful pictorial record extending back to 1881, will give perspective on how garden spaces change with time and how design ideas and plant combinations evolve.

For more information, including prices and detailed schedule, contact the Continuing Education Office, Longwood Gardens, P.O. Box 501, Kennett Square PA 19348-0501, (610) 388-6741 ext. 516, weekdays 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

Food Workshops

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — Learn How To Can Foods At Home is a two-part workshop that is intended for the person who wants to learn the basics of home canning.

Cost is $10 per participant and includes the U.S. Department of Agriculture publication, "Complete Guide To Home Canning." Persons interested in attending must register by Friday, July 29. To register contact the Penn State Cooperative Extension Office in Bradford County at the above address or (717) 265-2896.

These workshops will also be offered on Tuesdays, August 2 and 9, from 9 a.m. to noon, at the Wyoming County Extension Office, Wyoming County Courthouse. Tunkhannock, PA 18657. Contact the Wyoming County Extension Office at (717) 836-3196 or at the above address to register.

Craft Professionals' Seminar

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension will be sponsoring a one-day workshop for craft business owners, "Developing Your Competitive Edge," at the Lebanon County Agricultural Center from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on August 2.

Topics covered will include developing and marketing yourself in the business; community, craft guild membership, and juried versus non-juried craft shows.

Featured speaker will be Gregory Passewitz, leader of Natural Resources and Small Businesses of the Ohio State Cooperative Extension Service. Passewicz will be assisted by a panel of guild representatives and professional craftspeople.

Advance registration is required; a fee of $20 covers lunch and all class materials.

Display Garden Open House July 30

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — The Rutger's Display Garden Open House is at hand. This popular event informs and entertains thousands of visitors annually. There really is something for everyone in the family on July 30th, 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. rain or shine.

Tours of the Donald B. Lacey flower and vegetable display gardens, including the nationally recognized All American Display Gardens, are guided by Rutgers and Cooperative Extension faculty and staff. And there is an "ask the experts clinic" available for any gardening questions you may have.

A series of lectures will be held in the air-conditioned Holly House located in the display garden area. The schedule and topics are: 10:00 a.m. - The Butterfly Garden; 11:00 a.m. - Home Landscaping, Delight or Disaster; 1:00 p.m. - Herbs, Potpourri and Dried Flowers; 2:30 p.m. - Tribute to Donors and volunteers.

Children are the focus of many activities. At 10:45 and 1:00 there will be special children's garden tours and at noon Peter Rabbit's 100th Birthday Party will include a scavenger hunt. Face painting will be available from 10:30-12:00 and 2:00 to 3:00 and hay rides at 9:30 and 2:00.

Special educational displays and handouts will cover soil testing, tick and insect identification, and home composting. Soil test sample kits, bamboo stakes, and books will be available for purchase. Lunch will also be available at the outdoor "cafe."

The Rutgers Gardens are located off Ryder's Lane, just off Route 1 in New Brunswick. The Open House is free and parking is available on the premises.

QUESTION — D. Newsom, Cooperstown, N.Y., would like to know where to find kegs for Saint Bernards to wear around their necks. He needs real kegs, not miniature knick-knacks, that live Saint Bernards wear.

QUESTION — D. Newsom, Cooperstown, N.Y., would like to buy an Aladdin Lamp that is either electric or oil or kerosene, but not the Aladdin mantle type. He wants the shape, the kind rubbed for a wish in the story of the Magic Lamp.

QUESTION — D.Newsom, R. 2, Box 530 Copperstown, N.Y. 13326-9606, would like to purchase soft fake fur or plush large pieces in 6 to 8 yard lengths. Can be new or used. Send source and price.

QUESTION — A subscriber from Lehighton would like to know where to purchase plastic lids for soft plastic quart containers for freezing produce. If lids cannot be purchased separately, where can she purchase wholesale a case of plastic quart containers.

QUESTION — Nancy Cummings, Bolivar, would like to know why celery plants go to seed. She has grown celery all her life and the last two years, some of the plants go to seed instead of developing a nice stalk.

QUESTION — M. Carver writes: What a surprise in our garden when we discovered the local nursery supplied us with cabbage plants instead of brussel sprouts. We would like to know how they are handled while fresh and also a pepper slaw recipe for canning or other recipes for cabbage. Please check pages B 6 and B 8 this week for recipes.

QUESTION — Betsy Dehn, Spencerville, Md., writes that when she was young, there was a story that went something like this: It was nearing the Christmas holidays and the apple tree was feeling sad and forelorn. His branches were bare and plain whereas the pine tree was decorated with tinsel and glitter. The apple tree complained to God and God said to the apple tree that he would give the tree a special gift. Betsy doesn't remember the remainder of the story, but God ended up putting a Christmas star in the heart of each apple. If you cut an apple crosswise, you will find a perfectly shaped five-point star in the heart of the apple. Betsy would like to have the complete story of how the star came to appear in the center of the apple.

QUESTION — Dennis Williams, Liverpool, wants to know how to remove kerosene soot from interior painted drywall.

QUESTION — Sarah Clark, Breezewood, would like to know if there is a way to break a dog of being afraid of thunder and lightning. The Clarks have tried letting the dog outside during the storm, but it hasn't helped.

ANSWER — A Thorton reader wanted to know how to discourage Canadian geese from taking up residence in their pond. Thanks to M. Lyczak, Crosswicks, N.J., who suggests buying a five to six-foot inflatable alligator and placing it in the pond. He said he read about this in a magazine and the farmer said that it worked for him.

UPDATE OF THE NUTRIENT REQUIREMENTS OF POULTRY

Dr. William B. Roush
Poultry Science

The "1994 Nutrient Requirements of Poultry" manual is available from the Nutrition Research Council. The new edition of the poultry manual represents a major effort to update the 1984 edition of this classic reference source. A reassessment of the nutritional data in the previous edition was made. Substantially more information has been added (the size of the manual was increased from 71 to 155 pages).

Chapter titles include 1) components of poultry diets; 2) nutrient requirements of chickens; 3) nutrient requirements of turkeys; 4) nutrient requirements of geese; 5) nutrient requirements of ducks; 6) nutrient requirements of ring-necked pheasants, Japanese quail, and Bobwhite quail; 7) signs of nutritional deficiencies in chickens and turkeys; 8) toxicity of certain inorganic elements; 9) composition of feedstuffs used in poultry diets; and 10) standard reference diets for chicks. The appendices include documentation of the nutrient requirements, estimating the energy value of feed ingredients, and conversion factors.

In most instances, the nutrient requirements were derived from empirical observations of poultry to changes in dietary concentrations or intakes of specific nutrients. The committee emphasizes that the requirements reported have not been increased by a "margin of safety." The values represent the judgment of the subcommittee on poultry nutrition after reviewing published data. The criteria used in establishing nutrient requirements included growth, reproduction, and feed efficiency and, where possible, poultry health and quality of poultry products.

Dr. Jerry Sell, chair of the subcommittee on poultry nutrition, indicated that the scientific knowledge about many of the nutrient requirements was incomplete. As a result, calculations and interpolations were made to estimate some of the requirements. These estimations are designated by bold type in the tables. Where estimations were determined to be inappropriate, a question mark was included.

As compared to previous editions, this report contains additional information on feedstuffs, including the procedures used to determine metabolizable energy values and a method to estimate amino acid contents of feed ingredients. A detailed discussion is made of dietary fat sources. The nutrient composition of feedstuffs includes true metabolizable energy values, coefficients of true amino acid digestibility, and equations to estimate amino acid values based on proximate analysis data.

The 1994 revised edition of the poultry manual should be a welcome addition to the nutrition library of anyone who is interested in the nutrient requirements of poultry. The new manual is available for $24.95 from the National Academy Press, 2101 Constitution Ave., N.W., Lockbox 285, Washington, DC 20055, (800) 624-6242.

Threshermen Show Aug. 5-7

DENTON, Md. — The Eastern Shore Threshermen and Collectors Assoc., Inc. will be holding its 34th annual Wheat Threshing, Steam and Gas Engine Show on August 5-7 at their show-grounds located on Rt. 313 between Denton and Federalsburg. The show features free admission and free parking.

Besides the main attraction of wheat threshing, there will be shingle sawing, sawing with a miniature sawmill and rock crushing. There will be steam engines, antique tractors, gasoline engines, antique cars and steam models in operation. A daily parade of all equipment will be held at 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and at 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Smokey Joe, a miniature steam train which is a replica of the Civil War locomotive "The General," will provide rides to kids of all ages.

There will also be a large flea market with more than 125 dealers and plenty of good food, including fried chicken dinners, crab cakes, hamburgers, and hot dogs.

Free country music shows will be held Friday evening with the "The Bay Country Gentlemen" bluegrass msuic and "J.R.'s Midnight Express" on Saturday evening. Both shows will start at 7:30 p.m. On Sunday evening at 5:30 p.m. "Hearts Afire" will be providing Gospel music.

Exhibitors of antique equipment are welcome. There is no charge to exhibit.

Fair Happenings

Summer Fun At The 1994 Maryland State Fair

The 113th Maryland State Fair is a sure bet for summer food, fun, and celebration. This 10-day festival complete with home arts demonstrations, agricultural and livestock presentations, midways chills, live entertainment and horse racing will open Saturday, August 27 and run through Monday, September 5 at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County.

The fairgrounds open at 8 a.m. for livestock and horse shows, demonstration halls open at 10 a.m., and the Midway opens at 11 a.m. on weekends and noon on weekdays.

The Maryalnd State Fair is an educational resource complete with daily exhibits and demonstrations which are sure to captivate visitors of all ages. Fairgoers are invited to explore the Farm and Garden, 4-H, and Home Arts Buildings, the Cow Palace, Horse Show Ring, and other agricultural buildings and displays as well as the Exhibition Hall.

The State Fair is the culmination of over a year's worth of hard work for 4-H members who will compete in shows and demonstrations throughout the Fair. The 4-H Livestock Show will begin Saturday, August 27 and run through Wednesday, August 31. The 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale will begin Wednesday, August 31, at 7 p.m. The Open Class Livestock Show will open Thursday, September 1, and run through Labor Day.

Fair Pass

The Schuylkill County Fair Association announced their sale of one person week-long fair passes. This $6 pass will admit the same person each day to the Schuylkill County Fair, scheduled Monday, August 7 - Saturday, August 13.

A new admission system will be used at the fairgrounds this year. Vehicles will enter the grounds and be parked immediately. Visitors will then enter the fairgrounds through one of three admission gates. This new system will help eliminate a safety hazard of vehicles stopped on Route 895.

Anyone more than six years of age will be charged $2 admission. On Wednesday, August 10, Senior Citizens Day, all seniors will enter free until 4 p.m. Also, a special handicapped entrance will be provided.

To obtain a week-long pass, visit the Schuylkill Conservation District Office in the Fairlane Village Mall from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. Monday - Friday. One may also contact a fair board member or visit the the fair free on Registration Day, Saturday, August 6 from 1 - 5 p.m. or Sunday, August 7, Preview Day, from 9 a.m. - 7 p.m. Additional parking space is being negotiated witih a neighboring property owner. However, participants are still urged to carpool because parking may be limited on busy evenings.

Week-long passes will not be available after Sunday, August 7. For more information, contact the conservation district office at (717) 429-1744 or the fair office at 754-FAIR (3247).

Premium List For Fair Exhibits Available At Fair Office

Allentown Fair Premium Lists, which explain exhibit entry procedures for this year's fair running August 30-September 5, are available at the fair office.

Requirements, deadlines and fees for entry in all departments are listed. Animals, farm, orchard, garden and home products, flowers, photographs, antiques, arts and crafts are judged and exhibited at the fair.

In addition to the traditional fair judging categories, the Premium List describes six corporate-sponsored culinary competitions. They are listed as "Special Contests" under the Home Products section.

Two of the contests, Land O Lakes Light and No Fat Sour Cream "Quick Bread" and SPAM "Best Recipe," are state level competitions with winning recipes forwarded to national test kitchens. Placing entries at the fair can win up to $100. The national Land O Lakes winner will receive $500 and a year's supply of products. The SPAM national finalist will win a trip for two to anywhere in the world SPAM is sold plus $1,000 in cash.

New this year, the locally-operated Clover Hill Winery and Vineyards is sponsoring a "Cooking With Wine" contest. Entrants may prepare an appetizer, entree, or dessert. Place winners will receive gift baskets from Clover Hill.

Premium Lists can be picked up at the fair office behind the Ritz Barbecue on the fair grounds weekdays between 9 a.m.-5 p.m. They are also available at the fair ticket office Saturdays from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. For more information, call (610) 433-7542.

Records Set At National Corriedale Sale

WOOSTER, Ohio — Corriedale breeders from 20 states assembled at the Wayne County Fairgrounds in Wooster, Ohio for the annual meeting of the American Corriedale Association, Inc. and the National Sale.

A record average price of $416.73 was achieved on the 136 head sold, and grossed $56,675. This average was up approximately $10 per head over the previous record-setting sale held at the Midwest Stud Ram Sale in Sedalia, Mo. last year.

Corriedale breeders from coast to coast consigned their best, and it was evident that a good sale was in the making. Record attendance at the annual meeting held the previous evening, Corriedale enthusiasm and new interest running at a high level proved to be a good combination for a record sale.

The sale started on a hot pace as the grand champion ram from Phillippi Corriedales of Hammond, Mont. quickly sold to Dayle and Donna Waddington of Ukiah, Calif. for $5,000. This was the second all-time record price for a Corriedale ever sold at auction in the United States and was only exceeded in price a number of years ago as a Harley Martin ram from Wyoming sold in the Midwest Stud Ram Sale for $6,500.

The reserve champion ram was a Bruce Hoffman ram from South Dakota and sold to Carolyn Tolman of Massachusetts for $1,100. This price was outdone, however, by the fourth place yearling from Dayle and Donna Waddington and sold jointly for $1,400 to Dan and Dave Hampton and Louis Zimmer of Indiana. Five yearling rams brought over $1,000 each as the 22 yearlings averaged $672.73.

Phillippi Corriedales were class winners once again in the junior ram lamb class, winning both first and second. Both lambs brought $400 each going to Wayne Kemler of Ohio and Laura Martin of Pennsylvania.

The yearling ewes once again proved to be a very interesting and record-setting class. The grand champion ewe consigned by Dayle and Donna Waddington sold to Valley Lamb and Wool Company of Maryland for $1,100. The second place yearling consigned by Merlau Farms of Indiana quickly sold to Bill Lowry of Indiana for $1,750. However, after several ewes brought in the $400 to $600 range, bidding got quite intense on a My-Bar Farms entry from Illinois. When the bidding was over, an all-time record selling Corriedale ewe at auction was attained. This ewe brought $3,100 from Ben and Mary Bow of Pennsylvania. This exceeded the previous record of $2,700 set at the East Central Sale a number of years ago. The 21 regular yearling ewes set a record average of $642.86.

A new class called "Natural Yearling Ewes" was initiated this year. This consists of yearling ewes sheared at the show, the ewes were then judged by the show judge, Tom Crane, and were allowed up to 65 points according to the new scorecard. The fleeces were then judged by Keenan Mitchell and allowed up to 35 points according to the scorecard. The combined scores were tabulated and placed accordingly. Phillippi Corriedales were the winners of this class and sold to Tom Crane of California for $800. These 10 natural yearling ewes averaged $372.50.

The reserve grand champion ewe was a Kin Brothers senior lamb from Ohio and sold to Susan and David Cummings of New York for $1,000. Dayle and Donna Waddington had a good lamb bring $600 to Wolf Brothers of Ohio as the 16 fall ewe lambs averaged $385.94.

The intermediate ewe lamb class was won by Ed Craig of Illinois and sold to Merlau Farm of Indiana for $275. The top selling ewe in this class, however, was another My-Bar entry and sold to Laura Martin of Pennsylvania for $650. This group of ewe lambs averaged $315.48.

The junior ewe lamb class was won by Henry Shultz and Family of Missouri and sold to Bill Allen of Ohio for $300. The top-selling lamb in this class was a Suzanne VanNatter entry from Michigan and sold to Pikes Peak Woolies/ Herbold of Colorado for $350. The 13 junior ewe lambs averaged $192.31.

4-H'er Parlays Project Into Profits

NEWARK, Del.— Like any good business person, Chris Breeding, 14, gets a little cagey when heh talks about exactly how much profit he's making on his vegetable garden and stand. But it is enough to put a third back into the farm, a third toward family vacations, and another third to split between Chris and his 11-year-old brother Steve.

As a member of Stateline 4-H club in Seaford, Chris began a vegetable gardenign project in 1989. Since then, it has grown from a 100 by 200 feet plot in 1989 to 2.5 acres planted this year. He's had to enlist the help of his brother and his mother, Sue, and father, Ron.

His garden was so prolific, Chris decided to set up a roadside stand — Little Boys' Produce Wagon on Route 20 west of Seaford. His biggest sellers are tomatoes, corn, watermelons, and cantaloupe. But he growns 10 additional kinds of vegetables.

Joy Sparks, University of Delaware state 4-H program coordinator, said it's not unusual for kids to turn their 4-H projects into profit-making enterprises.

"To listen to these kids talk about their profits and how they're going to invest them, you'd think they'd been in business for years," she said. "And they are happy to share what they've learned with others."

Chris said he had the benefit of learning the ropes of an agricultural business from his grandfather. But Chris will extend this knowledge to others later this month. He'll be giving a demonstration — The What, When, Where and Why of Vegetable Gardening — at the Delaware State Fair as part of the State 4-H Demonstration competition.

"Gardening and working at the produce wagon means putting in long hours," Chris said. "My typical day begins aroudn 6:30 a.m. and ends around 9:30 p.m. It's seven days a week for about eight weeks."

The brothers share most of the load by each working an hour on and an hour off at the stand. That way they can each have a break.

"Gardening is a lot of hard work, but it is fun," he said. "It has taught me so many things."

Chris says he's learned to plan ahead, to take tiem to prepare the soil, and to keep on top of watering and weeds throughout the season. He's also learned that quality and customer service will build repeat business.

"I found out that quality is important so I pick the vegetables fresh each day. If I have any left, I give people extra. I want them to come back."

His advice to other youthful entrepreneurs? Don't give up. It's hard at first, but you can overcome any difficulties.

Health Care Reform Debate Needs Shift Toward Reality

ALBANY, N.Y. — The state's leading farm and rural advocacy group is urging members of the New York congressional delegation to move the health care reform debate away from more government and toward making the individual more responsible. According to New York Farm Bureau President Charles E. Wille, "Making the individual the consumer instead of insurance companies will curb the exploding cost of health care."

Wille said the hallmark of Farm Bureau's legislative position on health care reform is to create a mechanism where the individual takes charge of their own health care.

"We believe that Congress should create medical savings accounts for individual Americans. The establishment of medical savings accounts would allow individuals to set aside money in anticipation of future health care costs."

He said, "If the individual pays for his or her own medical bills, the medical costs will come down. They would directly buy their own catastrophic health insurance and directly pay their health care provider for everyday medical costs."

Wille said that Farm Bureau would like to see farms and other small businesses get the same tax benefits already afforded to the big corporations — a 100 percent tax reduction for those who self-finance their health insurance. He noted that farmers would also like to see health care policy that promotes personal wellness, fitness, and preventive care.

To help those who cannot meet their own medical costs, Wille indicated that Farm Bureau supports direct financial assistance to pay for their health care needs. As a means of making health care operate more efificiently, the farm community supports a number of positions, including the following: development of legislation that will lead to a periodic review of regulations impacting the delivery of health care; privately funded optional health care delivery systems, such as health maintenance organizations; properly compensating providers for treating Medicare and Medicaid patients; and efforts to improve the availability and delivery of health care in rural areas.

Family, Agent Honored By 4-H

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Three generations of the Markline-Waltimyer family of Madonna, Harford County, were named "4-H Family of the Year" during the Maryland 4-H Recognition Program recently at the state fairgrounds in Timonium.

The Waltimyers include John and Marta Waltimyer and son B.J., 12 and daughter Kara, 15, in addition to grandparents Dorothy and Ben Markline.

Also recently recognized was Dr. Richard R. Angus, who retired a year ago after more than 35 years of service to 4-H programs in both Minnesota and Maryland as a cooperative extension service professional. Angus continues to work part-time at the Maryland 4-H Center as a volunteer. He is current O'Chief of the Maryland 4-H All Stars organization and is national president of Epsilon Sigma Phi, the honorary fraternity for professional extension workers.

Dr. Richard R. Angus gives his acceptance speech after being inducted into the Maryland 4-H Hall of Fame.

Beef Industry Announces Assessment Plan

CHICAGO, Ill. — Meaningful value-based marketing is one step closer, thanks to the National Beef Instrument Assessment Plan announced by the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Reliable instrument assessment is a critical link in the process of accurately predicting eating quality of beef products, according to J.O. Reagan, director of product technology research, National Live Stock and Meat Board.

"Industry must accurately measure high-value traits before producers can be paid for them," said Gary C. Smith, university distinguished professor occupying the Monfort Endowed Chair, Colorado State Universitiy and chair of the National Beef Instrument Assessment Palnning Committee.

Instrument assessment involves the use of various tools and instruments to measure important characteristics of beef. The goal is to develop tools to accurately measure the factors that predict the quality and eating pleasure of beef, such as marbling, composition and tenderness. Part of the instrument assessment research process includes basic research work to develop new measurement approaches by better understanding connections between measurable traits and beef quality. Another important aspect of the research process is applied research, which rigourously tests existing technologies in real-world situations.

Deere Announces New Collector Card Series

MOLINE, Ill. — Deere & Company recently announced a new collector card series to its dealer network. The cards, labeled "1994 Series," are available to the public through John Deere dealers in 100-card complete sets and 10-card foil packs.

The 2½ x 3½ -inch cards depict both recent and antique agricultural equipment such as tractors, combines, cultivation equipment, plus planting and harvesting equipment. Other cards feature Deere's industrial and lawn and grounds care products as well as important events from the company's 157-year history.

Nolan Ryan, recently retired Texas Rangers pitcher who holds several major league marks including seven no-hitters, has agreed to participate with Deere in the company's first set of trading cards. Ryan signed 800 cards that feature him with his John Deere machinery in various locations on his Texas ranch. The personally autographed cards have been inserted randomly into the 10-card foil packs.

Deere and Company's new 1994 Series collector cards feature historical and current agricultural equipment as well as industrial and lawn and grounds care equipment. The cards are available through participating Deere dealers after August 1.

Enhanced Cut, Cover Tillage With Deep Tiller

KALIDA, Ohio — Unverferth Manufacturing Company, Inc. introduces a new version of its popular Cut, Penetrate and Cover CPC 2000 deep-till implement.

The patented Brent CPC 2000's newly designed rock shaft and heavy duty springs for the front disk gangs provides 30 percent greater down pressure and allow the disks to follow field conditions with precision. A wider axle base provides better stability and uniform penetration. Rear disk gangs feature an updated double spring suspension linkage which allows rear discs to follow ground contours independently of the front disc gangs.

Both the front and rear disk gangs of this machine are on-the-go depth adjustable to control the amount of residue on top of the soil. The angle of the disks is also adjustable from 20 degrees, for more aggressive work, to 14 degrees for less cutting action, allowing the operator to adjust residue from 0-85 percent and meet management preferences from field to field or conservation compliance guidelines.

Unverferth Manufacturing Company, Inc. introduces a new version of its popular Cut, Penetrate and Cover CPC 2000 deep-till implement. The patented Brent CPC 2000's newly designed rock shaft and heavy duty springs for the front disk gangs provides 30 percent greater down pressure and allow the disks to follow field conditions with precision.

For more information, contact Unverferth Manufacturing Co., Inc., P.O. Box 357, Kalida, OH 45853, (800) 322-6301 or (419) 532-3121.

Harris Joins Staff

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — Dr. Peter Harris, D.V.M., has recently joined the staff of food animal veterinarians with Hutchinson, Trayer and Reed Veterinary Associates.

Harris has his bachelor's and veterinarian degrees from North Carolina State University. He has worked in a predominantly dairiy practice in Williamsburg.

Farmers'-Businessmen's Picnic Set

PITTSTOWN, N.J. — The 1994 Farmers'-Businessmen's Picnic, sponsored by the Hunterdon County Board of Agriculture, will be held here at Oak Grove Plantation on Oak Grove Road on Wednesday, July 27. Wagon tours of the farm will start at 4:30 p.m., with a picnic supper at 6:30 p.m.

Oak Grove Plantation is owned and operated by Ted and Susan Blew. Theirs is a general farm, raising hogs and organic vegetables. There will be a guided wagon tour of the field crops, and Susan will give a guided walking tour of the vegetables.

After supper, Garabed "Chuck" Hayataian, Speaker of the House of the State of New Jersey, will be the guest speaker. His talk will be on the Commercial Farm Building Law just passed and the viability and future of agriculture in New Jersey.

There will be a drawing for door prizes after the talk.

Directory Reveals Local Farm Harvests

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — Everyone knows that summer is the season for fresh strawberries, sweet corn, tomatoes, and all those other fruits and vegetables. But who knows when to buy locally-grown produce?

Where to pick your own berries or flowers? How to purchase meats directly from the producers? Or where to get straw for the home garden?

With the help of a new, free directory of local farms, anyone can have this information at their fingertips.

"Fresh from Montgomery County Farms" is a listing for the 1994 growing season of 40 area producers. Included are the farm names, address and phone, general location, farm-grown products, services and hours. An availability schedule and county map are shown.

The directory is a product of Montgomery County Cooperative Extension, based at the County 4-H Center on Route 113 in Creamery.

"Our directory makes it as easy for consumers to be at the right place at the right time," said Nancy Stevens, director of the Montgomery County extension office. "For some people, it'll be the first time they've bought directly from the field. They'll be the most surprised when they discover the variety, the fresh flavors, and the farm experience."

Stevens points out that by buying from farmers, consumers can learn more about agriculture and the families that make a living off of the land, first settled three hundred years ago. Helping maintain open space in the county is another benefit. And on a final, very practical note, Stevens said that it's easier to get kids to eat more fruits and vegetables when they are fresh and taste better.

Copies of "Fresh from Montgomery County Farms" are available at any of the county information centers (Abington, Ambler, Ardmore, Hatboro, Lansdale and Pottstown), at the county courthouse lobby in Norristown, and the public libraries.

For a copy by mail, send a self-addressed, stamped legal size envelope to Montgomery County Cooperative Extension, P.O. Box 20, Route 113, Creamery, PA 19430. Ask for "Fresh from Montgomery County Farms." It is available in large quantities to organizations, churches, or employers. For more information, call (610) 489-4315.

York Farm Credit Announces Patronage Refund

YORK (York Co.) — York Farm Credit, ACA announces a patronage refund of $385,000 to its members/borrowers as part of the association capitalization plan.

The association files as a cooperative with the IRS, which is a benefit to York Farm Credit's members/borrowers because that means profits can be returned at some future time.

Members/borrowers derive benefits based on their use — the more business that members/borrowers do with York Farm Credit, the larger the patronage refund.

Checks will be mailed in the last quarter of 1994 to 1,746 members/borrowers.

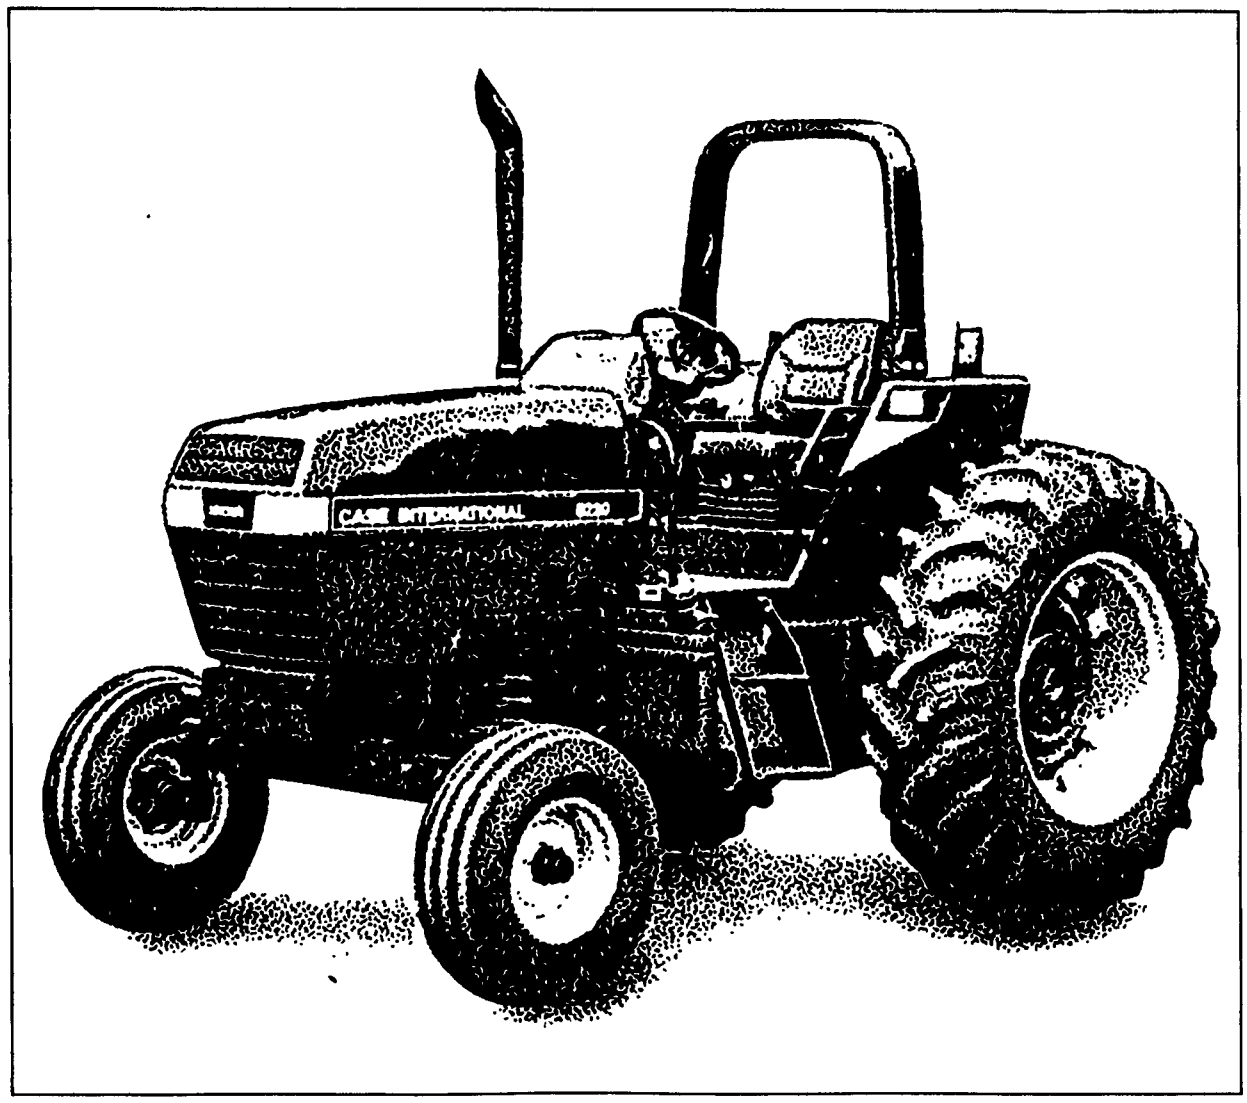
Pa.-Bred Bull Enters Select Sires Program

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — 7H4831 C&M-R-Run Targ Granger-ET *TL, a yound sire bred by Michael Hoover of Tyrone, PA, has been chosen to enter Select Sires' Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) sire sampling system. Based on his outstanding pedigree, 7H4831 has been selected as one of 200 Holstein bulls from throughout the United States to enter the program in 1994.

Expect daughters of 7H4831 to be high protein producers, as he is sired by Target and his dam completed a record over 27,950M with 3.6% protein. The dam, a Rotate daughter, is scored Excellent (90) with an Excellent udder. The maternal grandam, a Ned Boy, is scored (VG-85-EX-MS-DOM) and has averaged 3.5% protein in two lactations. 7H4831 is bred to sire lots of high-solids milk and correct udders, feet and legs.

Best Values in New Equipment

MAXXUM



Case International MAXXUM® set new standards for mid-size tractors. With the 5200 Series, those standards have been raised even higher.

You wanted more visibility; we added exclusive all-glass doors. You asked for easier implement attachment; we responded with ground-level hitch control. You wanted more muscle; and we increased horsepower and durability.

Leadership never stands still, and the MAXXUM 5200 Series is still the best in the business.

Pa. Envirothon Champions Selected

TURBOTVILLE (Northumberland Co.) — The eleventh annual Pennsylvania State Envirothon was held recently here at the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company's (PP&L) Montour Preserve.

The 1994 Envirothon champions are from Parkland Senior High School in Lehigh County. Second place went to Red Lion Area Senior High School in York County. Blue Mountain High School in Schuylkill County finished third.

Teams of five students from 51 counties participated in the Envirothon, which challenges the students' knowledge in the five natural resource areas of aquatics, forestry, soil, wildlife, and current environmental issues. This year's current issue was acid rain.

In order to participate in the State Envirothon, teams had to win a local Envirothon sponsored by their county conservation district. More than 5,200 students were involved in local Envirothons this past spring.

The annual state program is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, the State Conservation Commission, and the Hershey Foods Corporation.

The Department of Environmental Resources' Bureau of Land and Water Conservation, Forestry, and Air Quality Control, the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission, the Pennsylvania Game Commission, and the United States Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service developed tests and resource materials and provided technical assistance.

Every State Envirothon participant received a certificate of participation. The state and regional winners received plaques and environmental education books. The winning team also won a white water rafting trip.

Regional awards were presented to Northern Cambria High School, Cambria County; Great Valley High School, Chester County; Lebanon Christian Academy, Lebanon County; Cowanesque Valley High School, Tioga County; Warren Area High School, Warren County; Honesdale High School, Wayne County; and Franklin Regional High School, Westmoreland County.

County teams that arrived Friday afternoon were involved in a variety of "kickoff" activities coordinated by the Montour Preserve's Jon Beam and hosted by Don Jacobs of WNEP-TV's "Pennsylvania Outdoor Life." Earl Shriver presented a Birds of Prey program to the students on Friday evening.

The 1994 State Envirothon champions from Parkland Senior High School will represent Pennsylvania at the National Envirothon planned for August 3-7 at the University of North Carolina in Asheville, N.C. Twenty-three states from across the country and a team from Nova Scotia will compete at the national level.

Ram Lamb, Ewe Sale Set

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center wishes to announce that final preparations are being made for Pennsylvania 16th Performance Tested Ram Lamb and Invitational Ewe Sale scheduled for Saturday, August 6.

This year the activities have expanded to incorporate the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association Sheep Field Day. The activities are scheduled to get under way at 9 a.m. on Saturday, August 6. There will be many informational booths set up with well-qualified people available to discuss topics on a one-to-one basis with producers and any interested people. A sampling of the booths and experts that will be available are: The Scrapie Eradication Committee, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture - Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement, Pennsylvania Sheep and Lamp Marketing Board, Pennsylvania Lamb Marketing Cooperative, Pennsylvania's Sheep and Wool Queen, and Pennsylvania's Sheep and Wool Grower's Meeting.

There will be a sheep shearing contest. There will be a trade show where sheep equipment and products will be displayed by vendors. The 4-H sheep club will also have their food booth in operation, so expect some great lamb to eat.

Pennsylvania's 16th Performance Tested Ram Lamb sale is slated to start at 3 p.m. Saturday, August 6. Attendees will be able to inspect approximately 40 of the best performance tested rams available in the Northeast. Approximately 50 outstanding ewes will be consigned by the performance-minded breeders participating in the ram test program.

Catalogs will be available upon request for the Ram and Ewe sale.

For more information, contact Glenn Eberly, Director, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16803, (814) 238-2527 or (814) 865-5857.

"IT IS TIME TO ONCE AGAIN GET SERIOUS ABOUT STORING YOUR VALUABLE FEEDS!!!"

The recent "innovations" and temporary methods of storing your grains and forages are just not protecting your feeds like they should, nor are they really efficient.

Research and practical experience has shown that "the tower silo has never been equalled in its ability to protect your forage quality." And remember..." on most dairy farms, forage quality is the single most important factor affecting profit."

Contact us soon to be sure you get on our schedule to have your poured concrete tower silo constructed in time!

No used silos!
No rebuilt silos!
No-pre-owned silos!
All New For You!

And...

MUELLER

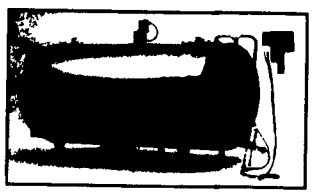
Offer

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment costs is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

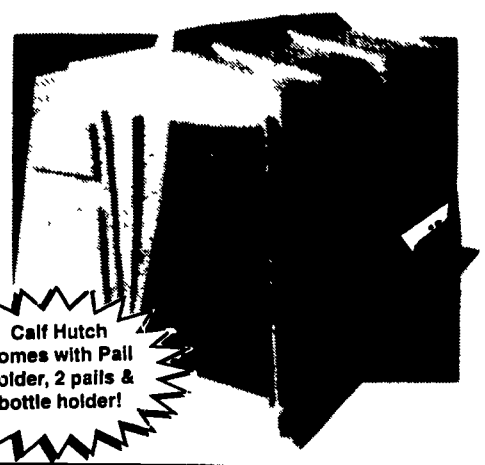
SUPREME CALF HUTCH

J&D MOLDED HIGH DENSITY-POLYETHYLENE CALF HUTCH

J&D Calf Hutches will keep calves drier in the winter, they will stay warmer and start eating at an earlier age. During the warm summer months you can use the standard, adjustable air vent to control the climate in the Calf Hutch. Your calves will be healthier and will grow faster. You may add an out door fence area to the hut.



Calf Hutch comes with Pail holder, 2 pails & bottle holder!

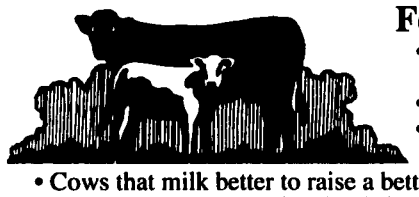
INTRODUCING...
SWEETCAKE 16NU
FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY
Sweetcake Advantages
- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy
- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef
- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf
- A higher percentage of early births
- A higher percentage of cows breeding back
- Bulls which are in better condition to cover your cows

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

Registered Highland Cattle

- Discover the breed that still retains special traits acquired from its ancestors of Scotland.
- Great foragers, clearing most pest plants common to poor pastures
- Thrive in cold, damp climates
- Produce excellent lean beef in adverse conditions where other cattle would fail
- Docile and Hearty
- Calve easily due to small birth weights—something of interest to dairy people for servicing first-calf heifers
- Brucellosis, TB, BVD free herd and inoculated against rabies

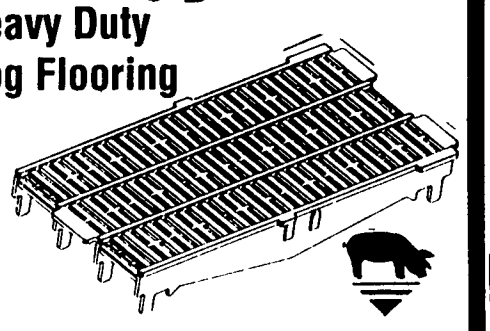
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION? ☑ CHECK OUT Polygrate™
Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.
◆ POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?
◆ More piglets survive until weaning
◆ Less splay/spraddle leg problems
◆ Heavier piglets at weaning
◆ Better conditioned sows at weaning

PUT MORE MILK IN YOUR BULK TANK WITH BREWERS WET GRAINS FROM MIRACLE

Trucked fresh right to your farm, brewers wet grains from Miracle Feeds can provide an excellent source of rumen by-pass protein. This by-pass protein is more efficiently digested and absorbed in the cow's small intestine. Helps your average cows produce more, makes your top producers even more efficient.

Now you can add McNess vitamin and mineral premixes to your Miracle rations through the accuracy of free computerized ration balancing. For more information, call toll-free 800-888-0230.

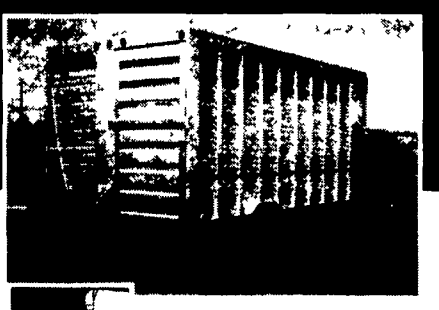
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

Robsons Host Farm-City Day

C.J. HOUGHTALING
Tioga Co. Correspondent

MANSFIELD (Tioga Co.) — High heat and humidity settled in a haze over Gray Valley Farm July 9, but that didn't stop more than 2,000 visitors from attending what has become an annual event in Tioga County known as Farm-City Day.

The farm, owned by Harold (Bud) and Leona Robson, was the fourth Farm-City Day site in as many years.

Nestled atop Pickle Hill outside of Mansfield, the farm is a pretty sight to behold with its rolling green fields, large red barn, and white board fence lining the property.

The Robsons also have plenty of well-cared-for trees and shrubs, a bountiful garden, plus a flower bed boasting a rainbow of colors. For the visitors' benefit, each plant in the garden and flower bed was identified by a little sign made for the occasion.

Several dignitaries attended Farm-City Day at Gray Valley Farm. In the opening ceremony, State Representative Matt Baker talked about the importance of agriculture to the county and its ranking in comparison with other counties throughout the state. "A good proportion of cows in the state reside in Tioga County," said Baker, citing figures to the crowd.

Baker also mentioned how dangerous working on a farm can be, which was evident with hostess Leona Robson's hand bandaged from a recent injury involving a barn fan.

He then presented a certificate of achievement to the Robsons for their participation as host and hostess for the 1994 event.

Tioga County Commissioner Walt Barnes also presented a plaque to the Robsons, and concluding the opening ceremony, Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Jennifer Grimes and Tioga County Dairy Princess Laura Fitch each welcomed the crowd to Farm-City Day.

Throughout the day the Robsons were kept busy greeting visitors entering the barn or other outbuildings and exhibits on the premises.

One of the most popular attractions at the event was the children's petting zoo. Housed in a large tent with the walls drawn up for ventilation, the petting zoo was a hands-on experience for young and old alike.

Shawn Norris, his wife Barbara, and their 1-year-old son Steve, all of Wellsboro, attended Farm-City Day with Shawn's parents Tracy and Emilie Norris of Muncy, Indiana and their friends Shigeharu and Minori Kawakami visiting from Fukuoka City, Japan. While walking around the petting zoo, Shawn explained to his foreign friends how their visit to Gray Valley Farm had turned into a learning experience even for him as he read display cards providing information about each animal in the pens. "For instance, I didn't know until now that a pig 'farrows' when she gives birth," he said.

Shigeharu, enjoying the experience, grinned broadly and said Farm-City Day was "wondrous." Tracy said the day was a totally new experience for the Japanese couple because Fukuaka City is on a small island with a population of 1,200,000. This was the first time the Kawakamis had ever seen a farm.

Next door to the petting zoo, Tom Horton and his son Mike from Towanda gave several sheep shearing demonstrations. Horton used a set of hand-cranked antique clippers to sheer the woolly beasts. Mike provided the muscle power to run the clippers.

Horton, who has been known to shear as many as 240 sheep in a day, taking as little as 42 seconds a sheep, said the machines can also be used for clipping cattle and sheering mule manes. After the demonstration, Horton threw wool over the fence for spectators to feel before his son bundled it up.

Marna MacKay of Covington and Ruth Cooper of Millerton spin wool for the onlookers.

Jennifer Giles of Mansfield visited Farm-City Day for the first time and found these little pigs to her liking at the children's petting zoo.

At the other end of the complex was an exotic animal exhibit. Jakki and Anthony Folcarelli of Mansfield brought a pair of Scottish Highlander cattle, a pair of emus, two peacocks, several black bellied barbados (sheep), three Australian black swans (protected by Henry the Goose), and a pot-bellied pig.

"The pot-bellied pigs are orphans," Folcarelli said. Once someone's pets, the pot-bellied pigs outgrew their homes and wound up being "adopted" by the Folcarellis who started collecting exotic animals "for ourselves, for fun."

Of course the Robsons had their own animal exhibit at Farm-City Day, with 56 registered Holstein and several calves in the barn.

While the size of the live cows was a bit intimidating, Brittany Lynn D'Angelo found the fiberglass model of a cow in the yard just her size. With a little help from her father, Thomas, she "rode" on its back. This was their first visit to a Farm-City Day. As Pickle Hill residents, Thomas said the deciding factor for their visit was the petting zoo and all the other animals his daughter could see.

Another mainstay of Farm-City Day was the field tours by tractor-drawn wagons. As Gray Valley Farm raises primarily hay because of soil conditions, those who went on the tour witnessed a round baler and bale wrapper in action. At the apple orchard, county extension agents Lee Hoar and Earl Robbins provided information on how to bring old fruit trees back to life by proper pruning and discussed the benefits and liabilities of the multiflower rose. Howard Rutledge, from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, was on the trail further along the tour to talk about the Robsons' conservation practices.

Rebecca Webster places second in the pedal tractor pull for 10-year-old girls.

While on the surface one exhibit, the mobile museum — World War II, Pennsylvania on the Home Front — looked out of place among all the agricultural displays, a few surprises were inside. Like a time warp 50 years into the past, the museum offered insights on what it was like for Pennsylvanians back then: the rationing of food and fuel, war bond sale drives, and even agriculture was recognized in panels showing how victory gardens provided extra food and scrap metal drives recycled such material as broken plow points.

With so much to see and do in one day, no wonder Tioga County's Farm-City Day is having an impact on neighboring Bradford and Potter counties. According to Sherri Elder, a member of the farm-city committee, "This year several persons from Bradford County attended, not only to enjoy the day but to learn from our 'expertise.' We keep telling them, it is only due to the tremendous 'team effort' that we succeed."

USDA Schedules Regional Forum On Ag, Environment

ANKENY, Iowa — U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) officials want to know what you think the most important natural resource conservation issues are on agricultural and private forest land in the northeastern United States and what federal policy makers and program administrators should do to help resolve those issues.

Organizations and individuals are invited to offer their views at a public forum on Monday, July 25, at the Inn at Reading in Reading, Pa.

"We want to hear the views of grassroots interests on what the most important natural resource management issues are and what they think should be done to deal with these issues," said Paul Johnson, chief of USDA's Soil Conservation Service (SCS).

The forum is scheduled to start at 9 a.m. It will continue through the afternoon, with a break for lunch. An informal registration begins at 8:15 a.m. There is no cost for participating in the forum.

The Reading forum is one of eight public forums that will be held across the country this summer by SCS on behalf of a USDA farm bill task force on environment and conservation. The theme of the forums is "Agriculture and the Environment: Listening to the Grassroots."

The Reading forum will include presentations by agricultural, environmental, and consumer-interest groups and individuals. These groups will be asked to offer their views on the critical conservation problems or issues on agricultural and private forest land in the region, the causes of those problems or issues, and how federal policymakers and program administrators should deal with the problems or issues.

Open-microphone periods are also planned that will give other interest-group representatives and citizens attending the forum an opportunity to offer their views as well.

A listening panel of USDA leaders from Washington, D.C. will be at the forum to respond to the presentations and other comments.

"There is tremendous public interest in soil conservation, water quality, wetlands, and other natural resource conservation issues," Johnson said. "We want to tap into the knowledge and ideas that groups and individuals involved in these issues have in setting the conservation agenda at USDA."

The Soil and Water Conservation Society (SWCS) is cooperating with SCS in organizing the forum. SWCS is an international, nonprofit organization that is known for its ability to bring diverse interests together on natural resource management and agricultural conservation issues.

More information about the forum can be obtained by calling SWCS headquarters tollfree at (800) THE SOIL, ext. 14 or 22.

Those who cannot attend the forum but wish to offer USDA their comments and ideas should write "Listening Project," Soil and Water Conservation Society, 7515 Northeast Ankeny Road, Ankeny, IA 50021-9764.

Control May Radically Reduce Pesticide Use

NEWARK, Del.— A new toxic bait that uses a feeding stimulant to attract rootworm beetles would allow farmers to reduce pesticide applications to control this important crop pest by 99 percent. The catch is ensuring that the beetles don't become resistant to the product.

Dr. Douglas Tallamy, an insect behaviorist in the department of entomology and applied ecology at the University of Delaware, is screening the beetles for their ability to develop genetic resistance to cucurbitacins, the attractant being used. His research is supported in part by a Delaware Research Partnership grant from Microflo Company and the state of Delaware.

Cucurbitacins are extremely bitter compounds found in gourds, squash, cucumbers and other members of the cucurbit family. These compounds apparently have the same sort of appeal for rootworms that chocolate has for many people.

The bait consists of small amounts of cucurbitacins incorporated into starch granules along with a small amount of pesticide. When the granules are applied on a field, rootworm beetles leave the crop they're feeding on to gobble up the bait. Other animals and beneficial insects won't tough it.

Chemical companies spend millions of dollars to develop, test and register a new pesticide. But if the largest insect develops genetic resistance to it, the manufacturers may never recover their investment.

The developers of this promising bait want to be sure this doesn't happen. So before investing heavily in the product, they enlisted Tallamy's help.

To answer their questions, he is studying the response of six different rootworm species to cucurbitacins.

"We're quantifying each species' response to measure its sensitivity to cucurbitacins," Tallamy said. "If there's a lot of genetic variation in the responses, judicious use of the bait and adjustments in its cucurbitacin content can slow the developoment of resistance. If we find very little genetic variation, the companies can use this fact as a selling point for their product."

More than 1,500 species of rootworm beetle exist worldwide. In the United States alone, adults and larvae of southern, western, and northern corn rootworms cause an estimated $1 billion a year in yield loss and insecticide costs in corn and other crops. The adult beetles also spread bacterial wilt disease in a number of high-value cucurbit crops.

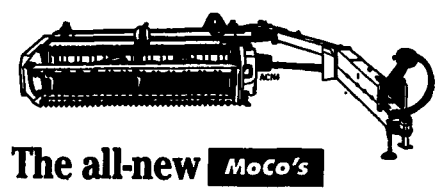
NOBODY DOES HAY BETTER



The all-new MoCo's

- An all-new three-point suspension system provides unmatched flotation.
- Redesigned guards and a 5-bar reel help the all-new sicklebar machine cut better – and six inches wider – than anything in it's class.
- Two new rotary disk models feature the all-new, John Deere-built modular cutterbar. It's stronger than anything else on the market.
- An exclusive Power-Cushion helps prevent the driveline from bottoming out during tight turns.

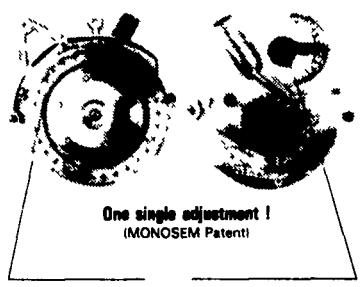
MONOSEM PRECISION PLANTER To Our Proudct Lineup

A new generation of planters ahead of its time

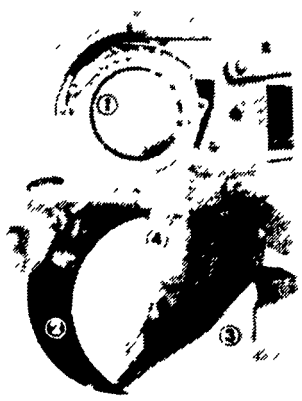


One single adjustment !
(MONOSEM Patent)

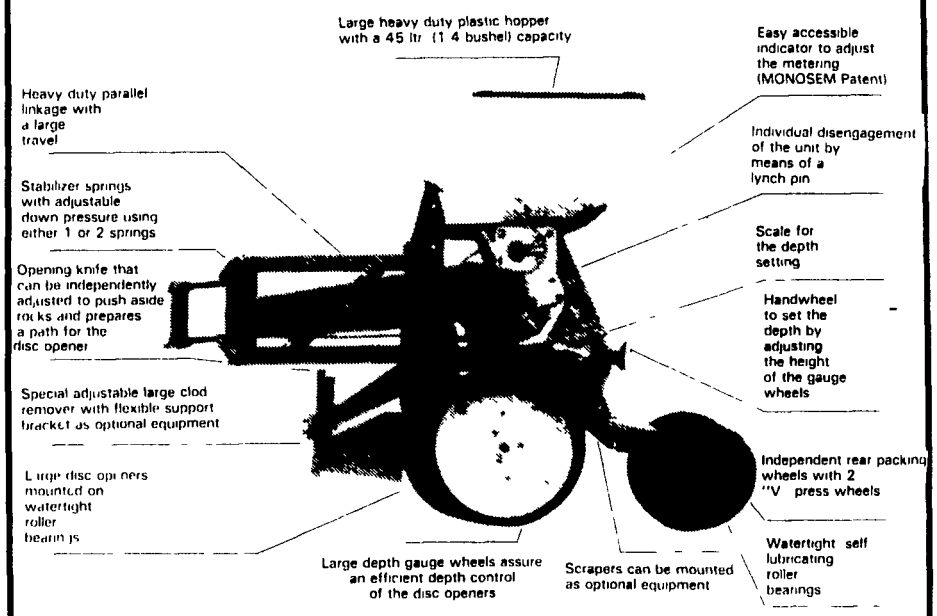
To set the height of the meter scraper

To proportion the air suction to the weight of the seed

The original concept that makes the difference



The "Plus" of the planting unit



Large heavy duty plastic hopper with a 45 ltr (1 4 bushel) capacity
Easy accessible indicator to adjust the metering (MONOSEM Patent)
Heavy duty parallel linkage with a large travel
Individual disengagement of the unit by means of a lynch pin
Stabilizer springs with adjustable down pressure using either 1 or 2 springs
Scale for the depth setting
Opening knife that can be independently adjusted to push aside rocks and prepares a path for the disc opener
Handwheel to set the depth by adjusting the height of the gauge wheels
Special adjustable large clod remover with flexible support bracket as optional equipment
Large disc openers mounted on watertight roller bearings
Independent rear packing wheels with 2 "V" press wheels
Large depth gauge wheels assure an efficient depth control of the disc openers
Scrapers can be mounted as optional equipment
Watertight self lubricating roller bearings

Best Buys in Used Equipment

Now is the best time to buy a Hoober Reconditioned Axial Flow Combine!

Don Carper Says,

Five Reasons Why To Buy Now!

1. Hoober Reconditioned Combines go to the field and work because they have been repaired by Hoober's Combine Service Specialists.
2. All Hoober Reconditioned Combines carry a Hoober Warranty for the 1994 combine year.
3. There is a large selection of late model Axial Flow Combines from which to choose - many with LOW HOURS.
4. Axial Flow Combines put higher quality grain in the tank than conventional combines.
5. Hoober's Parts Department stocks combine parts - so if you need parts, we have 'em.

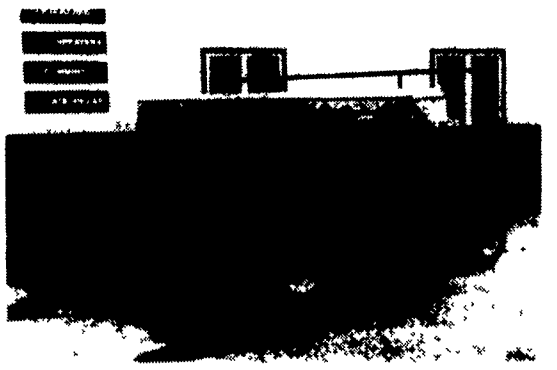
KRAUSE NO-TILL DRILLS Seed it!

- The 5213-13' seeding width is the widest seeding. LEGAL TRANSPORT width drill that can be sold in Pennsylvania
- You can plant No-Till or Conventional with a Krause No-Till Drill!



5215N No-Till Drill

Models available
5210 - 10 feet, 16 x 7.5
5213 - 13 feet, 21 x 7.5
5215 - 15 feet, 24 x 7.5

Here's what owners of the Krause NO-Til Drill are saying about its performance in their operations:

"Last year when I bought it, I was concerned about penetration and seed depth control. But the Krause drill has excellent penetration. I love the job it does. It also saves a lot of time, especially with the late spring we had."

Bob Oswald
Nazareth, PA

"We like the Krause NO-Till Drill. It produces excellent stands of small grain and soybeans."

Dick Breckbill
Oxford, PA

"See Me at the Lebanon Fair!

Larry Herr

"The Krause NO-TIL Drill met my needs. It will penetrate hard ground, even in stones. The Hoober hitch innovation works."

Charles Beaver
Millerstown, PA

● Hesston Model 4550 - 14" x 18" Square Baler

The economical Model 4550 is Hesston's new entry in the square bale market. Thanks to the exclusive "Centerline Design," this new baler builds the straightest, squarest bales possible. And since it employs Hesston's preformed flake concept, leaves are saved and uniformly distrubited throughout the bale.

The low profile pipckup sweeps windrows clean with less disturbance of the crop and the low profile of the 4550 gives the operator excellent visibility.

The optional hydraulic powered bale thrower saves time and labor. You control direction and distance from the tractor seat so your trailer can be filled side-to-side and front-to-rear. Bales can also be dropped without detaching thrower.

The model 4550 is brought to you by Hesston. See it at your dealer now!

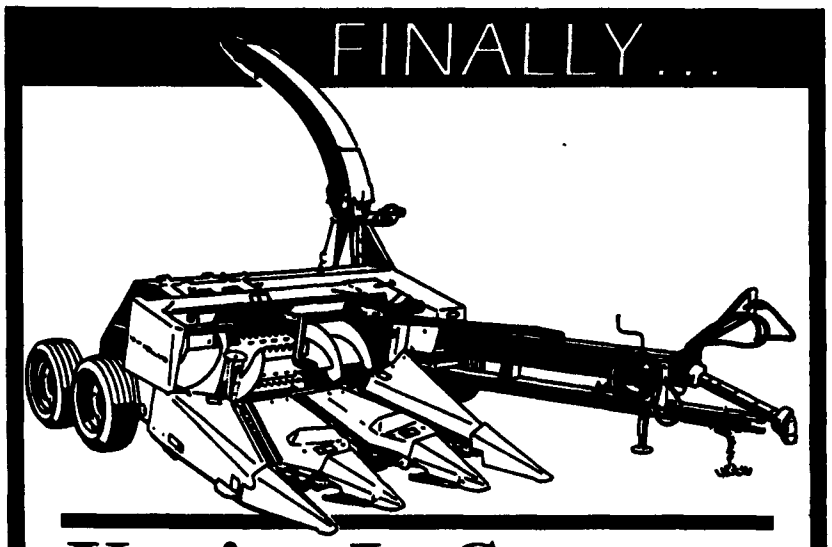
FINALLY...



YOU'RE IN CONTROL

The Model 900 forage harvester puts you in control of your harvest:

- Rugged 21-inch, 12-knife cutterhead for a uniform chop.
- Exclusive flip-up feedrolls provide convenient access to the shearbar and smooth roll scraper.
- Electromagnetic clutches provide instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Optional Metalert® 11 metal detector protects cutterhead and your valuable animals.

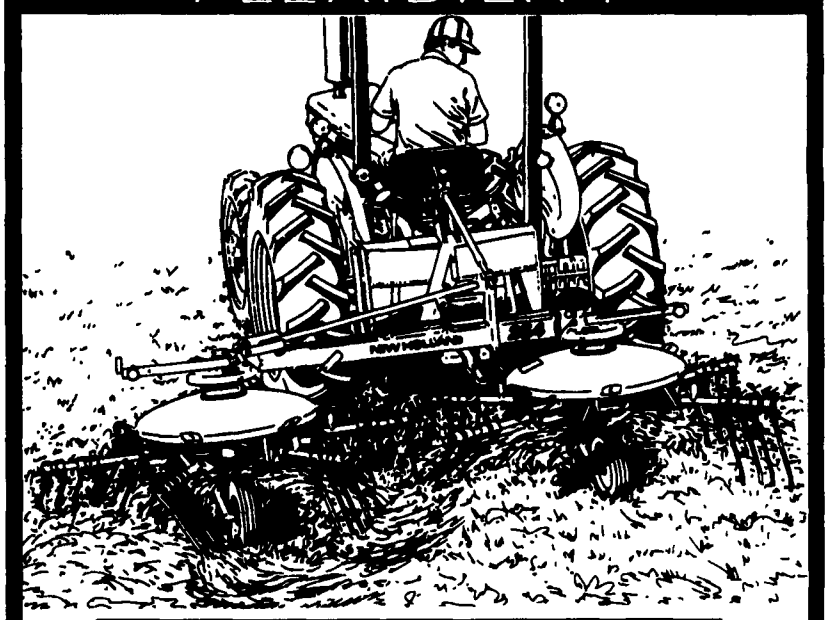
FLEXIBILITY



THE TEDDER THAT RAKES

Now, you can rake and ted with the same machine—the New Holland Model 254 rake tedder. The Model 254 lets you perform a variety of haymaking functions...rake a swath into a windrow, rake two windrows into one, turn windrows, and move crop away from treelines and fences. And, without tools you can convert the Model 254 into a tedder that will fluff up wet, matted-down crop for quick drying.

Stop in today. Let us show you the flexibility of the New Holland Model 254 rake tedder...only from Ford New Holland.

Level your fields without leveling your combine.

The brilliantly simple Dynamic Hillside Compensation System, optional on MF 8400 conventional combines, gives you "flat land" performance on slopes up to 20 degrees. All automatically. And all at a surprisingly low cost. Stop in today for all the details.

Without Hillside System, crops overload the lower side of the sieve, causing high losses and low sample quality.

PLOW BIG SAVINGS ON GENUNINE GARRETT TURBOS

Don't miss this opportunity to plow some big savings on Genuine Garrett Factory Remanufactured turbochargers. Your Authorized Garrett Distributor Penn Diesel Service should have a turbocharger or cartridge that fits your tractor, combine, or other farm equipment. If it's a turbocharged Ag engine, there's most likely a Garrett turbo on it. Look at the following list of OE's There's a reason why they specify Garrett turbochargers for their engines

- Allis Chalmers
- Deutz Allis
- Fiat Allis
- Ford
- International Harvester
- J I Case
- John Deere
- Massey Ferguson
- Navistar
- Perkins

For those same reasons, when it's time for a replacement trubo, it's time for Genuine Garrett. All Genuine Garrett turbochargers are remanufactured to original equipment specifications at the Garrett factory. It's your assurance of original equipment quality and performance with a warranty that matches the new turbo. Genuine Garrett turbochargers are remanufactured with this same high quality parts as new and reengineered for the most recent upgrades and refinements to maintain the exact performance characteristics into the original turbo. For more information on Genuine Garrett Factory Reman Turbos, see your local Garrett Distributor or call or write:

JOHN DEERE BALERS DELIVER CONSISTENCY, CONSISTENTLY

Building "square-er," stackable, solid bales is what our proven hay control system is all about.

Once hay is inside the baler, a continuous-flow, floating auger moves the crop into a tapered chamber... precompressing the hay before it reaches the bale chamber. This makes John Deere bales denser, and more consistent. A difference you'll notice when stacking and feeding bale after John Deere bale.

Model 338 Mid Size Baler
With ¼ Turn Chute
Sale Price $10,850.00 (1 Only)

JOHN DEERE...THE FASTEST MOVING BALERS AROUND

Why do more people choose John Deere balers? Because John Deere balers are easy to use and they deliver the best bales. Bales that hold their shape, and quality.

And they deliver quality bales in tough crops and conditions, too. Just customize your John Deere baler with one or more of these productivity options.

Safe • Efficient • Durable

Look at what makes the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace a great purchase...
CLEAN. All dirt, dust, fuel and fire is outside No chance of chimney fire or flue fire ELIMINATES AIR POLLUTION IN THE HOME. Smoke, fuel odors and other causes of allergies are outside the home
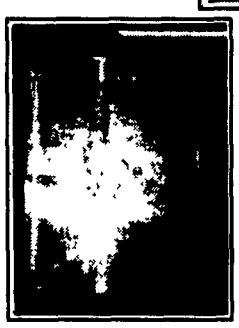
SAFE FOR MOBILE HOMES. Eliminates danger that other furnaces contained in a mobile home can cause
NO DANGER OR EXPLOSION. This is a zero pressure furnace.
ENCLOSED COMPONENTS. The circulation pumps and electrical connections are enclosed in an insulated cabinet on the back of the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace
ADAPTABLE. Install our furnace in any forced air heating or hot water system

All Mahoning Units Come Installed with Grates Including An External Shaker Handle

★ The only outdoor furnace made with a Catalytic Combustor. ★

Mahoning Catalytic Combustor Will Help In the Following Ways:
1. Burn one cord of wood which equals 166 gallons of oil.
2. Your fuel source becomes enormous inexhaustible and poses few risks to public safety.
3. Over all efficiency of 85%, which means the heat no longer goes up the chimney!
4. You get more heat from a log compared to the non-cat furnace.
5. More burn time - less reloading time!
6. Zap 90% of pollutants, made from fire source.
7. Saves you a lot of money!
8. User friendly, emits no smoke!



All Mahoning Multi-Fuels Can Burn Coal, Wood, Oil, Propane, Natural Gas

Proudly Built in Clearfield County, Pennsylvania

CUSTOMER SATISFACTION

SMOKEY HOLLOW FARM
NEW FREEDOM, PA

In April 1994, Claude Cooper and Sons began feeding Purina from dealer R.D. Bowman & Sons of Westminster, MD. The ration normally consists of Corn Silage, Alfalfa Haylage, Timothy or Alfalfa Hay and Super-EXT. The RHA as of 7-7-94 is 20,554 milk, 721 Lb. fat and 637 Lb. pro w/ 3.1% pro.

DHIA RECORDS

	MILK LBS	FAT	PRO.	DIM	150D. ADT
5-3-94	65.5	3.6	3.1	214	66.8
6-3-94	68.1	3.4	3.1	219	69.3
7-7-94	66.6	3.5	3.0	222	66.8

COMMENTS:

- Cows took to Super-EXT better than we counted on with a change in feeds.
- Body condition is holding real well even with our decreasing days in milk.
- We are also seeing higher peaks and more persistency with Super-EXT.

Thanks to the Coopers of Smokey Hollow Farm for sharing their records and comments.
